TUBE TIEUP IS SPREADING

Railway Clerks' Walkout Is Averted by Recognition of Their Union.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 5.—The Daily Chronicle says it understands that a further meeting of the Cabinet was held last night to consider the labor situation, and that as a result the Government contemplates taking immediate action, the nature of which is not specified.

In the confused record of yesterday's labor developments one new complication was averted. The Railway Clerks' Association secured "recognition" from the Government, and the threatened strike by its members, which would have dislocated traffic on the big main-line railway systems, has been averted.

On the other hand, the London tube strike extended to the District Railway, not because the District Railway employes decided to cease work, but because a strike by a comparatively few electrical workers at the system's generating station shut off the electric power. The case is one more illustration of the enormous power wielded under the conditions of modern industry by very small groups of workers.

The tube railways normally carry about 500,000 passengers daily. This vast public is deprived of transit without warning because a few hundred workmen decided that it should be so, and the same thing applies to the district railway, which carries some hundreds of thousands of people every day.

The strike, which has paralyzed London's elaborate underground railway system, is not supported by the men's principal organization, the National Union of Railway Men, but has the support of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, which has 4,300 members. The Secretary of this society has declared that unless "more honorable treatment" is given a national strike on all the railways will be called in a few hours.

One of the complaints made by the members of the society is that some of the electric railway systems affected by the strike are attempting to relieve the situation by substituting steam trains, and it was stated that all steam engine drivers on these lines are being called out.

Electricians' Demand Refused.

The threat of the Electrical Trades Union to close down London factories and shut off the capital's street lighting seems nearer fulfillment. An interview between the men's deputation and the Ministry of Labor is said to have been unsatisfactory, and an announcement issued by that Ministry in reply to the electrical engineers' demand for Government intervention in the Glasgow, Belfast, and London disputes declares that the circumstances do not justify such a course of action.

There is, however, a brighter side of the question in the attitude taken by the Electrical Power Engineers' Association, which numbers some 700 members in London and about 3,000 in the whole kingdom. This body unanimously passed a resolution expressing the view that the proposed strike was a blow aimed at trade unionism and the Government and calling on all its engineers to do their utmost to maintain the supply of electricity.

An official of the society said he was confident that its members, if they could secure sufficient labor, could keep all of London's power stations going.

It is stated that in the event of a general strike of electrical workers steps have been taken by the authorities to maintain the postal, telegraph, and telephone systems. A Government official pointed out that under the defense of the realm regulations the authorities had power which would enable them to maintain a fairly efficient service.

In the event of a breakdown in the transport system the Ministry of Food has already made arrangements to insure adequate distribution of food supplies. A host of motor lorries is standing by to fill the breach immediately on any serious disorganization of traffic.

German Societies Organized to 'Save Kaiser' from Allies

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4.—Societies to "save the Kaiser" from being handed over to the Allies are being organized in Germany, according to the Volks Zeitung of Osnabruck.

Eitel Friedrich, second son of the former Emperor, is said to have written a letter to Premier Ebert demanding that the Government assist in the plan.

COSTIGAN DEMOTED ON ENRIGHT ORDER

Foe of the Vicious Reduced from East Side Inspector to Captain in Beach Street.

NO SURPRISE TO FRIENDS

"Honest Dan" in Disfavor, They Say, Ever Since Hylan Administration Took Office.

Police Inspector Daniel E. Costigan was relieved from duty as head of the First Inspection District yesterday afternoon and assigned, with the reduced rank of Captain, to the command of the Beach Street Station, Manhattan. The chief reason ascribed by Commissioner Enright for his action in demoting Costigan was that he was compelled to do so by the police budget.

"I have one inspector over the number allowed by the budget, and that is one of the reasons I have reduced Costigan," was the only comment he would make.

Costigan is the fifth inspector to be reduced by Commissioner Enright. The others were Frank A. Tierney, John J. Collins, Richard O'Connor and Charles S. Meade. In their places Commissioner Enright appointed William J. Kennelly, Charles A. Formoso, Thomas F. Underhill and William A. Coleman. The Beach Street Station, to which Costigan has been assigned, is relatively unimportant. His chief duty will consist of watching the empty trucks stored along the "farms" on the West Street waterfront. The only comment he would make last night was: "It's happened before."

No Surprise, It Is Said.

Following the announcement of Costigan's reduction, it was said that there was rejoicing on the east side among gamblers and bookmakers. Among those familiar with police politics it was said that his demotion caused no surprise, as it has been known for a long time that he has been in disfavor with the present régime. Costigan, it was said, has long been noted for his independence, and that ever since the Hylan administration took office it was expected that efforts would be made to force him into the background.

One recent incident mentioned as having aroused animosity against Costigan was told by his friends. This had to do with a meeting of inspectors and Captains called by Deputy Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis several weeks ago, ostensibly to discuss plans for raising funds for the Victory Arch.

According to Costigan's friends, Commissioner Wallis left the meeting in charge of Chief Inspector John Daly. The business for which the meeting had been called having been transacted, Inspector Daly suggested that it was an opportune time to take up the matter of a wedding present for Commissioner Enright, who had just been married.

Inspector Daly, it was said, told the assembled police officers that while he supposed some of the men might desire to make individual gifts, still there might be others who favored the idea of making one gift in their behalf. He asked, it was said, that if there was any objection, for those opposed to stand up. Costigan, it was said, was the only one among the Inspectors and Captains to arise. And after an exchange of glares, it was reported that the Chief Inspector said: "It seems to be unanimous."

After the meeting adjourned, according to Costigan's friends, several of those present said they would have liked to follow his example, but were afraid to do so, and congratulated him on his stand. Commissioner Enright himself, however, vetoed the police gift plan on his return to the city from his honeymoon.

District Attorney's Protest.

Costigan's vice squad gained fame throughout the city for its work in scotching various forms of unlawful doings in the Tenderloin, on the east side, and elsewhere. Then the vice squad was dispersed, and attention was first drawn to this by District Attorney Swann. Mr. Swann also conferred with Commissioner Enright on the subject. He said at that time that the demotion of the members of the vice squad, coming when it did, was "a very unfortunate incident." He said he wanted Costigan, and that he stood squarely back of him.

"If Costigan is provided with a roving commission," District Attorney Swann said, "no Inspector of Police will be able to give immunity to any gambler and no one—corrupt police official or gambler—will know at what minute to expect a call from him. Still, I am not going to assume that anybody is wrong, but that the only difference of opinion is in regard to method."

At one time during the war Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, made a direct request to Mayor Hylan for the services of Inspector Costigan. Mayor Hylan referred the request to Commissioner Enright. Inspector Costigan filed application for leave of absence and took his annual vacation, believing that his request would be granted. He went to Washington, where he spent his vacation in the office of the Shipping Board working out a police protection system for the shipyards that were turning out vessels to help win the war. On his return to New York Costigan was refused the leave of absence sought.

Costigan won the sobriquet of "Honest Dan" many years ago because of his fearlessness. He joined the police force in 1889. He figured prominently in the Rosenthal murder investigation and other big police cases. He is 51 years old, married, and lives at 990 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx.

Other changes announced yesterday by Commissioner Enright were as follows:

Inspector William Boettler, transferred from the Tenth Inspection District to the First District, made vacant by Costigan's demotion; Captain Michael J. Reidy of the Beach Street Station, transferred to the Sixth Avenue Station, Brooklyn; Captain Bernard J. Hayes of the Sixth Avenue Station, which is in Commissioner Enright's home district, made Acting Inspector and placed in command of the Tenth Inspection District.

Berlin Rejects Terms to Which the Rebels Assented and Sends an Ultimatum.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 3, (via Copenhagen.)—The People's Commissioners left for Weimar this morning accompanied to the railway station by thousands of their supporters and a guard of honor. Premier Ebert thanked the soldiers for defending Berlin so effectively, expressing the hope that in the absence of the Commissioners they would preserve order in the capital.

Die Rote Fahne, which had been suppressed since Spartacus week, again appeared in Berlin this morning in its old form. It declares that there will not be any coups in the capital for some weeks, perhaps months, until the proletariat has been convinced that only when allied with the Spartacides and the Soldiers and Workers' Councils will it be able to resume the dictatorship in Germany.

Until that time the paper begs its partisans to desist from riots, but it openly threatens the Government with sanguinary revenge and general terror as soon as the Spartacus element has recovered its strength. The proletariat, it sets forth, need not be afraid that events in Weimar during the next few months will be allowed to decide Germany's fate.

Weimar Soviet Subdued.

The latest reports from Weimar are that the situation is now completely in the Government's hands. It is stated that only fifteen men were disarmed by the local Soldiers' Council there and that two officers were arrested. When members of the Soldiers' Council tried the same coup on a company of 200 men arriving at the station they were driven off and their barracks surrounded. The choice was then given to them either to fight or deliver their arms to the Government troops.

After some deliberation the Council decided on the latter course and was then expelled from its own quarters, which were taken possession of by the Government troops. One young Spartacide, who had assumed control of the District Governor's office, was arrested.

It may be mentioned that a few weeks ago several members of the Weimar Soldiers' Council, taught the former Grand Duke Wilhelm a lesson. Wilhelm had come to visit Weimar from his country seat in the neighborhood one sunny day. As he passed

$200,000,000,000 Estimated as Direct Cost of the War

LONDON, Feb. 4, (British Wireless Service.)—The direct cost of the war is estimated at £40,000,000,000 in a special article in The Daily Telegraph today. The author estimates the indirect cost of diminished trade and of financial disturbance at £50,000,000,000.

"Vast sums," he says, "have been used for sheer destruction and vast public debts have been incurred for which there is no corresponding property. Throughout two-thirds of the world the work of useful production has been suspended during four years and its place has been taken by the slaughter of human lives and the annihilation of accumulated wealth."

PALMER SLATED TO ENTER CABINET

Property Custodian Likely to Succeed Gregory as Attorney General.

TODD ALSO IN THE RACE

But President Is Said to Have Decided Against Appointing a Southerner.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—There is every probability that A. Mitchell Palmer will be nominated by President Wilson to be Attorney General in succession to Thomas Watt Gregory, who recently resigned.

The statement was made in a well-informed quarter tonight that the selection had narrowed down to Mr. Palmer and George Carroll Todd, who is now assistant to the Attorney General, with every indication that Mr. Palmer would receive the appointment from the President.

Mr. Palmer, who was formerly a member of Congress from Pennsylvania, has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee since 1912, and was mentioned for Attorney General when President Wilson formed his original Cabinet. At that time it was understood that the President was ready to appoint Mr. Palmer to be Secretary of War, a post which Mr. Palmer did not care to take. In the Spring of 1915 the President appointed Mr. Palmer to be a Judge of the United States Court of Claims, which he held until the Fall of 1917, when the President appointed Mr. Palmer to be Alien Property Custodian.

For a while Sherman Leland Whipple of Boston was considered for the appointment, but it was said tonight that he has been virtually eliminated, and that Mr. Palmer would probably receive the appointment, his closest contender at this time being Mr. Todd, who has been Attorney General Gregory's candidate for the position.

Mr. Todd is a native of Virginia, and has been identified with the work of the Department of Justice since 1902. For three years after that date he was with the department here, engaged in proceedings under the Anti-Trust act. He moved to New York in 1905, and was later special assistant to the Attorney General in proceedings under the Sherman act and the commodities clause of the Interstate Commerce act against the anthracite railroads, also in proceedings leading to the final decree in the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger case.

President Wilson appointed Mr. Todd as assistant to the Attorney General in August, 1903, and he has been the "trust buster" of the present Administration, in charge under the Attorney General, of the enforcement of the Sherman law.

At the outset of the consideration of a successor for Mr. Gregory it was decided that a Southern man would not be appointed, and this is understood to be a bar to the serious consideration of Swagar Sherley of Kentucky, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, who was strongly recommended for the Attorney Generalship.

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 4.—A decree issued by the Central Soviet of Moscow has called to the colors all men between the ages of 29 and 45 years.

The men will be ordered to prosecute the war in case the proposed conference on the Island of Prinkipo fails.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The Russian Soviet Governmnet will take "all measures" to bring about an agreement with the Entente, according to a wireless message sent out from Moscow on Sunday.

It complains that the Bolshevist authorities have received no "formal invitation" to Princes' Islands conference, the only word regarding it being a wireless message "containing press news." The text of the message, which was addressed "To Berlin, Paris, and everywhere," reads:

"M. Tchitcherin, the People's Commissary for Foreign Affairs, has made it known to the College of Peoples' Commissaries that he had received a wireless message containing press news, according to which the Entente at Paris had proposed to the different Governments of Russia a conference at the Princes' Islands. The People's Commissary added that no formal invitation to the Conference had arrived from the Entente. All measures will be taken to bring about an agreement with the Entente."

President Wilson had nothing to do with the transmission of the reply of M. Longuet to Bolshevist Foreign Minister Tchitcherin concerning Bolshevist participation in the proposed Princes' Islands conference, according to M. Longuet's newspaper Populaire. M. Longuet had received a semi-official statement from the Bolshevist Government concerning the conference, and the French Government refused to permit the use of its wireless in sending a reply.

"The refusal of the French Government," says the article, "to allow us to communicate freely with Russia compelled us to use another form of transmission without being compelled to undergo the censorship which we combat.

"Whose fault is it if a press wireless is sent from Paris to New York that it is also received by all wireless stations, including that at Tsarkoe Selo?"

David R. Francis, American Ambassador to Russia, who was recently summoned from London to Paris by Paul Dutasta, Secretary of the Peace Conference, and has held conferences here with Secretary of State Lansing and General Tasker H. Bliss on Russian problems, probably will be called upon soon by the Supreme Council to aid the committee which will discuss Russian affairs.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 4.—In their advance from Dvinsk the Bolsheviki have captured Vilkomir, forty-five miles north-northwest of Vilna, the capital of Lithuania, according to a report from Vilna.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Bolshevist forces are now masters of almost the whole Eastern Ukraine, including the important centres of Kharkov, Poltava, Ekaterinoslav, and the Konetz mining region, according to a Helsingfors dispatch to The Mail. It is reported that a Soviet Government has been established at Kharkov, the President being M. Rakovsky, one of the signatories to the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Germany.

ARCHANGEL, Feb. 3, (Associated Press.)—Advices to the Allied Intelligence Department reveal some of the methods by which the Bolsheviki have been able to organize their army in such a way as to make possible the carrying on of a strong campaign in Northern Russia.

The principle of these methods, according to information received from the interior, lies in compelling the Generals and staff officers in the old Russian Army to serve the Bolsheviki by holding their families as hostages for the officers' conduct. Cases have occurred of officers' families being placed under close arrest, the women being treated as badly as the men.

The position of former Russian officers in the ranks of the Soviet Army is extremely difficult. They occupy posts as commanding officers and are trusted in

GREAT AND SMALL POWERS DIVIDED ON LEAGUE EXECUTIVE AND TRIBUNAL; DOMINANCE OF GREAT POWERS FEARED

Britain and America Speed Up the Conference Work; May Settle Some Peace Terms Before Wilson Leaves

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—The progress made by the Peace Conference Committees, as an outcome of the energetic Anglo-American campaign for quicker action, has strengthened the hope among the most optimistic delegates that the League of Nations may be established, and that even certain peace terms may be settled before President Wilson leaves for the United States.

The President and Premier Lloyd George are understood to be agreed that there should be no further delay, and they are urging speed.

Some opposition is being encountered in some quarters, but the general sentiment of the delegates who have expressed themselves is for prompt action.

SENATE ORDERS REDS HERE INVESTIGATED

MASS OF EVIDENCE AT HAND

Walsh, Borah, and Others Attack Congressmen Who Attended a Soviet Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, which, under the chairmanship of Senator Overman of North Carolina, has been investigating German propaganda in this country, was instructed by unanimous vote of the Senate this afternoon immediately to begin an investigation of Bolshevism and all other forms of anti-American radicalism in the United States. The resolution was offered by Senator Walsh of Montana and covers every phase of the radical propaganda which is now being preached in various parts of the country.

Major E. Lowry Humes, who has handled the investigation of the German propaganda, will direct the investigation of Bolshevism. Major Humes said tonight that he hoped to be ready to call the first witnesses Thursday or Friday.

The Walsh resolution passed by the Senate reads as follows:

Resolved, That the authority of the Committee on the Judiciary conferred by Senate Resolution 307 be and hereby is extended so as to include the power and duty to inquire concerning any efforts being made to propagate in this country the principles of any party exercising or claiming to exercise any authority in Russia, whether such efforts originate in this country or are financed from abroad, and further to inquire into any effort to incite the overthrow of the Government of this country or all government by force, or by the destruction of life or property, or the general cessation of industry.

The action of the Senate was hastened as a result of several radical meetings recently held in this city and also by a speech delivered yesterday by Senator Thomas of Colorado, who said that there was a powerful organization at work in this country to overthrow the present American system of Government.

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, in supporting the Walsh resolution, said he was confident that Bolshevism would have no force in this country once the evil was understood by the rank and file of Americans. Senator Borah of Idaho, in his remarks, referred to the meeting held in a theatre Sunday night at which Congressman Mason of Illinois was one of the speakers.

"I am informed that at the meeting held in a theatre Sunday," said Senator Borah, "among the things advocated was the overthrow of our form of Government and the substitution in its place of a form of government known as the Soviet Government. It is but fair to say that the statement has been made to me that so far as the advocacy of the overthrow of our Government was concerned no such doctrine was preached at that meeting; that it was a defense of the Soviet Government in Russia under conditions and surroundings which confront the people of that country. But if the propaganda which seems to have been fathered at that meeting be the beginning of a movement in this country we may well consider how we are to meet such a serious situation."

Senator Overman called Senator Borah's attention to a bill which is in Congress to repeal the Espionage law. Senator Overman said that other laws must be placed on the statute books to deal with Bolshevism if the Espionage act was repealed. Senator Borah said that he did not regard the Espionage act as effective.

"I am opposed to Bolshevism," he said, "whether it is in tatters and rags or whether it is clothed in broadcloth. It is wholly immaterial to me from what source the attack comes upon the American Republic. These men may be hammering and battering away with a pick-axe and dynamite at one pillar of the republic, while other men in more powerful places are battering and hammering away at other pillars of the republic."

The Soviet Government has its enthusiasts throughout the land and throughout the world, but who in this hour is preaching Americanism and the great fundamental principles of Americanism in this country? They held a meeting at the Poli Theatre. The League to Enforce Peace will begin its campaign in Boston on the 6th day of February, and if they succeed they will ultimately land us precisely where the Bolshevists would land us, and that is under the control of internationalism. They would tear down the fundamental principles of this republic just as successfully in the end and just as efficiently as the men who met at the Poli Theatre."

Immediately following the passage of the resolution the committee which will direct the investigation went into executive session. The committee comprises Senators Overman, Nelson, King, Sterling, and Wolcott.

Tomorrow Major Humes will confer with Secretary Baker, and he is expected to request that the entire evidence in the possession of the Government regarding radical propaganda be turned over to the committee. A member of the committee said tonight that he was certain Secretary Baker would give the information asked. The report referred to is said to be one of the most complete ever compiled by the War Department.

OFFERS THREE WAYS TO SETTLE DISPUTES

Modified League Plan Would Let Nations Choose Arbitration, Mediation, or Inquiry.

BOYCOTT STILL AVAILABLE

While Resort to Force Is Not Barred if Majority of League Members Favor It.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The League of Nations Commission is understood to have modified the provision for compulsory arbitration contained in the draft of the League program under consideration, so as to leave any nation free to determine whether to submit its dispute with another to arbitration, mediation, or an inquiry—one of which must be chosen.

An early report that the provision for compulsory arbitration had been entirely eliminated caused depression among Americans here, although they were inclined to believe that if such arbitration were prescribed in the constitution of the League as finally adopted by the Conference the Senate would not sanction it.

It was pointed out by some of those who credited the first report that several alternative means of adjusting disputes might be employed—such, for example, as a tribunal of conciliation and mediation—and that there was nothing to prevent the League from employing an economic boycott or even resorting to force if any nation should refuse to abide by the League's judgment. As has been stated in these dispatches, the proposed constitution does not permit a majority of the League to insist that any nation join in a general resort to force unless it so elects.

The Japanese representatives have abandoned their silence, and now give assurance that they are in accord with the principles of the League, and will join the new world organization.

GREEK CLAIMS SENT TO EXPERT COMMISSION

Supreme Council So Rules After Hearing Venizelos — Two Americans Are Members.

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council at today's meeting at the Foreign Office agreed that questions in the statement of Premier Venizelos concerning Greek territorial interests should be referred to a commission of experts, including Americans, to make recommendations for a settlement.

The official statement on the proceedings of the council reads:

The President of the United States, the Prime Ministers and Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy, and Japan met this morning at the Quai d'Orsay from 11 to 1 o'clock. M. Venizelos made a statement regarding Greek territorial interests in Asia Minor.

The following resolution was approved:

"It is agreed that the questions raised in the statement by M. Venizelos on the Greek territorial interests in the peace settlement shall be referred for examination in the first instance to an expert committee composed of two representatives each of the United States of America, the British Empire, France, and Italy. It shall be the duty of this committee to reduce the questions for decision within the narrowest possible limit and make recommendations for a just settlement. The committee is authorized to consult with the representatives of the peoples concerned."

The next meeting will take place tomorrow, Wednesday, Feb. 5, at 3 P. M., when the Czechoslovak delegates will be heard.

Foreign Minister Sonnino of Italy and Premier Venizelos have been in conference in an effort to settle the conflicting ambitions of Italy and Greece, particularly with reference to the claims of Greece to islands in the Aegean Sea. It is understood that Italy would be willing to turn over to Greece the islands in the Aegean which Italy took from Turkey in the Tripolitan war, if Italy, in turn, should receive mandatory power for part of Asia Minor. Italy, it is understood, would like to have this power for the vilayet of Adalia.

TWO DIVERSE PROPOSALS

One Gives Small Nations 9 on Executive Branch to Large Nations' 10.

OTHER EXCLUDES SMALL

Allows Them Representation Only When Special Interests Are Concerned.

TRIBUNAL ALSO CHANGED

Revised Plan Would Make the Large Powers Judges of International Issues.

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson presided tonight over the Commission of the Society of Nations, which had before it the completed project for constituting the League, discussing it article by article. While there is no authoritative information concerning the details of the project, the distribution of printed drafts among the members has disclosed the main features, and these can be summarized as follows:

Two main plans have been presented, which the members of the commission regard as embodying the American views, though both plans are composite, containing the best features from various sources—American, British, French, and Italian.

Both plans are being considered together. In its original form the first plan is generally considered more democratic and therefore more acceptable to the small powers, whereas the revised plan is not so acceptable to the small powers, as it eliminates them from the executive branch of the proposed organization and is a long step toward the creation of an international Supreme Court, with a fundamental basis of codified international law.

The first plan had three main features: First, a legislative branch on which the great and small nations were equally represented, each as a unit.

Second—An executive branch, consisting of two members from each of the great powers—the United States, Great Britan, France, Italy, and Japan—and nine members chosen from the small powers. This gave the executive body a total membership of nineteen, of whom ten represented the great powers and nine represented the small powers.

Third—Arbitration was provided for the determination of international issues. In case of a dispute between two nations, each nation named arbitrators, and these two selected a third arbitrator. The three arbitrators thus chosen constituted a tribunal for determining the issues.

The foregoing, on broad lines, is the project which meets with most favor among the small nations, as they would be represented both on the legislative and executive branches. It is to be noted that such an organization would follow somewhat the lines of that of the present Peace Conference, as the legislative branch is analogous to the plenary session of the conference, while the executive branch is similar to the council of the great powers now holding daily sessions.

Revised Plan Less Democratic.

The revised plan makes several important changes. The legislative branch remains the same, with the great and small nations represented. The executive branch is modified, however, so as to consist chiefly of the great powers, with two representatives from each, to which others from the small powers may be added when interests especially affecting them are at issue.

The third branch is entirely changed, so as to eliminate the plan of arbitrators and substitute an executive council of the great powers as a tribunal for judging international issues, analogous to the international Supreme Council.

It is the two latter features which are regarded by the small powers as tending to concentrate the executive and judicial branches in the hands of the great powers, whereas the small powers prefer the plan giving them a status on the executive branch, and arbitration as a means of judicial determination, instead of a tribunal of the great powers.

The question now before the commission is one largely between the great and small powers.

Several of the small powers are understood to be preparing amendments to the revised plan, with a view to giving them representation on all branches of the organization, and it is

Ford People Say France Wont Resell Cars At Big Profit Nor Let Them Import Metals

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The Ford Automobile Company publishes an advertisement in a Paris newspaper containing correspondence showing that through the Minister of Reconstruction the French Government had declined to sell back at a large profit the Ford cars sold to the Government or permit the importation of material that would enable the Ford Company to resume manufacturing at the plants established at Bordeaux and Levallois-Perret before the war. The Ford Company asserts that this action prevents the resumption of business amounting to more than 32,000,000 francs.

The matter is important as bearing on the attitude of the French Government toward foreign concerns, which have established or desire to establish manufacturing plants in France.

The Ford Company, according to the letters it sent the Reconstruction Minister, offered to buy back about 4,500 cars which had never seen service. About 3,500 of these had not been delivered from the company's works at Bordeaux and 1,000 others were delivered but were lying in automobile parks where, the company says, they were exposed to damage from the weather.

For these automobiles the French Government agreed to pay 1,875 francs ($375) each. The company offers to buy them back under these conditions: Payment of the price paid by France plus 187 francs, covering the cost of transportation, plus 70 per cent. ad valorem, plus the 10 per cent. luxury tax which the ultimate purchaser would be obliged to stand.

It was also suggested by the company that it would sell the cars for 6,500 francs ($1,300) each. The company pointed out in a letter to the Minister of Reconstruction that in addition to saving the cost of storage the French Government would receive nearly 9,000,000 francs in customs and luxury taxes, and more than 8,000,000 francs, paid by France for the cars, giving France a very large profit. In addition the company says French automobile dealers would make a gross profit of 5,850,000 francs.

Other advantages cited are that the acceptance of the offer would give continuous employment to a large number of demobilized soldiers, thus putting 4,000,000 francs into circulation.

In the advertisement the company says: "The interests of French citizens seem to be sacrificed to the whims and pedantries of bureaucratic officials and vested monopolies."

The company contends that the release for sale or resale to the Ford Company of these automobiles is necessary to help overcome the existing embarrassing transportation situation. These cars, it is asserted, are not needed for military purposes.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 4.—Probability of a further postponement of the trial of the $1,000,000 libel suit brought against The Chicago Daily Tribune by Henry Ford was strengthened today by the minute detail in which documentary evidence was introduced in argument on the motion of the newspaper for a change of venue. The defendant contends that the prominence of Mr. Ford would tend to bias prospective jurors if the case, which is set for Feb. 10, is tried in Detroit.

The greater part of two days have been consumed by attorneys for The Tribune in presenting their case, and much documentary evidence remains to be introduced. Two motions by the plaintiff, one requiring presentation of the files of The Tribune for the period of the war, and another permitting the taking of depositions throughout the country, also are to be heard.

Several witnesses testified today as to the extent of the Ford Motor Company business in Detroit, and editors of Detroit newspapers were questioned in an effort to show that not all publications here are favorable to the plaintiff.

said that the tendency among the great powers is to give every reasonable consideration to these desires, while preserving to the major powers such voice as their larger interests and responsibilities warrant.

No Fear for Monroe Doctrine.

The American delegates to the Peace Conference, it is said, are satisfied that the project for a Society of Nations as it will emerge from the commission now handling the subject will not conflict with or impair the vitality of the Monroe Doctrine.

Indications are that the commission's plan will provide that the landing of troops with hostile intent on the soil of another nation will automatically constitute a state of war between the aggressor and all the States in the Society of Nations, unless the period of probation has expired before the landing. The method of making such a war would be left to each State for settlement.

No consideration has yet been given by the commission to the question of the freedom of the seas, it is learned, on the theory that regulations on that subject will be unnecessary if a Society of Nations is created.

President Wilson is concentrating his attention upon the work of perfecting the constitution for such a society. While less than two weeks remain before the date set for his return to Washington, it is still regarded as within the range of possibility not only that the great project will be reported from the commission, but also that the Peace Conference in plenary session will ratify the plan and thus put it fairly in the way to be registered in treaty form within the time limit. This would make a record for international conferences, but the Paris gathering has already done that in several instances.

There is a growing feeling here that the treaty of peace should be speedily perfected, now that the principle of the Society of Nations and many of the details of its construction have been agreed upon. Arthur J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, is engaged upon a proposition to fix the territorial boundaries of the defeated nations at once and promptly conclude peace with the enemy as so constituted. The program would then be to go on with the settlement of the other questions remaining to be solved under the rules of the Society of Nations.

Even if the effort to secure final action on the Society of Nations by the conference before President Wilson's departure should fail, it is considered by active sponsors of the plan that the ultimate success of the undertaking has in reality already been assured through the adoption by the full conference at its second session of the declaration which solemnly binds the delegations to the creation of such an organization, with the primary object of averting further warfare. They consider that delay in perfecting the form of the covenant would in no wise endanger its final adoption.

With such an agreement on general principles as has been reached, it is held in some quarters that there may be no need to treat specifically such subjects as the freedom of the seas, the use of submarines in warfare, the creation of buffer States, or even the delimiation of national boundaries with reference to their defensive possibilities. The idea is that there would be no necessity to consider the question of defense against a neighbor whose good behavior was assured.

Subjects Requiring Immediate Action.

Some subjects, however, do require immediate consideration, it seems generally agreed. These are subjects such as the assessment of the damages caused by the war, the responsibility for the war, the regulation of the use of international waterways and railways, the difficulties presented by the present state of chaos in the treaty relations between the nations as one result of the war, and treatment of the labor question by international accord.

Some of these problems would require a long time to settle, notably the determining of the actual damage inflicted by the enemy, although it has been suggested that adjustment of this question might be facilitated by the adoption of an estimate of the gross sum, based on the preliminary examinations which already have been made by army officers.

One way of solving these problems, which may be adopted, would be through the creation of various commissions to work after the final adjournment of the Peace Conference, with full powers to enforce the execution of their decrees.

PARIS PRAISE FOR WILSON.

Newspapers Enthusiastic Over His Chamber of Deputies Speech.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The Paris newspapers today, in commenting on the reception of President Wilson last evening by the Chamber of Deputies, allude to the occasion as one which is not likely to be forgotten and which will recement Franco-American friendship and stand as a new token of the brotherhood of the two peoples.

The newspapers warmly praise the President's speech, which is alluded to as an assertion of the solidarity of all the free peoples with France.

Socialist members in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon tried to drown the applause from the Centre and the Right with the apparent purpose of showing Mr. Wilson that his ideas were their own. When Captain Mantoux, the official interpreter, who translated the President's address, reached that part of the speech in which Mr. Wilson spoke of the Society of Nations, the Socialists rose, shouting: "Long Live the Society of Nations!" some of them adding, "Down with war!"

Paul Deschanel, who opened the sitting, said of the plan for the Society of Nations:

"Across the chasm of blood and darkness we see the light of the future. We believe that if the Entente, instead of being formed slowly under the pressure of peril and under the necessities of the moment in the shock of battles, could have been instituted long before at The Hague, Germany would never have dared to declare war upon us. We believe that the thirty States which broke relations with Germany must be the nucleus of a society of nations. We shall continue with all our strength and all our heart to prevent a return to barbarism and to maintain our dear and illustrious friendship, which shall be no less fruitful in peace than it has been in war."

CLAIMS OF GREECE ARE BASED ON RACE

She Asks for No Territory Whose Population Is Not Mainly Hellenic.

DEMANDS ARE FAR-REACHING

They Conflict with the Desires of Italy, Bulgaria, Turkey, and Albania.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The Greek territorial claims which came before the Council of Ten of the five big powers today are so far reaching that their success would be in conflict with the desires of Italy, Bulgaria, and Turkey. But there is one very tangible point on which the Peace Conference's consideration of Greek affairs begins. That is the agreement between Italy and Greece, entered into in the course of the war, as to Avlona in Albania and Northern Epirus. Greece consented that Italy should have Avlona. Italy agreed to the validity of the rights of Gréece in Northern Epirus. (There is no question concerning the rest of Epirus.) So the whole issue first presents itself to the conference by that specific question: Will the great powers ratify the Avlona-Epirus agreement? It is taken for granted that they will. There is not as much dynamite in this territory question between Italy and Greece as in the dispute between Italy and Jugoslavia.

But the case of Greece does not end with this clear-cut proposition of Avlona and Epirus. There are the "Twelve Islands of the Sea," or Dodecanesus. Technically, they belong to the Ottoman Empire, the dismemberment of which is to come later. They are occupied by Italian troops, but they are and always have been inhabited by Greeks. Italy puts up no special claim to them except that they would be most useful to her in giving her a voice and an influence in future affairs in Asia Minor. Italy occupied these islands as a military measure in her war with Turkey, and has simply forgotten to go away. But, inasmuch as these are Turkish still in the old political sense, but are populated entirely by Greeks, the assumption is that they will be given to Greece in accordance with the twelfth of President Wilson's fourteen points, which is cited by Venizelos in his presentation of all Greek claims against Turkey and Bulgaria. That point is:

"The Turkish portions of the present Ottoman Empire should be assured a secure sovereignty, but the other nationalities which are now under Turkish rule should be assured an undoubted security of life and an absolutely unmolested opportunity of autonomous development, and the Dardanelles should be permanently opened as a free passage to the ships and commerce of all nations under international guarantees."

Italy and Greece have no agreement to offer as to the Twelve Islands.

Avlona has a tremendously mixed population—Greek, Italian, and Mussulman. The last predominate, as they do throughout the rest of Albania. Orlando and Sonnino would like to make an Italian protectorate of all Albania. That is the one point concerning the east coast of the Adriatic on which the two leading members of the Italian Government are agreed. But the question has not yet been considered by the Peace Conference.

It is within the range of possibility that Albania, minus Avlona, may be given to its inhabitants as an independent State of their own.

Venizelos bases his whole case for Greece on ethnological grounds and on the principles of President Wilson. He asks for no territory in which the Greek population does not predominate, but he asks for all in which the Greek population does predominate. He says that Greece comes before the conference with the desire to do all in her power to contribute to a lasting solution of the Near Eastern question. He declares that the complete victory of the Allies and America now makes such a solution possible for the first time in history, because the great Powers have full authority to fix frontiers to include racially homogeneous States. For example, in his argument for the restoration of Thrace, he says that it has more than 700,000 Greeks and only 112,000 Bulgarians.

"Therefore," says the Greek leader, "we can invoke in favor of the union of Thrace with Greece the principle of nationality, the validity of which has been many times proclaimed in the course of the great war by President Wilson and the Allied European statesmen."

It is true, he admits, that such a union would deprive Bulgaria of the Aegean cost, but he says that Bulgaria's economic interests are not sufficiently great to warrant her rule of territory which is Greek in population by seven to one. Furthermore, Bulgaria will have an opening on the Black Sea, with passage out assured by the free Dardanelles.

To this objection, based entirely on principle, to Bulgaria remaining in Thrace and on the Aegean Sea, he adds a practical warning for the future in case there should be more wars in which submarines were used. If Bulgaria were still on the Thracian littoral she would have a dangerous submarine base for herself or her friends at Lagos.

In L'Humanité this morning, Anatole France makes a plea to all the world, which recalls those days in America when Julia Ward Howe and her husband made their wonderful fight in behalf of Greece. In his conclusion, he says:

"In this hour, when we see Serbia gathering about her all her brother Slavs of the south, Rumania acquiring Transylvania, the Banat, and Bessarabia, the Armenian Republic of Ararat declaring her independence and stretching out her arms to her children, and Zion reborn after so many centuries and recalling her dispersed tribes, why in this hour should not Greece reassemble those of her children who wish to come back to her with the vague memory, perhaps, of those glorious times when the Hellenes of Europe and those of Asia brought to the world their wisdom and beauty?"

CONFERENCE FORBIDS POLISH-CZECH CLASH

Warns Against Occupying Teschen District—Czechs Loan Munitions to Poles.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The conference is surely making peace in Eastern Europe. After effectually stopping hostilities between Rumania and Serbia over the Banat of Temesvar, the Supreme Council has achieved the much more difficult task of putting an end to the fighting between the Poles and Czechoslavs.

In the official communiqué concerning the matter there was left unexplained the remarkable statement that the Czechoslavs had agreed to turn over their munitions of war to the Poles, their former foes. This in no sense indicated military surrender, but was a sign of the complete reconciliation of these new States and the willingness of one to help the other against her enemies.

The Czechoslavs had no hostilities on their hands except those with the Poles. On the contrary, Poland is fighting on two other fronts, against the Ukrainians and Bolsheviki. It is to aid them in these other fights that the Czechoslavs now give their munitions to the Poles.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The Peace Conference, in a communication warning the Poles and Czechs who are disputing control of the Teschen mining district in Austrian Silesia that they must refrain from occupying the territory in question, lays down rules for the temporary administration of the disputed region.

The communication announces that a commission of control will be immediately sent to the Teschen region by the conference. The document reads:

"The representatives of the great powers, having been informed of the conflict which has arisen between the Czechs and the Poles in the principality of Teschen, in consequence of which the mining district of Ostrawa-Karvin and the railway from Oderberg to Teschen and Jablungkau have been occupied by the Czechs, have declared as follows:

"In the first instance they think it necessary to remind the nationalities who have engaged to submit the territorial questions which concern them to the Peace Conference for its decision that they have promised to refrain from taking as a pawn or from occupying the territories to which they laid claim.

"The representatives take note of that engagement by which the Czech delegates have declared that they were definitely stopping their troops on the line of the railway which runs from Oderberg to Teschen and Jablungkau.

"Pending the decision of the Peace Congress as to the definite assignments of the territories, that part of the railway line to the north of Teschen and the mining regions will remain in the occupation of Czech troops, while the southern section of the line, starting from and including the town of Teschen down to Jablungkau will be intrusted to the military supervision of the Poles.

"The undersigned consider it indispensable that a commissioner of control should be immediately sent to the spot to avoid any conflict between the Czechs and the Poles in the region of Teschen. This commission, apart from the measures that it will have to prescribe, will proceed to an inquiry on the basis of which the Peace Conference may form its decision in fixing definitely the respective frontiers of the Czechs and the Poles in the contested zone.

"In order to seal the entente between the two friendly nations, which should follow a policy in full accord with that of the allied and associated powers, the representatives of the great powers register the promise of the Czech representatives that their country will put at the disposition of the Poles all its available resources in war material, and will grant to them every facility for the transit of arms and ammunition.

"The exploitation of the mines of the Karvin-Ostrawa district will be carried out in such a way as to avoid all infractions of private property while reserving any police measures which the situation may require. The commission of control will be authorized to supervise this and, if necessary, to secure to the Poles that part of the output which may be equitably claimed by them to meet their wants.

"It is understood that the local administration will continue to function in accordance with the conditions of the pact of November, 1918, and that the rights of minorities will be strictly respected.

"Pending the decision of the Peace Congress, political elections and military conscription will be suspended in the principality of Teschen.

"No measure implying annexation of all or of a part of the said principality either to the territory of Poland or of Czechoslovakia, taken by interested parties, shall have binding force.

"The delegates of the Czech nation engage to release immediately with their arms and baggage the Polish prisoners taken during the recent conflict.

DEMANDS GERMANY'S 'RIGHTS.'

Erzberger Threatens League if Colonies Are Taken Away.

BASLE, Feb. 3.—Speaking before the Colonial Society at Berlin today, Mathias Erzberger, one of the German Armistice Commissioners, protested against Germany being deprived of her colonies, according to a dispatch received here from the German capital. He is reported to have said:

"If we no longer have troops or arms we have our rights. The Allies have accepted Mr. Wilson's 'fourteen points' as Germany has. Mr. Wilson demands broad and impartial regulation of all colonial questions, but the Allies are seeking to impose the will of stronger nations, without taking into account the rights of Germany.

"Depriving Germany of all her colonies would contain a deadly germ for the League of Nations even before that league is born. We understand it has been proposed to internationalize German colonies under the administration of the League of Nations. We ought to categorically repel such a proposition or claim the same treatment for the colonies of all other powers. President Wilson's program gives Germany an inviolable right to her colonial territories."

MOVE IN HUNGARY TO JOIN GERMANY

Bitter Resentment Felt at Partial Occupation by Czech and Rumanian Troops.

FEAR ATTITUDE OF ALLIES

Country Is Made Economically Helpless, It Is Asserted, by the New Alignment.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 2.—An emissary of the Hungarian Government, speaking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, today, said that Hungary was in a state of chaos owing to invasion on all sides. Asked whether Hungary expected to become a federal State of Germany, the emissary replied:

"At present Hungary can be compared politically and economically to a human trunk without a head, arms or legs. We do not desire it, but greatly fear that the Entente policy may end by obliging us to become dependent on Germany.

"After the revolution the Hungarians signed the armistice with General Franchet, who at the time made a line of demarkation and obliged the troops to disarm and retire from all frontiers. It was promised that American, English, and French troops would occupy the frontiers. In place of the latter, Rumanians, Serbs, and Czechs, who have pretensions to our territory, have invaded our country, having crossed the lines of demarkation made by General Franchet.

"Today Budapest is a frontier town and the Czechs are thirty kilometers away. We were forced to disarm. So the country is given over to these troops, who have established their economic and political sovereignty everywhere. All communication with these regions, which are economically most valuable to Hungary, is stopped.

Says Supplies Are Cut Off.

"For instance, salt, wood, coal, gold, and a large part of our grain and cattle come from these parts of the country; so that Hungary is economically impotent. The people from all the invaded countries have fled to the centre, Budapest, which has doubled its population, from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000, in the space of two months.

"Lack of coal especially menaces us with the gravest consequences. Factories are stopped, houses unheated, the streets dark, the shops shut at sundown, and there is no public safety. The Government is obliged to pay the strikers 41 kroner daily in order to combat Bolshevism.

"We are menaced by economic Bolshevism caused by lack of coal, and political Bolshevism owing to the invading troops, who are advancing further, causing the Government to lose its prestige, especially as it no longer has the support of its armies on account of the Hungarian disarmament.

"In order to establish order a Constituent Assembly is necessary; but elections for a Constituent Assembly are impossible at present, owing to the fact that three-fifths of the country is occupied by the enemy. Elections in the invaded districts are impossible because of the complete lack of liberty, and elections in the free part of Hungary would not be representative.

Fears Course of the Allies.

"The pretensions of our adversaries appear to have extraordinary protection from the Entente, but the realization of these pretensions threatens to create a small Hungary, economically dependent. Lacking all raw material, it is clear that Hungary will necessarily fall into the arms of its most powerful neighbor, namely, Germany.

"Our ideal would be to form a free, independent republic, based on the complete equality of all nationalities, just as is that of the Italians, French, and Germans in Switzerland. We believe that the Hungarian nationalities, mixed with large masses of Magyars, could form a big confederate, democratic republic.

"If, however, our existence is rendered impossible, in spite of our antagonism, we will be obliged to ally ourselves closely with the future Germany, from whom we can expect coal, manufactured goods, &c. We see the blind confidence we had in Wilson's sublime principles cynically baffled by hostile pretensions, but it seems impossible that America will lend her aid. We ask active co-operation from America for the exploitation of our natural resources."

FEARS ENSLAVEMENT OF GERMAN CAPTIVES

Hauptmann Alarmed Over Possibility of Prisoners Rebuilding France.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 2, (via Copenhagen, Feb. 3.)—Gerhard Hauptmann, the poet and playwright, publishes an open letter to the Allies in Paris, in which he protests most vigorously against the alleged intention of the French to make 800,000 German war prisoners slaves to be employed in rebuilding France, as the Egyptian Pharaohs did the people of Israel.

Hauptmann says he would not credit such rumors had not so many of the ethical ideals of humanity been destroyed by the terrible war. He hopes, however, that dispassionate consideration will convince the Allies of the impossibility of taking such a course.

After reviewing the history of slave emancipation, Hauptmann reminds Frenchmen it was Lafayette at whose motion, in 1789, the monumental sentence was placed at the head of the proclamation of the rights of humanity—"Man is born free and with equal rights and always remains so."

"Is France now really prepared to surprise the world with another manifesto in which this free republican people will proclaim the cruelest doctrine of slavery?" he asks. "Will France now follow up its magnificent present to the United States of the Statue of Liberty on Bedlow's Island by another iron image, and does she intend to adorn this also with a torch and shining coronet? But I cannot believe it. These endless worries eat out one's heart so that mere fiction may fill it with bitterness. But any fair-minded man will admit that the possibility of an open discussion of whether 800,000 Germans are to become slaves of France must suffice to embitter us in the highest degree.

"For a realization of this idea there is not the slightest moral or reasonable possibility, but it may be that morals and reason will be thrown overboard. If that be the case, then the war must have worked a terrible depravation in the European mind. Think of it! Germans, Christians, republicans, Europeans to be made the slaves of France. Both France and Germany would share this ignominy. Germany would be the only civilized nation in the world a part of whose citizens were slaves of foreign nations, while France could boast of being the only slaveholder among all the nation."

THE HAGUE, Feb. 4.—Dr. von Kühlmann arrived at The Hague today. The former German Foreign Secretary has undoubtedly come to Holland on important business, though the nature of his mission is not yet known.

On his arrival at a restaurant frequented by the diplomatic world, he was greeted as a hero by members of the German Legation.

RUSSIAN APPEAL TO FRANCE.

Ex-Czar's Brother-in-Law Warns of Intervention by Germany.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The former Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, brother-in-law of the former Russian Emperor, who has arrived in Paris, as he says, "not for political purposes, but to make known the truth about Russia," says in an interview in the Matin that the Allies must beware of Germany in Russia.

"France has every reason to save Russia," he asserts. "If you do not intervene now, be sure that Germany will intervene in her own time. Beware of Germany. That people which is now at your mercy hides within itself a hate which will find its first revenge in Russia.

"A League of Nations or a Society of Peoples is much talked of. It remains to be seen if the nations will not have dealt themselves a mortal blow by hesitating too long to cleanse the Russian sore which threatens to contaminate the whole world."

The Grand Duke related how with his family and the Dowager Empress and Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, the former Russian commander in chief, he had been kept prisoner in a house in the Crimea. However, the chief of the Bolshevist guard had served under Alexander, and made things tolerable for them. They were saved from massacre on May 1, 1918, by the arrival of the Germans and were eventually set free by the coming of an allied fleet.

Bapaume Wants a "Godmother."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Bapaume, one of the French towns which suffered most from the war, wants a "godmother," according to an official dispatch. Ganton Stenne, Mayor of the town, is quoted as saying in the Petit Parisien: "I hope that some great city, either of the old continent or the new, will listen to my appeal."

REDS MADE STRONG BY COERCED MEN

all technical matters, but in regard to everything else are under constant suspicion and are controlled by Bolshevist Commissioners, who are permanently attached to the army and even control the carrying out of operations. Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, has issued an order that families of officers who desert to the Allies are to be held responsible and will be prosecuted in some cases.

Military experts who have been forced to serve the Bolsheviki include some of the best men in field tactics, engineering, and ordnance to be found in Central Russia.

General mobilization of soldiers in all districts is being vigorously carried out, and all attempts to avoid service are being severely dealt with. The training of the Bolshevist Army is being assisted by special schools of instruction at Petrograd and Moscow for all non-commissioned officers and men belonging to the Bolshevist party. Generally, the army is growing stronger, and, although the new troops are far from being reliable, they, nevertheless, owing to the severe methods which have been adopted, form the main strength of Bolshevist power.

It is stated that this apparent increase in military strength has been taken by many to indicate that Bolshevist ideas are gaining favor with the population, but this is by no means true. The majority of the people are anti-Bolshevist, but are afraid to express their opinions. The entire strength of the Bolsheviki, it is averred, rests on their institution of Red terror.

GERMANS TO FIGHT REDS.

Discharged Veterans, Unemployed, Enlisting for Service in Russia.

COBLENZ, Feb. 3, (Associated Press.)—A number of discharged soldiers who are unable to find employment in unoccupied Germany are joining the volunteer army that is being organized for service against the Bolsheviki. Recruiting for the volunteers is being conducted solely by army corps staffs of various districts throughout Germany in co-operation with the Soldiers' Councils.

According to information reaching here, each recruit must have seen six months' service in the field. Enlistment is for one month and a discharge is granted at any time after fourteen days' notice has been given by the soldier or an army officer.

Recruits are being sent to join the forces on the eastern front, the movement being carried out as rapidly as possible.

WANTS OUR NAVY IN WORLD POLICING

Maurice Thinks Great Britain and America Should Co-operate in the Duty.

LEAGUE'S FINANCIAL NEEDS

Scarcely to be Met, He Says, Unless We Aid East and South-east of Europe.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Major Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice, in a Paris dispatch to The Daily News, says:

"It is becoming abundantly clear that neither Germany nor all our enemies can be made to find resources in money or kind necessary to set the world again on its feet. We may possibly be able to obtain some shipping to compensate us for our losses at sea, but that will probably be as much as those Members of Parliament who gave the electors to understand that Germany would 'be made to pay' are likely to be able to show in return for the votes they received.

"It is possible that the bill against Germany may be met to some extent by territorial adjustments such as the allocation of the coal fields of the Saar Valley to France as a compensation for the destruction of her coal fields in the Lens area; and there are other arrangements of the same kind in contemplation; and this shows how closely European territorial questions are bound up with those of finance and reparation, and explains why the conference has not been able to get on at once with the question of the new frontier of Germany, which France is so anxious to see settled.

League Needs Our Financial Support.

"It is evident that if our enemies cannot be made to pay in full it will be all but impossible to establish the League of Nations firmly without the permanent and active co-operation of America. Most of the colonies and most of the territories of Turkey, which are to pass to the general control of the league, will require financial assistance if they are to be developed in the interests of the inhabitants. All the new States of Eastern and Southeastern Europe need financial support if they are to establish a settled Government.

"The old world, exhausted by the war, cannot hope to be able to provide the necessary assistance, most of which must come from America.

"The pressing anxiety of France is to be safe in the future. She regards us having made ourselves safe by the destruction of the German fleet, and demands a sure guarantee for herself. She is chary of intrusting her safety to the League of Nations until she knows, much more definitely than she does at present, how that league will be constituted and what its resources will be. Most of the criticism in the French press of the League and of the work of the conference is attributable to this anxiety. She is afraid we and America will be unwilling to commit ourselves to provide military forces for aims and purposes which cannot be strictly defined and that she will find herself faced by eighty millions of Germans without adequate assurance of timely support.

"It is easy to foresee many cases which might call for armed intervention in the Continent of Europe, in which both we and America would be unwilling or even unable to send our soldiers to fight. The solution seems to me to be that we and America should guarantee to the League the naval power necessary to enforce a stringent economic blockade of any power which threatened to disturb the peace of the world.

Anglo-American Naval Police.

"The co-operation of Great Britain and America in providing for a League of Nations the naval police required to enable it to assert its authority seems, then, the best means of providing for France the guarantee of security which she seeks, and this at the same time solves the problem of the freedom of the seas. We have but to agree to accept the mandate of the League of Nations in regard to our navy in the interests of the peace of the world, just as we and our dominions have agreed to accept its mandate in regard to the German colonies, to make the arrangements perfect and to relieve the natural anxieties of France.

"The co-operation of America in the same sense is most desirable. There may arise during the territorial settlement, particularly in Asia, cases in which the easiest solution would be that America should consent to become the mandatory power, but none of these is likely to be vital to the effective working of the League of Nations, and the American public may very possibly be reluctant in committing itself to a territorial policy in Asia or in Africa. Financial and naval co-operation by America does, however, seem to me to be the essence of the problem."

ALLIED ARMY TO GUARD THE TRANS-SIBERIAN

John F. Stevens Demands It—Czech Troops Preparing to Evacuate Siberia.

VLADIVOSTOK, Feb. 2, (Associated Press.)—The feature of the plan for operating the Trans-Siberian Railway, which is in process of elaboration at conferences between John F. Stevens, the American railroad expert; American Ambassador Morris, and representatives of the Allies, is that the line shall be guarded by American and allied troops. Mr. Stevens is reported to have said that only under that condition will he undertake the task of rehabilitating the railroad.

Ambassador Morris is said to support him. The Ambassador is clothed with plenary powers to conclude the plan of operation which, it is expected, will be perfected within a month.

The necessity for an allied guard has been accentuated by the project of the early repatriation of the Czechoslovak troops, preparations for which already are completed. The removal of invalids and wounded is now going on.

The corps of railroad operatives organized by Mr. Stevens, and which has been waiting for a year to begin work, is under orders to be ready at an hour's notice to proceed to points already assigned in the scheme of operation.

the number of about 8,000, shows no signs of ending. A meeting of the principal hotel and restaurant proprietors on Tuesday afternoon decided to resist the employes' demands.

As in the case of the other disputes, the strikers are getting no sympathy from the public. The manager of one big hotel received a number of offers from residents of the West End to lend their own cooks if required.

Drastic Steps Contemplated.

LONDON, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Cabinet and various Government departments concerned in the labor troubles were very active today seeking a solution of the difficulties, which were increased by a strike of London hotel workers, while the tube strike continues to spread.

In a general way the Government has decided to maintain its policy of non-intervention in strikes not authorized by the unions, but at the same time is directing its influence toward inducing the malcontent workers to see the advisability of acting through their official trade representatives.

For instance, at a conference at the Ministry of Labor between representatives of the Government and a deputation of the Electric Trades Union, the deputation was assured that if reasonable demands were made through the official channels of the union, they would receive sympathetic consideration from the Government. Warning was given, however, that if the men continued their present course, thus putting the whole community to serious inconvenience, the Government would take drastic steps to protect the civilian population and business undertakings.

The Government's attitude is regarded as unsatisfactory by the leaders of the present strikes, and a number of meetings are being held in London tonight with the object of securing greater uniformity of action.

Hotels Seriously Crippled.

The strike of the hotel workers caused thousands of people to go without breakfast or luncheon at the customary hours today or be satisfied with exceedingly meagre portions.

Many Londoners who, because of the shortage of domestic help during the war, had become hotel dwellers, felt the hotel strike seriously. The kitchen staffs, which are largely made up of foreigners, demand an eight-hour day and a 25 per cent. increase in wages. The waiters demand the abolition of the system under which their tips are pooled and divided, with a commission on the takings deducted. They also demand a minimum wage of £2 weekly for women and £3 for men.

Waiters of British nationality are not on strike, so that city restaurants manned by Britishers were doing business as usual.

Several banquets booked for tonight at big hotels, including one in honor of American Ambassador Davis, were canceled.

The smaller hotels were able to attend to their permanent guests, but in the larger ones, with accommodations for 1,000 or more guests each, long queues of patrons stood outside the dining rooms waiting vainly to be served.

It is declared by the hotel men that they will not submit to the strikers' demands, and that new forces for their establishments are being recruited.

Profiting by its experience on Monday, when the city awoke to find transportation hampered by the strike in the tubes, London started early to work today. By daybreak the streets were filled with men and women walking from the suburbs, and the buses, when they started at 7 o'clock, were crowded.

Almost every bus carried a tube striker, who was urging the girl conductresses to strike, but these efforts were without success.

The shutdown of the London District Railway was due to the fact that, although all the drivers did not join the strike, the staff at the power plant which supplies the current for the lines went out at an early hour without giving any reason for its action. As this line, which has a circular route as well as many radial lines, carries thousands of passengers to all parts of the metropolis, the traffic situation became much more serious than ever.

Many motor lorries and virtually every other class of vehicle were requisitioned for the emergency, but, despite this, there were not nearly enough accommodations for those who desired to move about the city.

As another result of the shutting down of the power station some of the street cars on the Surrey side of the Thames which get their current from the station were compelled to stop running.

Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, issued a statement regarding the trouble in the tubes. He said:

"Under the arrangement made in December last the Government granted railway men an eight-hour working day, excluding meal times. This was accepted by the unions concerned.

"The unions then submitted further demands, including increased wages and improved conditions of service, apart from the eight-hour day. These matters are to be considered at the meeting next week between the members of the Railway Executive Committee and the men's unions. Meanwhile existing conditions of service apart from the eight-hour day are to remain unaltered.

"Despite this agreement with responsible unions certain employes of the underground and London and Brighton Railways have taken it upon themselves to strike and demand that meal times shall now be included in the eight-hour day. This demand, if granted, would mean that these men would work only seven or seven and a half hours daily. If the arrangement were extended to other railways it would reduce the working day to as low as six and a half hours in some cases.

"It is quite clear that what is now demanded by the small section of men who are on strike is contrary to what has been agreed to with the unions."

Railway Clerks Gain Point.

The threatened strike of railway clerks has been averted by conceding the recognition of the Railway Clerks' Union.

This action is important, as although only 75,000 men are affected, they consist of station masters, ticket sellers, and other employes, a strike on the part of whom would have tended to disrupt the working of the railways throughout the Kingdom.

Representatives of the union had an interview today with Sir Robert S. Horne, Minister of Labor, and Sir Albert Stanley. The grievances of the men were also discussed by a special Cabinet meeting, which sat for two hours to consider the labor problem.

The Railway Clerks' Union has been in existence twenty-one years, but never before has been recognized as a labor organization.

The situation on the Clyde and at Belfast is improving. An increasing number of men are remaining at work in the Glasgow district, while a hopeful feeling prevails in Belfast, where Sir Edward Carson has promised to bring the question of a national reduction in hours before Parliament at the first opportunity and Baron Pirrie, Controller General of Merchant Shipping, has promised to receive a deputation of the strikers tomorrow.

CALL ON AMERICA TO INDORSE LEAGUE

Noted Men Plan to Show Peace Conference That This Country Favors Linking of Nations.

WARNING FOR THE SENATE

"The Very Thing Needed," Says Mr. Taft, "to Influence Any Backward-Looking Senator."

Plans for an intensive campaign to show the Paris Peace Conference that the people of the United States want a "strong" League of Nations, and to serve notice on the United States Senate that if President Wilson brings home a peace treaty providing for such a league the people will expect its ratification, were announced and discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of about fifty prominent business men, bankers, and lawyers, held at the Bankers' Club, Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co. presided. The meeting was preliminary to the National Congress for a League of Nations which will begin here this morning and continue throughout the month, held successively in nine different cities, under the auspices of the League to Enforce Peace.

The meeting was called by a committee consisting of Mr. Morrow, A. Barton Hepburn, Jacob H. Schiff, Sam Lewisohn, and Herbert S. Houston. The principal speaker was William H. Taft, President of the League to Enforce Peace, who will preside at the Atlantic Congress for a League of Nations here today, and head the group of speakers who will tour the country to address the other eight conventions.

In a statement given out after the meeting, to which Mr. Taft's name was attached as the President of the league, announcement was made that these nine conventions would be the beginning of a campaign that would cost at least $500,000, and that steps would be taken immediately to raise this sum.

"We believe," the statement further says, "that the people of the United States want that kind of a league, and want the United States to join in a strong league. But a deliberately planned campaign is going on, intended to convince our Peace Commissioners and the allied nations that the rank and file of Americans do not want a League of Nations, and that the Senate will not ratify a treaty that puts the United States into a league.

"There is just one thing that will effectually give our Peace Commissioners the power they must have if we are to get the kind of league that will work, and that is such an overwhelming expression of American opinion that no newspaper, no statesman, no nation in the world will have room to doubt that the American people want this thing. Such an expression of opinion, moreover, is the very thing that is needed to reach and influence any backward-looking Senator who is grooming himself for opposition to the league phase of the treaty that the Senate will be called upon to ratify."

"Among those who attended the meeting were: George Gordon Battle, William Allen Butler, Eugene Delano, William Church Osborn, Percy Rockefeller, Jesse Isidor Straus, William H. Truesdale, Leopold S. Bache, Harvey D. Fisk, Colgate Hoyt, J. P. Grace, William H. Nichols, and George F. Baker, Jr., of New York; Judge George Gray and Josiah Marvel of Wilmington, Del.; William F. Cochran and Jacob Epstein of Baltimore, Md.; George F. Rand of Buffalo, N. Y.; Henry Bayard of Philadelphia; Benjamin T. Thaw of Pittsburgh, Penn.; Dr. M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawr, Penn.; George Bryan of Richmond, Va., and H. Lippincott of Philadelphia."

Woman Seeks Chicago Mayoralty.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, lawyer, clubwoman, and former City Commissioner of Public Welfare, today announced her candidacy for Mayor. In making the declaration of her intentions, Mrs. Meder said: "There is no reason why a woman cannot govern the second largest city in the United States. Can you name one of the candidates who has thrown his hat into the ring who is better qualified than I?"

ASQUITH REBUFFED AS COMMONS MEETS

Sir Donald Maclean Is Elected Chairman of the Non-Coalition Liberals.

REJECT OLD CHIEF'S WHIP

Liberals and Laborites Share the Opposition Leadership at Opening Session.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Parliament met today, and J. W. Lowther was re-elected Speaker, with the curious customary ceremonies and compliments. Until the Speaker was selected Sir Courtney Ilbert, Clerk of the House, presided, but as he was not a member, he could utter no syllable, under pain of a heavy fine, so he arose in his place at the table and solemnly and silently pointed in turn to the mover and seconder of Lowther's nomination.

None of the Sinn Feiners was in place to make the disturbance which some had feared, and the election was made unanimous, with general formal speeches.

It was noteworthy that the second member to congratulate the Speaker was Sir Donald Maclean, who was elected yesterday Chairman of the Non-Coalition Liberals. These, by reason of their scanty number and freedom from pledges to the Government, have earned the title of "Wee Frees."

The historic Liberal Party is not prepared to yield the position of official opposition to the Labor Party. The latter is now the largest of all the non-Coalition groups in the House, with the exception of the Sinn Fein, and there has been much discussion as to whether it would be recognized as the regular opposition.

It seems, however, that this is not to be. Leaders of the party and the Labor members who have held ministerial office, such as J. R. Clynes and John Hodge, occupied seats on the front opposition bench, but they only shared it with leading Liberals. Nevertheless the changes of the late election have given the Labor Party a great advance in political standing, and with the important labor debates which are sure to take place in the present crisis its importance in the parliamentary life of the country will be very greatly increased.

Meanwhile Liberal circles are much exercised by the action of the non-coalition Liberal members in choosing Sir Donald Maclean as Chairman and refusing to recognize Asquith's nominee as Liberal whip. It was a very direct blow at the old chief and showed a feeling that whatever his services in the past he was not the man to revive the party and provide it with a program to deal with the rapidly changing conditions of today.

The Westminster Gazette, which is generally supposed to represent his views, has little to say about the matter tonight, except to deny that Maclean has any desire to oust him, but there is no doubt a considerable body of opinion in the country which would regard public life poorer if Asquith were to disappear from it.

There is to be a meeting tomorrow of the entire Liberal Parliamentary Party, which the coalition as well as the Independent Liberal members will attend, and much will depend on what is decided there.

LONDON, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—Financial problems and measures constructions are expected to be among the first things before the House of Commons. The budget, which will be a subject of great importance, probably will be taken up after the Easter recess.

The Government, it is understood, will propose the establishment of several new Government departments. Four new ministries have been planned to deal with supply, ways and communications, health and commerce.

There will be land and housing bills, a bill for the restoration of pre-war practices in industry, and a military service bill to give legal sanction to the proposals for the constitution of the British armies of occupation. Measures are being prepared by the Government to prevent "dumping" and to restrict immigration.

SINN FEINERS ESCAPE FROM ENGLISH PRISON

De Valera, Milroy, and McGarry Use Master Key Thrown to Them Over Wall.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Professor Edward de Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, and Milroy and John McGarry, also Sinn Fein members of Parliament, escaped from the prison at Lincoln last night, according to a dispatch from Lincoln to The Evening News.

Apparently, the dispatch adds, the master key to the back door was thrown over the prison walls to the Sinn Feiners. It was then an easy matter for the trio to walk out to a waiting automobile which took them toward the coast.

A dispatch to the Central News from Dublin says that it is definitely stated there that all the Sinn Feiners interned in England will be released Monday.

ASQUITH LETTERS PUZZLE.

London Wonders How Correspondence with Lloyd George Got Out.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The interest that would have been naturally aroused in English political circles by the Atlantic Monthly's publication of the Asquith-Lloyd George correspondence of December, 1916, just before the latter's accession to power, has been obscured by the rush of current events.

With all the world in the melting pot at Paris, and England frankly bewildered by her sudden labor troubles, not even the keenest politicians have time to consider ancient history, so the discussion has been rather perfunctory, and the most pointed comment has turned on the fact that letters have appeared in only The Weekly Dispatch, Lord Northcliffe's Sunday newspaper. Some writers have seen in that evidence that it was Northcliffe who inspired their publication in America, and that there was some deep political purpose therein, but even they have found it difficult to reconcile the distinctly favorable light in which the correspondence shows up the present Premier with the suspicion with which Northcliffe has been treating him lately.

Meanwhile The Evening News tonight has an explanation of the publication which seeks to transfer the incident from the sphere of political intrigue to that of newspaper enterprise, pure and simple. After explaining that copies of the letters were handed to only three or four persons with the understanding that they were absolutely confidential, it says:

"It is impossible that the correspondence could have been printed or cabled to America, as the censorship strictly exercised up until quite recently and still in existence to a considerable extent would have prevented this. The true explanation of the mystery is a simple one. An American journalist saw the letters. Whether they were deliberately shown to him or whether he came across them accidentally is not known, but he was able to obtain a copy of them."

Mr. Asquith today has added his denial of having had any hand in the publication of the documents to that of the Premier, and has declared that it is in his opinion, a "gross violation of the sanctities of intimate and secret correspondence."

DENIES PARIS PRESS YARNS.

Gen. Harts Says Reports of Lawlessness of Americans Are Untrue.

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—Reports of widespread lawlessness on the part of the Americans, particularly from the American Expeditionary Force, are wholly unfounded, declares Brig. Gen. W. W. Harts, the American commander of the Paris district, in a report submitted to Major Gen. J. G. Harbord.

The report gives the results of exhaustive investigations of printed and rumored reports of crime and lawlessness. It is based on records of the American Provost Marshal, the French police and other sources.

General Harts says that the persistent appearance of newspaper articles accusing the Americans of lawlessness "has led to the impression that there is some anti-American propaganda at work in Paris which some have ascribed to German sources." He says that incontrovertible figures show that criminal offenses committed in Paris and ascribed to American soldiers from January, 1918, to January, 1919, were extremely few in proportion to the number of American soldiers in Paris during that period.

General Harts keeps in constant touch with General Monier, the French Military Governor of Paris, in connection with the maintenance of order. When he recently issued an order restricting the carrying of firearms by others than military police actually on duty, General Monier wrote him a complimentary letter in which he referred to the excellent relations existing between the American Expeditionary Force and the population of Paris.

WOULD LIMIT ARMAMENT.

American Delegates Reject Part of Peace Societies' Program.

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—A conference of allied peace societies, comprising delegates of the United States, England, France, and Belgium, favoring the League of Nations project, has given out resolutions adopted by it, in addition to the aims outlined in the plans handed by Leon Bourgeis to the allied Premiers last Saturday.

They declare for an international bureau of labor and periodic conferences between employers and employes, in line with the British project now before the labor commissions. They recommend the creation of an international commission of education to inform the public on the functions of the League of Nations and educate the people in the doctrines of democratic citizenship.

They further recommend that the enemy countries be required to limit their armament and the manufacture of arms and munitions in order to enable the Entente States to reduce their military forces. They declare that the allied States should content themselves with the enormous stock of arms and munitions of war now in their hands as a result of the war and the seizure of many stores, and should forbid the sale of arms and munitions by the States of the League to others.

The American delegates declined to indorse some of the recommendations, holding that disarmament would not be possible the States of the league to maintain sufficient force to control the enemy States until the latter were completely disarmed. They also objected to the prohibition of the manufacture of arms and munitions as calculated to prevent scientific developments that might benefit the world.

ITALIANS BUSY IN TRIPOLI.

Rebuilding Railroad Destroyed by the Turks and Germans.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 4.—The military situation in Tripolitania is daily growing better, especially since the occupation of the Zanzur Oasis and Zuara without meeting much resistance from the enemy. Tripoli, the capital of this colony, can take up its commercial life again instead of feeling like a besieged city, as it did during these four years of war.

From the Tunisian frontier to Tripoli the whole coast is now free from enemy treachery and the railway leading to Zavia, which had been destroyed by the Turks and Germans, is being rapidly reconstructed by Italian soldiers.

The press deplores the lack of firmness shown by those in authority in Tripolitania during the war, contending that a more courageous attitude might have prevented the loss of territory, which must now be reconquered at the cost of lives and money.

COURIERS GOING TO BERLIN.

American Soldiers to Make Trips from Coblenz to Capital.

COBLENZ, Feb. 3, (Associated Press.)—A limited number of officers and enlisted men of the Army of Occupation will have an opportunity to visit Berlin by the inauguration soon of a daily courier service between this city and the capital.

Couriers were decided upon, owing to the uncertainty of German mails and the slowness in transmission of documents of importance. Each courier will be accompanied by an officer, and the trip will be made by express trains between Cologne and Berlin, the running time being about twelve hours. Cologne is about two hours from Coblenz. Various Lieutenants and Captains will be assigned for trips from day to day and privates will be selected from different units assigned to Coblenz.

Federal Orders for Rolling Stock.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Railroad Administration last year ordered 1,430 locomotives for 1918 delivery, at an estimated cost of $78,193,000, and 100,000 freight cars, at a cost placed at $289,460,000, the division of capital expenditures reported today. Of the total, 743 locomotives and 17,027 cars have been completed and delivered by the builders. An additional order for 608 locomotives for 1919 delivery has been placed, involving about $37,642,000.

DECLINES TO REVEAL WILSON'S MESSAGE

Padgett Badgered in House for Text of Cablegram for Big Naval Program.

POTENT WITH COMMITTEE

Says Communication Involved More Than Domestic Policy—Supported by Ranking Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In debate on the Naval bill in the House today Chairman Padgett of the Naval Committee, despite scores of inquiries, declined to reveal the text of President Wilson's confidential message on the naval building program read to the committee last week, which message, he said, had influenced the committee to make a prompt and unanimous report in favor of the program, all opposition disappearing.

The message was sent by the President to Secretary Daniels and by the latter transmitted to the House committee. In effect, Mr. Padgett said, the President insisted that nothing had developed since his going abroad which impelled him to change his request, made after the signing of the armistice, for a new three-year naval building program costing $600,000,000.

Mr. Padgett explained that Secretary Daniels, at his request, had cabled the President, asking whether his position on a big navy had changed since going to the peace table, and the President's message was in reply to this inquiry.

"Did the President's message contain any facts upon which the committee could form its own judgment, or was it simply an expression of opinion, like the question of the Panama Canal tolls?" asked Representative Gillett.

Mr. Padgett made no direct reply, but explained that the message said the President was willing to accept a proviso that if there should be certain developments in the way of disarmament and a League of Nations, he should be allowed to discontinue the building program.

"Was the alleged quotation in a morning newspaper, that failure to adhere to the three-year building program would be fatal to my negotiations"—intimating that the United States had only one negotiator over there—accurate?" asked Mr. Gillett.

"No, Sir; that was not correct," replied Mr. Padgett.

Representative Butler of Pennsylvania asked if Mr. Gillett has quoted words that in substance were correct.

"I will not give the words," said Mr. Padgett, "but the President was very earnest and very insistent that the three-year program be carried out."

"Did the President," asked Representative Rogers of Massachusetts, "use the word 'fatal'?" Mr. Padgett again declined to quote the exact language.

"It would not be proper for me to give the words used," he said, adding that the communication had been given to him by Secretary Daniels in confidence, and he had given it to the members of the committee in confidence.

"Is it the intention that Congress," asked Mr. Campbell of Kansas, "notwithstanding the program of world disarmament, should give this authorization for an increased naval establishment for the purpose of enabling the President to hold that over those with whom he is now in consultation. Is it a threat?"

"There was no expression or indication of any such purpose in his cablegram," replied Mr. Padgett.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—In debate today Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican on the Naval Committee, declared his opposition to making public the President's cable message.

"I don't think it would be fair to the President," he said. "I don't think I would have voted for the increased program had it not been for the President's message. However, Mr. Browning (from New Jersey) and I stood almost alone. The message did not affect the great majority of the committee. They would have voted for the increase anyhow. Therefore this message should not be given out, even though I hate secrecy and I believe the public should be given reasons why increases are necessary. Nothing which would injure the President should be done, even though some may dislike it."

Only one member of the House opposed the proposed naval expansion during the debate. Representative Huddleston of Alabama criticised the bill as representing a "policy of imperialism that would saddle the country with a burden of militarism" and would lead to another war. Representative Kelley of Michigan, Republican member of the Naval Committee, urged the expansion, as did Representative Miller of Washington, another Republican.

Bill to Save the Militia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—A bill designed to continue National Guard organizations after their discharge from the army was introduced today by Senator Reed of Missouri, and referred to the Military Affairs Committee. He said it was offered as an amendment to the Army Appropriation bill, now in the House, and that the purpose was the "preservation of the National Guard system." He explained that it was drafted by National Guard officers to meet the situation created by War Department orders which would result in the disintegration of National Guard units upon demobilization.

Asks Pershing if He Favors Congress Investigating War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In a cable dispatch sent to General Pershing today, Representative Siegel asked the American commander if he favored a Congressional investigation of the conduct of the war, as provided by a resolution introduced by Mr. Siegel.

"Your efficiency and fairness impugned in Congress," said Mr. Siegel's message. "Do you favor an immediate Congressional investigation?"

GERMAN CABINET SHIFTS TO WEIMAR

several wounded soldiers he remarked to a titled companion:

"Will these swine infest the public parks forever?"

This remark was overheard by a member of the Soldiers' Council, who called his comrades and, following the Grand Duke, they gave him a sound thrashing, applying the whip to the Grand Ducal back amid the applause of many of his former subjects, who quickly gathered. Wilhelm was always one of the most-hated German Princes, which is saying a good deal.

More Troops Arrive at Weimar.

BERLIN, Feb. 3, (Associated Press.)—The situation at Weimar where the German National Assembly is to meet on Thursday, is showing marked improvement.

Additional Government troops arrived there on Sunday, and these, with the forces being collected east of Weimar, are believed to be sufficiently strong to defeat any attempt to interfere with the assembly.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 4.—The members of the German Government who arrived in Weimar Monday took up their residence in the palace, and later held a Cabinet meeting.

ULTIMATUM SENT TO BREMEN REBELS

Berlin Cabinet Spurns Compromise Framed by von Pritzelwitz, a Junker.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 3, (via Copenhagen.)—Von Pritzelwitz is back again and is trying to have his say in republican Germany. He is a type of the youthful Prussian junker in name and manner, but has adapted himself astoundingly to the new conditions.

Von Pritzelwitz is one of Colonel Gerstenberg's adjutants, who was commissioned to negotiate with the Bremen Spartacides to avoid bloodshed. He came to Bremen, saw, and thought he had conquered. At any rate, this Junkerling succeeded in persuading the bloodthirsty Bremen Spartacides to accept a compromise on the main points of the clash, as reported yesterday.

With this document, indorsed by half a dozen more or less anarchistic leaders, in his pocket, he got into an automobile and started further on his triumphant mission. He had not gone very far, however, when he was stopped by a company of heavily armed sailors equipped with machine guns, men of the type who in October last murdered their own officers. They had come from the seacoast to aid the Bremen Spartacides.

Imagine the effect when the young officer, on being asked his name, introduced himself as von Pritzelwitz. It would have gone wrong with him despite the initial peace propositions in his pocket had not a passing Spartacide leader obtained his release.

At length he arrived safely in Berlin. The People's Commissioners assured him of their distinguished consideration, but declared that they had no use for his peace propositions, especially the paragraph stipulating that the arms of the Spartacides should be delivered to the 9th Army Corps. They wanted those guns and rifles themselves.

So poor von Pritzelwitz had to return to Bremen immediately with the following Government ultimatum:

"The Bremen Council of People's Commissioners must resign at once. On Monday a new Government must be formed on the basis of the vote cast for delegates to the National Convention. Immediately after the new Government has assumed office, all arms must be delivered to the division of General Gerstenberg. If these conditions are unreservedly adhered to, the division of Gerstenberg will not occupy Bremen."

For the present von Pritzelwitz's part in this plebeian conflict is played out. He had sworn, as he assured the Bremen Spartacides, that there should not be any bloodshed if a von Pritzelwitz could prevent it, but, unhappily, when the Bremen anarchists became free of his mollifying influence they still more strongly barricaded Bremen's outskirts, mounted cannon and machine guns on the church towers and railway dams, and compelled the physicians to hold ambulances and themselves in attendance.

The latter did not have to wait long for business, for during the night reinforcements arrived from several quarters, and there was much shooting and some killing and wounding. Gerstenberg's men, who are still halting in the environs of Bremen, declare that the Spartacides shot their own reinforcements, mistaking them for an enemy, while the Bremen Soldiers' Council telephones that Gerstenberg attacked.

Von Pritzelwitz's absence also had a fatal influence on the Communist workmen of Bremen, who at a night meeting agreed unanimously that under no circumstances would they surrender their arms. So everything concerning Bremen is still in abeyance. Gerstenberg's division is waiting to learn if the Spartacides will comply with the Government's ultimatum.

Junker circles think it is too sad that von Pritzelwitz's peace negotiations failed, although they hardly care wether a little more or less proletarian blood is spilled. They hoped to show Erzeberger and the rest of the present Government how peace negotiations ought to be conducted successfully and that von Pritzelwitz's diplomatic genius would prove that they were the only class ordained to administer the affairs of the German people.

BERLIN, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Communist People's Commissioners of Bremen have declared their readiness to resign and form a new Government, to be composed of men from all the Socialist parties on the basis of the vote cast in the election. The armed workmen have agreed to surrender their arms to the Soldiers' Councils of Hamburg and Bremerhaven. Thereupon the Commissioners will ask the Government to withdraw the Gerstenberg division.

As the Berlin Government's demands for the formation of a Government at Bremen on the basis of the elections to the National Assembly, namely, from the majority Socialists and bourgeois parties, excluding the Spartacides, and the surrender of arms to the Government troops, have not been complied with, is is feared that a conflict is unavoidable.

A number of clashes have already occurred in and around Bremen. Volunteers from Bremen and the surrounding country are said to be joining the Government troops.

REVOLT IN EAST PRUSSIA.

Berlin Spartacides Seize Public Buildings at Koenigsberg.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—A majority of the Government buildings in Königsberg, East Prussia, have been seized by Spartacides from Berlin, according to a dispatch received in Copenhagen.

The Governor of East Prussia has declared a state of siege in the Thorn district and has instituted court-martials.

CHARGES ATTEMPT TO DISCREDIT WILSON

Hitchcock Asserts That Is the Reason for Republican Opposition to League of Nations.

BORAH ATTACKS TAFT PLAN

And Is Accused of Mixing Up the League to Enforce Peace with Paris Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—During debate in the Senate today on the League of Nations, Senator Hitchcock, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, accused the Republicans of opposing the project so as to discredit President Wilson with the nations sitting at the Peace Conference.

He accused Senator Borah of Idaho of deliberately mixing up ex-President Taft's scheme for a League to Enforce Peace with the League of Nations, in an effort to confuse the issue. No one, Mr. Hitchcock said, was qualified to speak on Mr. Wilson's ideas on the League of Nations because he had not yet enunciated them.

Senator Borah attacked the League to Enforce Peace project as inclined toward internationalism.

"When you transfer the sovereign power of this Government to some supernatural tribunal which will be controlled by those who are not responsible to the American people and thereby internationalize this Government you arrive at the same ultimate goal that Trotzky and Lenine are going to arrive at if they are permitted to," said Senator Borah. "What we need in this country is the fostering and strengthening of the national spirit.

"When this League to Enforce Peace goes across the country it will not tell you anything about the beauty of the American Republic. It will say that the time has arrived when we must transfer our capacity to take care of ourselves to a tribunal over which we have no control. What is the difference between that ultimate object to be obtained and the one for which Mr. Trotzky is contending?"

Senator Hitchcock, in reply, said that with the end of the war has disappeared the last vestige of the three great powers—Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Russia—that for centuries had waged wars of conquest.

"They lie in the dust today, dead, forever gone," said Senator Hitchcock. "With their disappearance from the world has disappeared the last lingering obstacle to international peace, perpetuated by an international agreement.

"And I want to ask if this great Republic, which has led the way in establishing in the world the right of men to govern themselves, hesitates to back its President in the fight he is now making in France to bring about a new era? These attacks which are made upon the floor of the Senate and throughout the country are calculated in their result, if not designed in their purpose, to hamper the President by conveying to the Old World the thought that America is opposed to his effort.

"These attacks are all directed against an imaginary League of Nations that is not seriously proposed except as a straw man to be knocked down. I cannot conceive, and no real friend of the League of Nations can conceive, of the possibility that the United States would enter into an agreement the purpose of which is to create a great international Frankenstein, with an army and navy so powerful that it might destroy the United States. I cannot conceive that Great Britain or France would ever enter into an agreement for the creation of such a monster, which might destroy one of the nations joining in its creation. No army or navy could force the United States to do anything, but the power of public opinion throughout the civilized world will be the supreme power, the moral power."

Senator Knox remarked that it "certainly would not be the position of the Senator from Nebraska that 'we do not know what it is, but we are for it.'"

"I may not know exactly what the league is to be, but I know what it is not to be," retorted Mr. Hitchcock. "It is not to be the monster that Senators on the other side of the aisle are attacking."

"Why does the Senator find fault with us?" demanded Mr. Borah. "We are not attacking anything the Senator stands for. We are not attacking anything the President stands for, so far as we know. But we are attacking a proposition which a most distinguished member of our party (ex-President Taft) stands for. Does the Senator object to our family quarrels?"

"I have not any very deep interest in what the Senator terms his "family quarrels," replied Mr. Hitchcock, "but I have a very high respect for ex-President Taft and his efforts to bring about a great good to the world. I have withheld my support from what he proposes, but until I have something myself definitely to propose I shall not stand here and denounce him. I object to attacks on the Taft plan, which are so made as to injure the President's plan by giving the impression abroad of antagonism in the Senate."

SHERMAN ASSAILS WILSON.

Says Nation Drifts While President Palavers with Kings.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Senator Sherman of Illinois made another bitter attack on President Wilson today in a speech in the Senate, and included Henry Ford in it. Speaking of the President, he said:

"Nothing but the grossest egotism took him to the Peace Conference, where no Executive of any other civilized power sits. He cannot resist the lure of the limelight. The groups to which he panders applaud, and the average man looks on in silent but undisguised disgust."

At the opening of his speech the Illinois Senator asserted that self-government had disappeared from the American Republic.

"It is now the rule of the alleged superman at the head of the group or of class aggregations seeking their own advantage," he said. "It is the rule of selfish, ambitious, greedy, impractical and dreaming men. Some chase phantoms of idealism, others build class despotism founded on spoliation, others congregate about revolution and pillage unrebuked in public places. All reach the same result. Pulling down the successful from the higher lever of achievement to the plane of mediocrity is hailed as progress. To have succeeded in private purposes it is become a badge of infamy and the target of every blatant defamer the Government can discover and drag from obscurity into public office.

"Our country hovers on the borderland between peace and war. Some of our soldiers fight in the far north of Russia, under the Arctic circle, and others shovel coal and do day labor in French camps across the sea. While they risk their lives and endure hardships in alien lands our President spends nine weeks in ceremony, banquets, and visitings with Kings, the powerful of the earth, in endless stately palaver. It is the old story of magnificence and misery, of splendor and suffering, of selfishness and sacrifice. While he coins new phrases and chases infinite abstractions in the empyrean heights of impossible human yearnings, the American nation drifts.

"We drift in Russia. We drift in Mexico. We drift on the brink of war and peace. We drift on industrial reconstruction. We drift of domestic policies and internal peace. The only definite goal visible is profligate expenditure and huge taxes. The only voice in the dismal wilderness is an appeal from time to time to the mob to complete the ruin misgovernment began."

Referring to Henry Ford's fight for a seat in the Senate, Senator Sherman said:

"Now a contest is under way to enable Henry to annex the United States Senate to his jitney works. President Wilson says Bolshevism in Russia can be stopped only by feeding the murderous ruffians who plan to prey on the industry of the world. Ford informs us he can cure them by moving pictures. A Ford car will be shown doing a tail-spin through a village with a constable possessed of fierce whiskers in pursuit.

Henry Ford's grasp of public affairs, Senator Sherman asserted, was measured by his "peace ark voyage to command peace by the mere majesty of his presence," and "the exemption of his son, Edsel, from military service."

"An alienist would say such a man's orientation is bad and no more fit to sit in this Senate than his son was willing to go in the army," said the Senator.

"When Mr. Ford became a candidate by Executive order," he said, "the President neglected to specify what primary ticket he must run on, so he took no chances of misinterpreting the order and ran on all of them. None of the parties wanted him, so in the scuffle he naturally fell into the bosom of the Michigan Democracy. It is in Michigan the residuary legatee of every Ishmaelite, anyhow, and so it drew Henry to an indifferent hand and tried to look happy. Somewhere there was another misunderstanding. It was agreed and Mr. Ford proclaimed last Fall there was no partisanship. So he entered the campaign, scorning politics and breathing lofty aspirations. He would not, said he, walk across the street or spend a dollar. Neither would he make a speech to be nominated or elected.

"Anyway, he went aboard a nonpartisan Ocean Ii., voyaging the Autumn seas toward the November elections. Trustful soul, destined to a rude awakening amid a tempest that drove him a hapless wreck to defeat! The President, like Ford himself, knows no limitation in politics. He therefore issued his proclamation in October, 1918, calling on the American people to elect none but Democrats. This deranged Henry's nonpartisan plan of navigation, and he sank under an adverse majority before the Michigan Democratic Central Committee could revise his sailing orders."

GEN. CROWDER'S RECORD SHOWS NO REPRIMAND

Words in March Letter That He Objected to Eliminated by Baker.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Discussion at the Capitol of published reports that Provost Marshal General Crowder had been reprimanded by General March, Chief of Staff, led the War Department to authorize a statement today that General Crowder's entire military record was unmarred and to disclose the origin of the reprimand story.

It was stated that when the second draft was being planned General March and General Crowder differed over the provision for medical examinations and exchanged letters on the subject. The language of a brief abstract of General March's letter, which went to division heads in the course of departmental routine, was construed by General Crowder as implying a reprimand, and he took the matter up with Secretary Baker. The Secretary wrote in reply that he found no reprimand was intended, but that to make this clear he had had the language to which the General objected altered.

A resolution introduced yesterday by Representative Siegel of New York proposed that the Speaker of the House appoint a special committee to investigate various charges affecting the War Department, including one that General Crowder had been reprimanded for expressing his views before a Congressional committee. It was said at the department that the files showed letters exchanged between Secretary Baker, General March, and General Crowder dealing with differences of opinion regarding the draft program, but that there had been no reprimand.

CONNECTICUT BALKS AT PROHIBITION

Senate Rejects Federal Amendment—First State to Fail to Ratify.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 4.—Connecticut, through the action of its Senate this afternoon, is the first State to decline to ratify the Federal Prohibition Amendment. Forty-four States through their Legislatures have voted for ratification.

It is believed that the Senate action definitely determines the attitude of this State, although the House of Representatives is expected to vote to ratify by a large margin. The vote in the Senate was 14 for ratification, all Republicans, and 20 against.

The first twelve amendments to the Constitution were not ratified by this State, nor was the Sixteenth Amendment, which relates to the income tax.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Feb. 4.—The joint resolution ratifying the Prohibition Amendment to the Federal Constitution was today adopted by the lower branch of the Pennsylvania Legislature, 110 to 93. The number of votes required to pass the resolution was 104. The resolution now goes to the Senate for concurrence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 4.—The Senate Special Legislation Committee today reported a resolution for ratification of the Federal Prohibition Amendment, with a recommendation for passage. It was placed on the calendar for Friday.

BONE DRY BILL PREPARED.

Limits Alcohol in Beverages to Half of 1 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A "bone dry" measure will be introduced early next week by Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara and Assemblyman Walter S. McNab of Schenectady, the lawmakers who led the fight for the ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment. The bill will define as an intoxicating beverage any liquor containing in excess of one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol, unless denaturized or otherwise rendered unfit for drinking purposes.

Robert G. Davey, counsel of the New York Anti-Saloon League, has spent days in preparation of the measure, of which a first draft reached the Capitol today. It was pronounced by lawmakers who read it as drastic and full of teeth.

WONG WARNED OF DEATH.

Called Daughter to Washington, Saying He Was Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 4.—That Dr. Theodore T. Wong, noted Chinese educator, who was murdered in Washington last week, anticipated death is indicated by evidence found at the University of Michigan. Miss Helen Wong, his daughter, is a student at the university. It is now known that two days before he was murdered Dr. Wong sent a telegram to Professor Hutchins, President of the university, saying:

"Dr. Wong in critical condition. Tell Miss Wong to come at once."

Miss Wong is now in Washington, where she went expecting to find her father ill. He was dead when she arrived.

FRENCH AND GERMAN SOCIALISTS IN TILT

Engage at Berne Conference in Lively Debate Over Responsibility for the War.

THOMAS ACCUSES TEUTONS

Recalls Acts Their Party Approved —Renaudel Says Liebknecht's Blood Is Upon Them.

BERNE, Feb. 4.—A violent rhetorical duel between the French and German Socialists, with many reciprocal reproaches and accusations, marked the second sitting last night of the International Labor and Socialist Conference. The French side of the debate was in the hands of Pierre Renaudel, Albert Thomas, and M. Mistral.

Otto Wels, the former military commander of Berlin, defended the German position, and said that the German Socialists already had settled the question of responsibility for the war in having taken all power from the Princes and Kings. Wels accused Great Britain of having killed 700,000 German women, children, and old men by the "hunger blockade." He said that the exclusion of the German Socialists would impede the reconstruction of the Internationale.

Two resolutions were before the meeting. One, introduced by the Socialist Bureau, provided that a discussion of a Society of Nations begin immediately. The other, which was introduced by M. Thomas, provided that debate on responsibility for the war should come first. This resolution read:

"The Berne Socialist Conference, considering that a cataclysm deliberately loosed by a few men has inflicted upon the world nameless calamities and threatens to harrow up civilization itself, and considering, on the other hand, that all hopes of a just and lasting peace depend upon the possibility of founding a Society of Nations; that there can be no Society of Nations without trust, and that international public faith would remain forever compromised if the Governments which have violated it could escape punishment for their crimes and if Socialist chiefs who made themselves accomplices of these Governments were not branded outcasts by the Internationale, has decided to inscribe at the head of its agenda the question of governmental responsibilities in the causes of the war, that of violation of neutralities which had been placed under the guarantees of Europe and that of the responsibility of Socialists involved.

"On the other hand, the conference, considering that the future of socialism in the world is threatened with greatest dangers by new tendencies called Bolshevism, decides to place in the second position on its agenda the rôle of democracy in the establishment of Socialist order."

Herr Wels argued that the German Social Democrats should not be charged with responsibility for the war as none of them had been members of the Government when the war began. Germany, he said, had made war because of the menace of Russia. Carl Kautsky, he added, had been charged with the task of searching the imperial archives to ascertain the causes of the war. Wels said he hoped that similar work would be done in the allied archives.

M. Thomas recalled the attitude of the German Socialists at the outbreak of the war. He called attention also to their approval of the treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest. He declared that the Majority Socialists in Germany had approved of the great offensive of March, 1918.

Wels thereupon attacked M. Thomas and charged that he had driven Russia back into the war by the assurances he gave Premier Kerensky. He said that the Allies gave strength to the Bolsheviki by not attending the Brest-Litovsk conference. The German Socialist said that M. Thomas had made no protest against the conditions of the armistice "which are ruining Germany," so that the silence of the German Socialists when the German Government took a similar attitude toward the Allies ought to be understood.

M. Renaudel then entered into the debate and recalled the words of Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg that "necessity knows no law" as proof that the German Socialists must have known of Germany's crimes.

M. Renaudel said he regretted that Dr. Karl Liebknecht had become a Bolshevik, but that was because Liebknecht had lost confidence in the German Socialists.

"His blood falls upon you," M. Renaudel declared.

This morning the entire proceedings were taken up with a speech by Kurt Eisner, whose impressive exposition of the German and the international situation received much applause. There was, however, some incredulous headshaking, for instance, when Eisner made the statement that the German revolution was not a consequence of her military downfall, but the result "of our long and ardent socialistic propaganda work."

To this statement Eisner added that in the future "we shall act, act, act!"

REPUDIATE BERNE MEETING.

American Socialists See in It Deep-Laid German Scheme.

PARIS, Feb. 4, (Associated Press.)—The American Federation of Labor delegation, headed by Samuel Gompers, stated tonight that they had refused to attend the International Labor Conference at Berne because the delegation had been instructed by several of the American labor organizations to present their demands to the Peace Conference, which already has in view international legislation projects and is not likely to be influenced by the Berne Convention.

The statement asserts the belief that the proposals of the Berne Conference will be "German made" and points out that German labor had the right to present its demands at the final peace table.

The American labor delegates indicate that there is a possibility of meeting the German delegates after the signing of the peace treaty, but that meanwhile they will work with the Peace Conference and that the International Labor Committee will summon an interallied conference at Paris of organizations not represented at Berne.

Charles Edward Russell and William English Walling, in behalf of the Social Democratic League of the United States, gave out the following statement:

"As delegates of our organization we decline to go to Berne because, despite the pretension that the world's laboring classes are represented there, its principal movers are those in all countries who tried to cause peace when it would have meant the triumph of imperialism and the ruin of the working class democracy.

"We note that the General Federation of Trades Unions of Great Britain has no representation there, nor the Italian Socialist Party, representing the majority of the Italian Socialists; nor the Belgian Socialist Party, nor the American Federation of Labor, and that forty Socialists in the French Chamber of Deputies allowed their delegates to go only under protest, and under the threat that their action would be repudiated unless the Scheidemann group was excluded.

"We also note that one-third of the Berne delegates are recognized by the Bolsheviki as sympathetic with their doctrines.

"We believe that the Berne Conference is designed by Germany to redeem her from military defeat and avoid the payment of a just indemnity by intrigue and secret diplomacy."

STORY CHARGES DROPPED.

Judge Crain Dismisses Indictments Against Mother and Sons.

The indictments against Mrs. William Cumming Story and her sons, Allan and Sterling, charging them with violations of the anti-tipping law, were dismissed on Monday by Judge Crain in General Sessions. The indictments resulted from an investigation conducted by District Attorney Swann into the affairs of the National Emergency Relief Society, of which she was the President. Assistant District Attorney Kilroe told the court that the death of an important witness left the state with insufficient evidence to prosecute the cases.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Story, who was formerly Director General of the Daughters of the American Revolution and President of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, objected to the indictments being dropped on this ground and moved that the indictments be disposed of in such a form as to exonerate her. Her attorney declared that the evidence before the Grand Jury was insufficient and partly illegal.

WANTED ONLY $20,000,000.

Gov. Philipp Had Policemen Waiting When Lunatic Came to Collect.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 4.—Ralph C. Kennan of Portage, Wis., invaded the private office of Governor E. L. Philipp today, armed with a pistol and demanded $20,000,000. The Governor told him he would have the money ready for him if he returned in the afternoon, and Kennan readily consented.

When Kennan returned policemen concealed behind the doors of the Executive Chamber seized him, and after a struggle overpowered him and took him to the police station, where he was searched. Every pocket of his clothes yielded letters to prominent men all over the country, all demanding money. Analysis of the letters tended to show that Kennan had become unbalanced through continued study and belief in mental telepathy, as each letter contained at least one paragraph thrown into the body of the letter without connection explaining that subject.

One of the letters was addressed to President Wilson and asked what was delaying the appropriation of $365,000,000 "granted to him by agreement of members of both houses of Congress."

Would you brush your teeth if there had never been advertising of dentifrice or tooth-brushes?

Of course you would.

Still, there are those who need "education" in the use of dentifrice for teeth, soaps for scalps, concrete for roads, tractors for farms, and so on and on, a list as long as your arm.

Who is to educate the public?—the schools leave off somewhere between the ages of fourteen and twenty-two—the newspapers when anything ceases to be a nine days' wonder.

"Line upon line, precept upon precept"—that's education and that's advertising.

Over and over and over again until people learn to brush their teeth.

Oh no they don't! You're mistaken. The best available statistics indicate that only about 25% of the people in America brush their teeth. Advertising increases the needs of the individual and the best advertising multiplies the number of consumers.

For example, the magnesia makers show more people how to conserve coal, and another association teaches new uses for cement.

VEGETABLE DINNER

The American public eat too few vegetables. Their salt and bulk, or "roughage" as some call it, are most valuable for digestive troubles.

CHILDS Vegetable Dinners are prepared for those who would "eat and grow thin" as well as those who would "eat and grow fat".

If too fat, eat carrots (excellent for constipation), onions (excellent for colds and skin disorders) and cabbage (excellent for the blood).

If too thin, eat potatoes (rich in starch), string beans (rich in protein), beets (rich in sugar) and turnips (a general tonic).

Your choice of any three of the above vegetables—deliciously cooked and temptingly served in generous portions—constitutes a Vegetable Dinner at CHILDS.

FOR JOINT SYSTEM OF LABOR CONTROL

Commissioner Sayer Suggests Plan for State Regulation with Federal Aid.

SENDS GOVERNOR DETAILS

Soldiers' and Sailors' Protective Association Asks for $50,000 to Carry On Work.

Unemployment and methods of alleviating it were discussed at a meeting of the Committee on Unemployment and Demobilization of the Governor's Reconstruction Commission yesterday afternoon in the offices of the commission in the Hall of Records. The work of the American Soldiers and Sailors' Protective Association was indorsed by Commissioner Sayer of the State Industrial Commission and by William J. Shieffelin of the National Civic Federation, an organization which had investigated its activities. Mr. Sayer presented a plan of reorganiztion of the employment service, the details of which he has sent to Governor Smith for his consideration. It is based upon the idea of State control and Federal aid. Morris J. Ernst of the City Club elaborated upon this plan, urging that a law be passed abolishing all private employment agencies.

The case of the Soldiers and Sailors' Protective Association was presented by Wilfred C. Dittoe, President; Harry E. Prettyman, and Eugene Greenhut, Vice Presidents.

The association made the definite proposal that they be given $50,000 to put their work on a sound basis, as they had shown its worth from the fact that in the first week they had secured 380 jobs for men. Mr. Sayer suggested that the $50,000 might be provided in some way from the $200,000,000 war fund of the seven war organizations, as the money had been given directly for the soldiers.

Mr. Sayer told the commission that he had talked to the Governor about the whole unemployment situation, and that as a result he had some definite proposals to make, proposals which were embodied in a letter he had sent to the Governor. He read the gist of the plan from the letter:

To my mind, it is unthinkable that there should continue to be a separate State and Federal employment system in operation within this State, serving the same interests, meeting the same problems, and in rivalry, albeit friendly, one with the other. The friendliest kind of co-operation in such a case cannot make up for the fundamental lack of co-ordination.

Three suggestions for the solution of this problem have been offered, namely:

1. An exclusive State system.
2. An exclusive Federal system.
3. A joint Federal-State system under the central control of State officials, but with financial aid contributed by the Federal Government and with a joint Federal program and policy.

Mr. Sayer said that he favored the last system, and calculated that on a peace basis it would cost the State $500,000 a year.

Tilden Adamson of the United States Employment Service, speaking for Dr. Kirchway, the Director, told the commission that the city could help the work by setting an example in stimulating public works, especially as $5,000,000 had been appropriated for schools and was not being used.

Other speakers were Frank W. Smith of the Knights of Columbus, Dr. Robert T. Hill of the War Camp Community Service, and Edward Arnold of the National Catholic War Council.

The New York State Employment Service made public yesterday the number of men and women who registered for places in the week ended Feb. 1, the number of places offered, and those that were referred to jobs and those that were placed. The lists follow:

NEW YORK CITY.

	Men.	Women.	Total.
Registered	8,226	1,815	10,041
Wanted	13,388	4,280	17,668
Referred	7,837	2,685	10,522
Placed	4,115	1,355	5,470

NEW YORK STATE, INCLUDING THE CITY.

Registered	11,463	2,641	14,104
Wanted	15,990	5,640	21,639
Referred	10,347	3,944	14,291
Placed	5,622	2,229	7,851

Knights of Columbus secretaries who travel on the transports will soon be given cards to be distributed among returning soldiers requesting information as to the man's former occupation, the name of his previous employer, and his address. The cards will then be sent to the headquarters of the Knights of Columbus employment service, and thence to the 1,700 councils throughout the country. The secretaries who will seek employment for the men will work in co-operation with the United States Employment Service.

MEASURE FOR LEGITIMACY.

Assembly Bill Affecting Certain Children Introduced by Mrs. Lilly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 4.—Judges of the Children's Court and other agencies interested in the welfare of children are behind a bill introduced today by Mrs. Mary M. Lilly of the Seventh Assembly District, Manhattan. The bill provides a method for establishing the legitimacy of children born out of wedlock. According to Mrs. Lilly, the bill was promoted by the increase in the illegitimate birthrate during the war.

The bill provides that the identity of the father must be established in a court of law. This done, the child has the right to its father's name and an equal right in inheritance with children born in wedlock.

Legislative leaders tonight were not prepared to make any prediction regarding the fate in store for the bill. The measure was sent to committees in accordance with the usual practice, and will come up for public hearing within a fortnight. Measures of a similar character which have been before the law-making body have not received serious consideration.

OPERA

By James Gibbons Huneker

Galli-Curci in "Linda."

Last night at the Lexington Theatre Mme. Galli-Curci made her first appearance this season in Donizetti's "Linda di Chamounix," opera in three acts and sung in Italian. Here is the cast of a work that has not been interpreted here by any important artists since Adelina Patti in April, 1890:

The Marquis	Vittorio Trevisan
Carlo	Forrest Lamont
Parish Priest	Virgilio Lazzari
Antonio	Riccardo Stracciari
Madalena	Maria Claessens
Linda	Amelita Galli-Curci
Pierotto	Caroline Lazzari
Peasant Girl	Myrna Sharlow

Conductor, Giuseppe Sturani.

Popular as is "Linda in Italy" today, there is no question that it has dated. To the audience last night, and it was very large and ready for outbursts of enthusiasm, the opening act in Chamounix was rather pedestrian. The libretto of Rossi might have come from an Eugene Sue romance of the sort popular in the middle of the last century—pretty rustic. Old Marquis vieux marcheur type. The father who curses his child. Venerable imbecile. Sobbing mother—and, after all, nothing really happened. Virtuous heroine. Mad scene, acquiescent flute. Tenor hero, a bore. Madness vanishes. All is for the best in this best of possible worlds. But if the melodrama palls, the music of Donizetti is still vital—some of it. The mad episode aforesaid is occasionally heard in the concert room, and, frankly, it sounds more sincere—if sincere madness there can be; ask Bernard Shaw—than the Lucia mental eclipse. There are fewer roulades, and the voice and flute generally travel in thirds or sixths; which is better than unisons, usually a severe test for the ear of the prima donna. The second act is full of comedy, good old-fashioned Transpontine sort. It is also the dramatic high-light of the opera. The last act, with its return of the native, we were forced (no one had to hold us in our stall) to miss.

The performance was excellent. As the wicked nobleman Vittorio Trevisan won applause, and legitimately, with his amusing comedy. He relieved a lugubrious scene, for there is much wailing by the ingenuous folk of Chamounix. Forrest Lamont was Carlo; anyhow better than the Peeping Tom of "Isabeau." Virgilio Lazzari and Riccardo Stracciari received a demonstration after their stirring duo in Act I.

Pumped up pathos abounded, and Stracciari pulled out the agony stop too often, but his acting was finished and his singing so charged with feeling that he shared honors with the star. His appearance before the curtain was received with such an outburst that Galli-Curci, always charming in matters of this sort, gracefully withdrew and the favorite baritone had the stage to himself. Handsome Caroline Lazzari, a contralto, was well liked. But there were a half dozen different tone-productions at work and the stroke of the glottis was heard in the land—we are almost tempted to say Flatland, did we not remember that Flatland is only in two dimensions of space and all of the artists occupied three or more.

Amelita Galli-Curci was given a cordial reception. In a new rôle, wearing a white Marquise wig in Act II., she seemed like a stranger. She was in good voice, sang with her accustomed fluency, and after a slight nervousness had disappeared she was once more Galli-Curci: that is, she sang meltingly and her middle tones were like legato velvet; she showered scales and staccati and trills, but the aerial floating quality of her upper register was not as last year's. That she would sag from pitch was to have been expected. It was marked in her first air. Proper breath control is the cause of this unhappy failing; one phrase finished, the next can't be "jacked up" in time, to use a homely simile, hence the consequent lapse.

Yet, what a sweet vôice, what an engaging personality are Galli-Curci's. Musical from her forehead to her instep, she delights her auditory with her unaffected pathos and larklike facility. When she is in the vein she soars vocally. Her acting is conventional. She was comely as her natural self. After Act II. the rather apathetic audience awakened to the fact that it was Galli-Curci, and took her, metaphorically, to its bosom. And there were plenty of hospitable bosoms present, ex-President Taft and War Secretary Baker among the rest. On Friday night we expect the Diva in a more responsive mood and sympathetic rôle, Lucia. The audience comprised the most fashionable and artistic people in town.

Hulda Lashanska, Soprano, Pleases.

Hulda Lashanska, whose admirers filled Carnegie Hall to hear her last evening, possesses a soprano voice of rare, almost fragile beauty, unlike any other that has come to maturity in New York since that of Alma Gluck. She sang with exquisite taste with velvety pianissimo topnotes, such lighter airs as Tschaikovsky's "Serenade," given in French, which had to be repeated, and she showed dramatic intelligence and darker tones of the silvery voice in an air in Italian from Faccio's "Hamlet," to which was added another encore. Isidore Luckstone, who accompanied the first Sembrich recitals here, assisted at the piano last night in place of Kurt Schindler. Mme. Lashanska's program included airs of Gluck, Mozart, and Haydn, and songs of Grieg, MacDowell, Mana Zucca, Marion Bauer, and others. Mr. Gatti-Casazza was with Mme. Sembrich in the full tier of boxes. The audience was enthusiastic and there were many flowers.

PROPOSE TO RESTORE STATE CONVENTION

Bill Prepared for Introduction by Republicans Modifying Direct Primary System.

GOVERNOR COOL TOWARD IT

Says Legislature Should Concentrate on Problems Pressing for Solution.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Some days ago, after unfavorable comment had been made on the omission from Governor Smith's annual message to the Legislature of any recommendation for amendments to the election law which would restore the convention as an agency for the nomination of State officers and candidates for judiciary positions, the Governor strongly intimated that if the Legislature would take the initiative he would give his approval to legislation of that character. Tonight, when the Governor learned that two Republican legislators, Senator Charles W. Walton of Ulster and Assemblyman George R. Fearon of Onondaga, were preparing to introduce a bill for that purpose, he indicated that the measure would find no favor with him if the Republicans succeeded in passing it.

"The Legislature would do much better by getting at problems that affect the welfare of the whole people, and not merely the manner in which the next Governor is to be nominated, especially as the nomination of the next Governor is a year and a half off," said Governor Smith.

When asked to define the problems with which, in his opinion, the Legislature should busy itself, the Governor said that taxation, municipal ownership, minimum wage legislation, and health insurance commended themselves to him as far more urgent and pressing.

The Walton-Fearon bill will be presented to both branches of the Legislature at tomorrow's session.

The bill provides for the nomination of State officers and judiciary candidates only at conventions to be held on the eighth Tuesday before election and made up of delegates elected at a direct primary election on the ninth Tuesday before election. The bill provides that the Assembly district shall be the unit of representation and that the basis of representation shall be fixed by the State Committees of the respective party organizations.

Novel features of the bill are a provision made for the naming on petitions for the designation of delegates of the preference of any group of petitioners in the matter of nominees for office, which, where set forth, would be binding on the delegates, and a provision that where no such preference is stated in the petition voters at the primary election where delegates are chosen may write in on the ballot the names of persons they would like to see nominated. The Secretary of State or custodians of primary records are required under the terms of the bill to certify what number of voters have expressed a preference for one candidate for the nomination or another.

FIGHT RECONSTRUCTION BILL.

Republicans in Legislature Inclined to Deny Funds to Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 4.—The bill providing an appropriation for Governor Smith's newly appointed Reconstruction Commission was not, as had been expected, taken up for consideration in the Assembly today. Instead, it was ruled off the calendar and debate on the measure postponed until tomorrow, when a lively contest on partisan lines is expected. The Governor and his friends are showing fight tonight following this action by the Republican majority.

The Republican leaders are inclined to view the commission as a vehicle for the political advancement of the Governor, and also resent his failure to consult them before appointing the commission, and to give them an opportunity to name at least part of its personnel.

BROOKLYN MEN QUIT BECAUSE OF HEARST

Resign from Victory Celebration Committee After Jonas Retires.

EXPECT OTHERS TO FOLLOW

Independent Citizens' Committee May Be Formed Across the Bridge as a Further Protest.

Three members of the Brooklyn Victory Celebration Committee who urged Nathan S. Jonas last week not to yield to the demand of the sympathizers of William Randalph Hearst that he resign as Chairman of the committee yesterday sent their resignations to Borough President Reigelmann. Two other members of the committee also announced their intention to resign after they learned that Borough President Reigelmann had accepted Mr. Jonas's resignation nothwithstanding the unanimous vote of support given to the Chairman by the Executive Committee.

It was reported among members of the general Victory Celebration Committee yesterday that all but about six of the members of the Executive Committee would resign as a protest against the attempt of Borough President Reigelmann to enforce the demand of Hearst and his sympathizers that James M. Beck should not speak at the meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of Music last week, as well as against the acceptance of Chairman Jonas's resignation. Reports of a proposal to form an independent citizens' committee in Brooklyn as a protest against the injection of politics into the affairs of the committee also were heard. The Independent Citizens' Committee in Manhattan already has offered its support and co-operation.

Those who resigned from the Brooklyn committee yesterday were Meier Steinbrink, the lawyer, Chairman of the Sub-Committee on Medals; Fred Gretsch, Chairman of the Sub-Committee on Music, and Victor A. Lersner, the banker. Others who have announced their intention of resigning are G. Foster Smith, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and Alfred T. White, Associate Chairman of the Committee on Permanent Memorial. Four other persons resigned from the General Committee. They were Colonel George A. Price, a civil war veteran; Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Davenport, and Edward F. Stevens.

"Your action in ignoring the unanimous wish of the Executive Committee can only be interpreted as your election to sacrifice what is best for Brooklyn in the interest of your own political ambition," wrote Mr. Steinbrink to Borough President Reigelmann. "My view is that no self-respecting person can continue on this committee, except with the understanding that all committee action must first meet with the approval of your political masters."

Mr. Jonas yesterday denied the assertion made by Mayor Hylan that he had been rebuffed when he sought to take part in the Mayoraity campaign in favor of Hylan by hiring the "biggest theatre in Manhattan" for a meeting. He gave out a copy of a letter written to Hylan on Oct. 30, 1917, in which he said that although Hylan's secretary had asked permission to use Mr. Jonas's name on the Campaign Committee he had refused because the "low level" of the campaign had restrained him from making up his mind between the two candidates. The letter gave permission to Hylan to say that Mr. Jonas finally had made up his mind to vote for him.

a phonograph which has transformed mechanism to music and made possible the reproduction of audible arts as the artist would wish.

The strong, evenly controlled motor has an effect parallel to the developed diaphragm breathing of a trained singer—firm and sure. A clear mica reproducer brings out the best in your discs, and, mellowed by a perfect sound chamber, you get the epitome of scientific efforts to reproduce tone vibrant and true.

Beautiful Designs in Cabinets are more and more in demand; for the phonograph has become as permanent a musical fixture as the piano. Widdicomb Cabinets and Console Cases represent graceful period designs of Queen Anne, Sheraton, Chippendale, and Adam.

SECRETARY BAKER SEES TROOPS DEBARK

Compliments Work of 44th and 60th Artillery Here on Transport Cedric.

H. R. MALLORY BRINGS 1,755

These, with 1,706 on Liner Duca d'Aosta, Reported Off Sandy Hook, Will Debark Today.

Two transports, the Cedric and the Henry R. Mallory, arrived yesterday from France with 3,262 troops, but only the 3,507 on the Cedric were debarked. The officers and men on the Henry R. Mallory and the 1,706 troops aboard the Italian liner Duca d'Aosta, reported last night off Sandy Hook, will be landed this morning at Hoboken.

Army officers on the Cedric which brought the 44th and 60th United States Coast Artillery, said that when they left Brest on Jan. 25, there were 68,000 troops in the port waiting to embark for home, and the 27th Division, including 785 officers and 24,058 enlisted men, were expected next day. George Harkhorn, a wagoner, attached to Battery E of the 44th Field Artillery, died of pneumonia Jan. 31, and was buried at sea.

While the troops were landing at the White Star pier, at the foot of West Twentieth Street, Secretary of War Baker was noticed standing at the foot of the gangway watching the men debark. The Secretary said that he was at Hoboken when the Cedric passed and he thought that he would like to see the coast artillerymen land. After complimenting the officers upon the good work done by the two regiments in France Secretary Baker drove away to catch the Congressional Limited for Washington.

The 44th Regiment, commanded by Major Robert N. Campbell, left for France on Aug. 14, 1917, went into action in April, 1918, and continued until the armistice was signed. The 2d Battalion, commanded by Captain J. B. Wagon, lost 10 per cent. of its strength by casualties. The 1st and 3d Battalions fought in the Champagne district, and were attached to the French First Army, commanded by General Gourand. They smashed through the Hindenburg line on July 15. Seventeen were decorated with the French War Cross.

The 60th Coast Artillery, composed chiefly of men from the old Virginia National Guard, under the command of Lieut. Col. Fairfax Ayers of Rye, N. Y., got into the thick of the fighting in September in the St. Mihiel sector. On Sept. 20 the regiment supported the 77th Division in the battle of the Argonne, and were supporting them at Sedan when the armistice was signed on Nov. 11. The regiment had five citations and five of its members were awarded the D. S. C. Colonel F. H. Lincoln, who took command of the 60th Regiment when Colonel J. E. Wallace was killed on Oct. 24, said that the casualties reached as high as 17 per cent. at one time.

The Henry R. Mallory was four days late from Brest with 1,755 officers and men, among whom were 126 sick and wounded. The transport was so buffetted by westerly gales and head seas that the Captain was forced to put into the Azores for coal, fresh provisions, and to refill his water tanks. She has on board the 327th Field Artillery, 12 officers and 1,255 men, chiefly from the Middle West.

CLASH WITH BAKER.

Senate Propaganda Committee Finds Information Refused.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—At the public session of the Senate Committee Investigating Propaganda today Senator Overman announced that he had requested Secretary Baker to furnish to the committee the Military Intelligence file which refers to H. J. H. von Engelken, who was formerly in charge of the Farm Land Board in South Carolina. Senator Overman said he had asked for the file as a result of a letter he had received from ex-Governor Manning and ex-Senator Benet of South Carolina. In reply to Senator Overman's request, Secretary Baker said he did not think it compatible with the public interest to make the file public.

There was much discussion of the Secretary's attitude. Senator Nelson said that if Mr. Baker continued to veto the requests of the committee the investigation of German propagantia might just as well be brought to an end. Senator Wolcott characterized the Secretary's attitude as forming a dangerous precedent that should not be permitted to go unchallenged.

Subsequently a letter from Secretary Baker was produced which showed that he was willing to let the committee have the von Engelken file if it persisted in the request. The Secretary wrote that he would help the committee in every way in his power.

Bolshevists Active in Chile.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 3.—Dispatches from Chile report an alarming situation at Antofagasta, where it is said that disorders which have been prevailing for some time have taken an admittedly Bolshevist turn. It is said that the agitators are demanding the establishment of a new Government. The police are said to have captured documents showing a list of business houses which are to be sacked and destroyed by mobs.

PASSPORTS FOR SOCIALISTS.

Will Be Permitted to Attend Congress at Berne.

The State Department has issued passports to Algernon Lee, Socialist Alderman, and James Oneal, an editor of The New York Call, to attend the International Socialist and Labor Congress now being held at Berne. The passports were issued shortly after President Wilson's request was transmitted to the State Department. The Socialists hope that John M. Work of Iowa will also be permitted to go. The delegates were chosen by a referendum of the Executive Committee of the Socialist Party.

When he was asked to comment on the reported refusal of Samuel Gompers to attend the Berne congress in the face of President Wilson's desire that he go, Mr. Oneal said last night that the attitude of Mr. Gompers was not a matter of surprise to Socialists here. "We could have anticipated it, as it is in keeping with his general conservative views," he added.

Mr. Oneal said that the statement of Charles Edward Russell and William English Walling, cabled here from Paris and calling the Berne congress a plan to help the Germans, was "amusing."

PACKWOOD CLUE IGNORED.

No Effort Made to Find Man Who Called Mrs. Ellsworth.

Although the body of Miss Azeele Packwood, who committed suicide under the Palisades, was identified a week ago, following a mysterious telephone call to Mrs. Bradford Ellsworth, it was said last night that neither the police of New York nor New Jersey had tried to discover this mysterious caller.

Mrs. Ellsworth said last night that she had received no further communication from the man who called her that night, and that the police had not questioned her on that point.

Prosecutor Huckins of Bergen County said he was satisfied that Miss Packwood had committed suicide, and that the case was at an end.

R. E. Moore Art Brought $142,015.

Returns for the Oriental art collection of Rufus E. Moore, the final sale of which was held at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, were $142,015 for 1,453 numbers. The total for the afternoon was $8,715. Exhibition cases in which the collection had been housed brought some of the higher prices of the afternoon. A. A. Auston paid $640 for two pairs of large exhibition cases with frames of ebonized wood; $290 for a mahogany case carved, with cabriole legs, and $180 for an exhibition cabinet with steel frame. An imperial enamel plaque, Chien-lung, went to R. Craft for $230; E. G. Kennedy paid $135 for a Peking enamel table of the same period, and J. Z. Noorian $130 for a Graeco-Roman glass bowl with beautiful rainbow iridescence.

Hammerstein on Armistice Board.

The Spirit Of Sterling Service

FOR eleven years, STERLING Tires have been sold almost entirely from maker to user and we have been in touch with them until they came back to us for repair, or as "junk." Thus we have had intimate personal knowledge of their performance.

Our business has been large enough to give us the benefit of adequate, efficient and economical organization, but not so great as to lose the element of personality.

Ours is a distinctly human concern, because the men who own the business work in it. We build Tires that we can confidently sell to our friends and neighbors.

We guarantee them 5,000 miles (6,000 in 30x3½ and 31x4), but we expect them to give very much more and we build them on that principle. We KNOW that every STERLING tire that is kept properly inflated and that is not badly damaged by accident, or abuse, will give more than the guaranteed mileage.

We want and intend them to give excess mileage, so we REPAIR THEM FREE OF CHARGE, in all of our thirty-six branches, as long as the condition of the tire will justify the repair.

STERLING Super-Size Cord Tires are the crowning result of our eleven years of experience. We will not say they are the "best on earth," but we do believe it impossible to make tires any better—and we know many that are not as good.

Many of our commercial customers who keep accurate records, tells us that STERLING Tires cost them less per mile than any others they have used. We like to deal with people who keep accurate records.

Any good dealer can fill your order.

THE NASH SIX

PERFECTED VALVE-IN-HEAD MOTOR

THAT the Nash Six with Perfected Valve-In-Head motor has proved itself unusually powerful, economical and quiet in the service of owners throughout the country was generally conceded by those forming the crowds which visited our exhibit at the show yesterday. And after inspecting this car and its fine motor, the reasons for this good performance seemed to be readily understood.

41 OF OUR HEROES GET HIGHEST HONORS

Congressional Medals Awarded by Pershing to 10 Officers and 31 Enlisted Men.

MANY IN LIST ARE DEAD

Numerous Instances of Machine-Gun Nests Being Attacked Frontally in Argonne Fighting.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The award of forty-one Congressional Medals of Honor, America's highest military decoration, which previously had been given to only three men for service in the great war, was announced today by the War Department. Two lists of awards were issued, one bearing the names of two officers and nineteen enlisted men and the other those of eight officers and twelve enlisted men.

The medals were awarded on recommendation of General Pershing for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty." Some of the medals were awarded posthumously. The complete list of awards follows:

Lieut. Col. Emery J. Pike, 1,806 Tenth Street, Des Moines, Iowa, division machine gun officer, 82d Division, who died of wounds, collected twenty men of scattered infantry units during an advance and later assembled several platoons and established a line, overcoming disorganization so that the position could be held. He was wounded by shellfire while going to the assistance of one of his outposts who had been wounded.

First Lieut. George S. Robb, 308 South Twelfth Street, Salina, Kan., 369th Infantry, held his position on the front line all night, although severely wounded twice, and, although wounded twice again the following day, assumed command when his Captain and company officers were killed, and by flanking the town of Sechault with machine guns aided his battalion in holding it.

Captain Edward C. Allworth, Crawford, Wash., 60th Infantry, swam the canal of the Meuse to lead the advance when artillery had destroyed the bridge while a company was crossing under his personal leadership. The enemy was thrown back out of machine-gun nests and 100 prisoners taken by Allworth's handful of troops, paving the way for a larger advance.

Lieutenant Harold A. Furlong, 2,950 West Grand Boulevard, Detroit, 353d Infantry, who captured four machine-gun nests single-handed and brought back 20 prisoners when his company had been held up by machine-gun fire.

Private Dashed Through Barrage.

Private John J. Kelly, 6,149 Kimball Avenue, Chicago, 78th Company, 6th Regiment, Marine Corps, ran 100 yards through the American barrage to attack a machine gun nest, killing the gunner and one of the crew and returning through the barrage with eight prisoners.

Corporal Harold W. Roberts, San Francisco, gave his life when the tank he was driving slipped into a water-filled shellhole, and, knowing that but one of the two-men crew could escape, Roberts pushed his companion out, saying: "Well, only one of us can get out, and out you go."

Sergeant William Sawelson, 315 North Fifth Street, Harrison, N. J., Company M, 312th Infantry, carried water to a wounded man and was killed by machine gun bullets while attempting a second trip.

Second Lieutenant J. Hunter Wickersham, 3,416 Colfax Boulevard, Denver, 353d Infantry, ordered and led an advance of his platoon after his right arm had been crippled by shell fragments and continued firing his revolver with his left hand until he fell from loss of blood. He died before aid could reach him.

First Lieutenant Samuel Woodfill, Fort Thomas, Ky., 60th Infantry, personally captured three machine-gun nests one after the other, killing or capturing their crews. As he was about to jump into the third nest with his revolver, two Germans in a nearby nest turned their machine gun on him. Missing them with his revolver, he grabbed a pick and killed them both.

Private Nels Wold, McIntosh, Minn., Company I, 138th Infantry, captured a machine-gun nest and eleven prisoners, and later rescued a comrade about to be shot by a German officer, whom Wold killed. Wold was himself killed while rushing a fifth machine-gun nest.

Deadly Work with Shotgun.

Sergeant Lloyd M. Sibert, Salinas, Cal., Company F, 354th Infantry, remained with his platoon although ill and charged an enemy machine gun, killing one of the crew with a shotgun and capturing two others. Although wounded, he continued in action until the last unit returned, when he volunteered and brought in wounded until he fainted from exhaustion.

Major Oscar F. Miller, 1,727 West Fifty-first Street, Los Angeles, 361st Infantry, personally led a charge in the Argonne Forest, although shot through the leg and arm, and when a third bullet through the abdomen brought him to the ground, continued to urge his troops forward, bidding them leave him and push on to the next ridge. He died of his wounds.

Captain George H. Mallon, 1,931 Hallock Street, Kansas City, 132d Infantry, with nine soldiers captured nine machine guns without loss while separated from his company, and later captured a battery of four 155mm. howitzers and its crew. Mallon attacked the enemy with his fists in charging the battery and later personally made a frontal rush against two machine guns which he silenced, his energy resulting in the capture all told of 100 prisoners, 11 machine guns, four 155mm. howitzers, and one anti-aircraft gun.

First Sergeant Sidney G. Gusperts, 701 West 178th Street, New York City, Company E, 132d Infantry, rushed a machine gun nest from the front through an artillery barrage, capturing the gun and its crew of nine.

First Sergeant Johannes S. Anderson, 4,854 West Ferdinand Street, Chicago, Company B, 132d Infantry, silenced and captured a machine gun nest unaided and brought back 23 prisoners.

Private Berger Lomnan, 1,838 North Spaulding Avenue, Chicago, Company H, 132d Infantry, captured single-handed a machine gun blocking the advance of his company and turned it on the retreating enemy.

Private Clayton K. Slack, Lampson, Wis., Company D, 124th Machine Gun Battalion, captured 10 prisoners and two heavy machine guns single handed.

Sergeant Willie Sandlin, Hayden, Ky., Company A, 132d Infantry, captured three machine gun nests without aid.

Private Frank Bart, 428 Plane Street, Newark, N. J., Company C, 9th Infantry, twice silenced single handed enemy machine gun nests holding up his company's advance.

Corporal John H. Pruitt, Phoenix, Arizona, captured two machine guns, killing their crews, and later captured 40 prisoners single handed, only to be killed himself while on sniper duty.

Waded Stream Under Crossfire.

Captain Marcellus H. Chiles, Denver, Col., 356th Infantry, led the battalion he commanded forward against a machine-gun crossfire, wading waist deep across a stream to reach the enemy and crawling on his hands to follow. He died of his wounds.

Privates Jesse N. Funk, Calhan, Col., and Charles D. Barger, Stotts City, Mo., Company L, 354th Infantry, for rescuing wounded 500 yards in front of the American line, making two trips as stretcher bearers under machine-gun fire.

Sergeant Reidar Waalker, no address, Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, for rescuing two wounded men from a burning British tank under artillery and machine-gun fire.

Sergeants Alan Louis Eggers, Summit, N. J., 107th Infantry, and John Critdland Latham, nearest of kin residing at Westmorland, England, machine-gun company, 107th Infantry, and Corporal Thomas E. O'Shea, Summit, N. J., for rescuing an officer and two men from a damaged American tank and by means of the machine gun from the tank standing off the enemy all day from a shell hole within the enemy lines. Corporal O'Shea died of wounds.

Sergeant James J. Mestrovitch, Fresno, Cal., Company C, 111th Infantry, for rescuing his wounded company commander, 30 yards in front of the line. He has died since.

Private Frank Gaffney, Lockport, N. Y., Company G, 108th Infantry, for going forward alone with an automatic rifle when all other members of his squad had been killed, attacking and capturing an enemy machine gun, killing the crew, bombing several dugouts, and killing four of the enemy with pistol fire. When reinforcements came up eighty prisoners were captured.

Sergeant Harold I. Johnston, Denver, and Private David B. Barkeley, San Antonio, Texas, Company A, 356th Infantry, for swimming the River Meuse to obtain information as to the enemy's position on the opposite side.

Killed Six; Captured Ten.

First Lieutenant James C. Dozier, Rockhill, S. C., Company G, 118th Infantry, who advanced with one soldier, although painfully wounded, to attack a machine gun crew with hand grenades when his two platoons were held up by enemy fire.

Sergeant Richmond H. Hilton, Westville, S. C., Company M, 118th Infantry, who attacked an enemy machine gun with rifle and pistol, when his company was flanked, and killed six and captured ten of the enemy. Hilton's arm was blown off by a shell.

Sergeant Garey Evans Foster, Inman, S. C., Company F, 118th Infantry, who attacked a machine-gun nest with hand grenades and pistol, unaided, killing several and capturing eighteen prisoners.

Sergeant Philip C. Katz, San Francisco, Company C, 363d Infantry, who returned, when his company had retired 200 yards, to rescue a wounded comrade.

Corporal John C. Villapigue, Camden, S. C., Company M, 118th Infantry, who continued, without aid, on a scouting trip 500 yards in advance of his platoon after his three comrades had been killed or wounded. He killed four of the enemy with hand grenades, and later rushed a machine-gun nest and killed four and captured six of the crew and two light machine guns, although severely wounded in the arm.

Corporal James D. Herlot, Providence, S. C., Company I, 118th Infantry, who, with four comrades, attacked an enemy machine-gun nest and, when his squad was dispersed, charged alone with fixed bayonet for thirty yards and forced the enemy to surrender, receiving several wounds. Later on the same day he charged another machine-gun nest and was killed.

Private Calvin John Ward, Morristown, Tenn., Company D, 117th Infantry, who captured a machine-gun nest, killing three and capturing seven of the crew and their guns.

Private Archie A. Peck, Hornell, N. Y., Company A, 307th Infantry, who rescued two comrades wounded on patrol duty, twice crossing through terrific machine gun fire to reach them.

Private Robert L. Blackwell, Hundies, N. C., Company K, 119th Infantry, who volunteered to carry a message when his platoon was almost surrounded by the enemy and was killed in the attempt.

Sergeant Wilbur E. Colyer, South Ozone, L. I., Company A, 1st Engineers, who volunteered with two other soldiers to locate machine-gun nests, captured a German gun, turned it on other nests, all of which were silenced. He was killed in action later.

74th ANNUAL REPORT
NEW YORK LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY

346 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
(Organized under the Laws of the State of New York.)

To the Policy-holders and the Public:

Any intelligent man knowing that he must immediately go to war would take any life insurance policy, for almost any amount offered by any responsible company at any reasonable price.

It gives us all something of a shock to realize that the deaths in our army during this unprecedented war just closing have recently been surpassed many times over by the epidemic deaths in everyday life.

Influenza, we are told, up to January 1, 1919, had already killed as many young and vigorous persons in the world generally as were killed by bullets and disease in four and a half years of the war.

The wisdom of an adequate surplus in life insurance is now demonstrated. The folly of New York State in imposing a severe limitation on surplus—against which this Company especially protested in 1906 and since—is also demonstrated.

Through a period of years the mortality of all soundly conducted companies, in spite of influenza and other unforeseen calamities, will in all likelihood come well within the tables; but we now understand that incidents can arise through which mortality may temporarily exceed the provisions of very conservative assumptions. It is comforting to know that neither war nor influenza can make any material difference to you as a member of this Company, because as against such startling incidents this Company long since made abundant provision.

From this there are two fair deductions:

First—INSURE—there are just as many and just as sound reasons for insuring your life during days of peace as there are for insuring during times of war.

Second—insure in companies that have aimed above all things to achieve safety. In these days SAFETY sounds better than CHEAPNESS.

Our mortality up to the outbreak of influenza promised to be, in 1918, about 61% of the mortality provided for in the premiums; it was actually 95% of the expected. If this epidemic persists during 1919 your so-called dividends may be reduced in 1920; they remain substantially unchanged in 1919.

For Baby's Sake

remember that cow's milk is poor in iron—that the blood must have to carry oxygen to the tissues. Also that is rich in blood iron, and in tissue building albumin. Not a medicine, but a food tonic, blood maker, strength builder, safe to take, sure in results.

BOVININE

Doctors prescribe it—all druggists sell it.

12 oz. bottle $1.18 . 6 oz. bottle 70c.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The War Department issued today two more lists of American soldiers who have received the Distinguished Service Cross from General Pershing for extraordinary heroism in action. Among those honored are:

Sergeant Alfred Buchanan of Bryan, Texas; Sergeant C. W. Allen of Drummond, Okla.; Sergeant F. D. Loescher of Sealy, Texas; Corporal F. W. Dallas of Beaumont, Texas; Corporal T. W. Butcher of Fort Worth, Texas; Corporal C. C. Collier of Goosecreek, Texas; Corporal G. A. Bell of Barry, Texas; Private Edgar Pennington of Wellington, Texas; Private P. H. Anderson, of El Paso, Texas; Private A. E. Joiner of Granbury, Texas; Private C. M. Brady of Enid, Okla.; Private Dick Dulaney of El Reno, Okla.; Private A. F. Valentine of Madison, Okla.; Private C. E. Cole of Dallas, Texas; Lieutenant Robert Lindsay of Madison, N. C.; Lieutenant J. O. Beane of Concord, Mass.; Lieutenant Josiah Pegues of Chicago, Ill.; Major A. N. Stark of Washington, D. C.; Major J. L. Bestross of Rolla, Mo.; Captain E. S. Cohn of Seattle, Wash.; Lieutenant A. T. Lee of Newburg, Ore.; Private Manuel Simas of Portugal, Sergeant Fred Olsen of Galeta, Cal.; Private A. L. Smith of Fillmore, Cal.; Private Eugene Alonzo of Los Angeles, Cal.; Corporal J. C. Lowe of St. Louis, Mo.; Private E. W. Borton of Los Angeles, Cal.; Private J. S. Sorenson of Denmark; Sergeant M. G. Burton of St. Paul, Minn.; Colonel E. M. Leary of Augusta, Maine; Captain H. S. Hillburn of Grandview, Texas; Captain D. C. Leeper of Denison, Texas; Lieutenant R. A. Svhoberth of Versailles, Ky., and Lieutenant V. B. Zacher of Jamestown, N. D.

One soldier from New York City and another from up State also are included in the list. Their names, home addresses and the specific acts for which they have been cited follow:

First Lieut. G. S. Schwarzwalder, 21st Machine Gun Battalion. For extraordinary heroism in action near Vieville, on Nov. 1. He remained in an exposed place administering first aid to a wounded officer and two soldiers throughout a heavy barrage of gas shells and high explosives, after his platoon had withdrawn from the position. He had the wounded men removed to a less exposed place and remained with them until they were evacuated. Home address, Mrs. Dina Schwarzwalder, Gilbora, Schoharie County, N. Y.

Corporal Thomas L. E. Reilly, Co. D, 21st Machine Gun Battalion. For extraordinary heroism in action near Vieville, on Nov. 1. During a heavy barrage of high-explosive and gas shells he assisted an officer to give first aid to a wounded officer and two soldiers after the platoon had withdrawn from that position. He went to the rear for medical aid and passed through the barrage the second time and returned. Home address, Mrs. Annie Reilly, mother, 252 East 128th Street, New York City.

Croix de Guerre for Solon Borglum.

Solon H. Borglum, the American sculptor and brother of Gutzon Borglum, has been awarded the Croix de Guerre. The Colonel of the 158th Regiment of Infantry mentioned in the order of the regiment "Solon H. Borglum, American citizen, who put himself at the disposal of the regiment as a member of the beautiful institution Foyer du Soldat," adding as he bestowed the decoration: "He has not ceased for several months to organize foyers directly back of the first line and even in bombarded villages, showing the soul of an apostle. He has rendered and continues to render the best services to the soldiers of the regiment with his power of organization, his generosity, and his kindness of heart—the Croix de Guerre is awarded to him."

France Honors Marcel Knecht.

Marcel Knecht, a member of the French High Commission to the United States, was informed yesterday that his Government had conferred upon him the cross of a Knight of the Legion of Honor. For the last twenty-eight months M. Knecht has been Director of the French Bureau of Information in New York, and has devoted himself to promoting friendly relations between France and the United States. M. Knecht, who is an Alsatian, has given particular attention to making clear to Americans the cause of Alsace-Lorraine.

A GREAT ECONOMY BECAUSE OF EXTRA WEAR

"After a trip to Kilauea, the active volcano of Hawaii, my Neolin-soled shoes were the only ones not absolutely ruined. Many in our party wore hob-nailed boots," said Miss Jean P. Lane of Seattle, Washington.

The sharp jagged lava of Kilauea cuts an ordinary sole to pieces quickly. That Neolin Soles stood the test but emphasizes their toughness and durability. These qualities are built into them by a scientific process. Women—and men and children, too—who are hard on shoes should buy them with Neolin Soles. They come in many styles, and because of the extra wear they give, are a great economy.

And any repairman will re-sole your worn shoes with Neolin Soles, which are flexible and waterproof as well as long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

DRAMA

By John Corbin

Mrs. Fiske at Her Best.

Mrs. Fiske has a way of serving her admirers with either a feast or a famine. The last year or two have been lean ones, but she made ample amends last night by appearing in a character which in many respects stands on the high level of her best, and which, in one or two respects, surpasses anything she has yet done.

As that frequently tedious thing known as a work of dramatic art, "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans," perhaps falls somewhat short. On the program Messrs. Cohan & Harris (who have become Mrs. Fiske's managers with the most fortunate results) call it "a Comedy of Moonshine, Madness and Make-Believe." If judged by the standards of the workaday world, it would probably be found incredible, preposterous. But the person who can so judge it when beneath the spell of Mrs. Fiske's humor and vivacity is much to be pitied. In spirit certainly, if not in the letter, it is as deeply true to human nature as it is overwhelmingly delightful.

It is a story of Creole atmosphere and character, taking place in an old garden on St. Charles Street. To the cold Northern view, all the characters are quite preposterously childlike and extravagant; and if Mis' Nelly mystifies them, and dominates them while mystifying them, it is because she is the most extravagantly childlike of them all. She has left New Orleans for Paris back in '95, having been virtually jilted at the altar. Now she returns, in the years when middle age merges into old age, to find that her niece is secretly engaged to the son of the man who jilted her. It is a case for "diplomacy." But in the Creole nature diplomacy takes strange forms.

In order to arrive at the truth of the situation, Miss Nelly makes up as an old woman, with portentous spectacles and an ear trumpet, hobbling about on a stick. Then, when she has plumbed the heart of it, she throws off her disguise and appears as quite the youngest, most vital, and mischievous creature thereabouts. "I shall dance till I'm ninety," she says, "or till my legs refuse to budge—and then I'll play the castanets." And one believes her! With the good priest, who was once the innocent cause of her own sad story, she plays tenderly, delightfully, reverently. But upon the man who forcibly jilted her she visits a series of very bad quarters of an hour, driving him to rage and desperation and ultimately reducing him to abject surrender.

But the maddest of her moonshine is visited upon the son of her old lover, whom the whirligig of time now presents as the jilted object. She exerts all her wiles upon him, interests him, delights him, and brings him to an outburst of Creole passion in which he proposes to her. The couple actually spend a tempestuous night seeking a clergyman to unite them. And all the time Mis' Nelly is rocking with laughter, even while she thrills to the romance of it.

In the end, of course, she brings her infantile lover back to the old garden and relinquishes him to the arms of her niece. Though this be madness, there is method in it—or rather something far better than method, namely, the inspiration of a womanly Peter Pan who can never, praise be, grow up.

The performance gains much from the quaint Creole English spoken by one and all, the accuracy of which is vouched for by no less an authority than George W. Cable. Mis' Nelly's outbursts are graphically described as "fits of sassy"; and everywhere compendious modern slang (even a big "d...n" or two from Mis' Nelly) mingles with the highfalutin' of Southern eloquence.

Many of the lines are tipped with the humor of keen observation. Commenting on the nakedness of modern manners and dress, Mis' Nelly says: "A lady's ankle was somethin' worth watchin' for, back in '80. When a man got married he took a spo'tin' chance!" In brief, the play is that rarest of all things in the theatre, a star vehicle, complete and perfect.

The lion's share of the honors, however, went to Mrs. Fiske. In spite of the nervousness which marks all her first nights, syncopating her speech and leaving the more delicatae shadings of character vaguely defined, there was no escaping the electric vitality of the performance, its breadth of basic humanity, its sparkle of wit, and flashes of golden humor. Eventually Mis' Nelly seems destined to take rank among the most subtle and finished of Mrs. Fiske's impersonations. Already it must be acclaimed as the most laughable.

Metropolitan's Operas Next Week.

Maria Barrientos, just arrived for the last ten weeks of New York's opera season, is in the bills at the Metropolitan next week, when Caruso has a special holiday matinée, and there is a first concert appearance for the young soprano, Rose Ponselle. Sunday's all-Verdi program includes Ponselle, Rappold, Braslau, Kingston, Montesanto, Mardones, and Rossi, with Papi conducting. On Monday Frieda Hempel takes here leave in "Crispino," with Braslau and Scotti, followed by the ballet "Petrushka." Wednesday next will present an afternoon "Aida," with Caruso, Muzio, Claussen, Whitehill, and Mardones, and that evening "Faust," with Farrar, Martinelli, Chalmers, and Rothier. There are a Thursday "Boris," with Matzenauer, Didur, and others; Friday "Rigoletto," Barrientos, Hackett, and De Luca; Saturday matinée, "Lodoletta," Caruso and Easton, and Saturday evening, Feb. 15, "Tosca," with Farrar, Lazaro, and Scotti. "Tosca" is also just announced, with Dolci, Fitziu, and Rimini, at the Lexington, the same night.

Irene Williams in Song Recital.

Irene Williams, a soprano, who has once before appeared in Aeolian Hall, gave a recital there last evening. She is a singer of promise, of vivacious presence, and her program covered a wide range of both language and style. In Mozart's air from "Il Re Pastore," she was assisted with violin obligato by Nicholas Garagusi, as well as by Francis Moore at the piano. Bolto's "Death of Marguerite" was interesting in a group of older Italian airs, while among French songs was "La Belle du Rol," by Augusta Holmes, and in English, pieces by Zucca, Kramer, Spross, and Moore.

LABOR'S STRATEGY.

No prizefighter has a truer instinct for the solar plexus than have the English unionists in revolt against their leaders, who use the resources of civilization as skillfully as the German Generals. Society is only held together under modern conditions by means of communication. A city can no more exist without its communications than can an army. The British strikers accordingly cut the communications of their enemies, those who pay their wages, and those whose comforts, or even their lives, depend upon their means of going to and from their work, and of getting food, heat, and light. Because of a dispute whether a half hour for luncheon should be taken from the time of the masters or the men London's rapid transit system was stopped. Because the electricians want a forty-hour week London is to be thrown into darkness tomorrow night, and all power distribution by electricity is to be stopped.

It is obvious that the worth of the labor or the size of the wage is no part of this labor dispute. Neither the individual wage nor the wage arranged for the mass by collective bargaining is compared with the cost of living, or excessive profits. The decision rests upon the extent of the distress to be created by these servants of the public utilities. If the disorder and discomfort are sufficient they will extort a ransom which will give them an appetite for more, to be got in the same way. This is worse than socialism. It is anti-social in conception, and near Bolshevist in execution. In one word it is war, and invites opposition in kind. Accordingly we read of cavalry and machine guns and tanks being prepared against the rioters who are driving willing workers from their tasks. How anarchical the situation is appears from the fact that the rank and file of the unionists are repudiated by their leaders, the most respectable of whom are resigning.

Those who have met the phrase "direct action," and have wondered what was meant have an example here. This illustrates the temper behind those who complain that labor power is considered a commodity, to be bought in the market, and who show their superior humanity by proportioning their success to their power to inflict discomfort or misery upon the more the better. Only in part is this demonstration a matter of condition of work. The strikers say that their object is to "remodel trade-unionism." When the model is completed it may be hoped that it will be kept on the other side of the ocean. We want no unionism of that sort here, but we are not without danger from it. Our Socialist-convict Congressman-elect was astonished that there should be anything obnoxious to the law in his counsel that those of his way of thinking should provide themselves with rifles to support their votes if they were defeated at the polls. Within a week, the anarchists have placarded a New York town with their warnings. Our academic agitators who are surprised to see what company they have been keeping may be shocked into prudence.

Argument is wasted upon men using such weapons to attack society, and destitute of scruple about what they do. The suggestion that they should take over a factory and show how it ought to be run is like using a fire extinguisher on a volcano. The strikers do not want to produce what they demand to be paid them. They want to be paid from the accumulations of the labor of others. The same offer was formally made in December to an agricultural implement works in Prussia, whose owners volunteered to surrender it for the experiment. According to the Danzig Gazette, the workmen upon deliberation concluded they would profit more by keeping the skilled management. When the Russian Bolsheviki were asked what they would do if they took the places of the clerks in the counting room they answered, "The same as you; "sharpen pencils and smoke cigarettes." The notion that all work is muscular is the root of the idea that labor produces all and should have all. That idea is not more absurd than the other notion that capital can pay wages out of itself indefinitely. The only source of permanent wages is production. There is no other source of plenty for all, both wages for workers and profits for capital. The theft and division of what has been accumulated results in anarchy and famine instead of freedom and plenty in Russia. It could not be otherwise elsewhere. If the outlook is lengthened to take in no more time than farmers need to raise crops, it is seen that jobs must produce goods, as well as wages, if there is to be prosperity for wage earners, to say nothing of the others who must live on the output of the factories. According to figures said to be official, the socialization of 513 Russian factories resulted in an excess of costs over income. At the date of publication the result was rather worse than Government operation of our railways, the deficit defrayed from the Bolshevist treasury being given at one billion rubles. The saying "Other skies, other customs," has no application to Socialist economics wherever applied under whatever name. In Russia, or Germany, the result has been what it would be here if we should be tempted to follow them in their curious practice of humanity.

HINTS FOR NEW YORK TAX-LAYERS.

The necessity of amending our State tax laws is undeniable, but there is equal hope, and there might be equal relief, in bettering the administration of the laws we have. For example, last week it was discovered that thirty acres in Northport were listed and paid taxes as eighteen. In Pigeon Hill a development company checking up its acres found that taxes had not been paid on them for fifty years. A Wheatley Hills estate was assessed by Babylon, but is in Huntington. A neighboring property has never been listed in either town. The list of tax errors from this locality is not exhausted, and there is no reason to suppose that they are worse than like errors elsewhere. There are perhaps some few localities where the taxes are as closely collected and at as full values as in this city, but that is not the rule. The rule is discrimination against the city, and it has been so for generations. In 1871 the special tax commission reported: "There cannot possibly be "found a single instance in the whole "State * * * where the law as respects the valuation of real property is fully complied with, and "where the oaths of the assessors are "not wholly inconsistent with the "exact truth."

When there is a disposition to adopt so many novelties for curing a fault so grievous it is worth while to recall the maladministration of existing laws. If taxes were collected throughout the State as they are in this city, perhaps there would be money enough, and it is even more likely that there would be more restraint in the voting of taxes to be paid in the country as well as in the city. Besides, if there can be such serious and long-standing abuses under old laws, there is reason to suppose that there might be a similar experience under the best of new laws. In proportion that the new laws are more productive than the old there would be a disposition to evade them and an invitation to extravagance with funds so easily got. It is said that one way to cause the repeal of bad laws is to enforce them. It is also true that one way to render novelties in reforms unnecessary is to execute existing laws which are better than the manner in which they are allowed to be abused and to fall into disuse. There is need of reform, but also that way danger lies along an untried path. Now, if only city and country were taxed alike, and if only some of the country assessors could be punished for perjury—but why imagine so vain a thing?

WHAT IS TO BE DONE IN RUSSIA?

They are making peace, or they are going to make it, in Paris. They are going to provide for the future peace and security of the world. Meanwhile, in Russia, the warriors of the most fatal and brutal and selfish war in the world are carrying on their campaign of cruelty and class. What that war is we know too well. It does not stop. It has no terms of treaty or compromise. It has the merit of being absolutely intelligible. And we, all the civilized nations, must not intervene. The Red Guards may drive, they are near driving, the poor little American force that is all we have dared or cared to send, into the sea. The Czechoslovaks we admire, but must not help. The Governments of Russians that have opposed the deliberate madness of the Leninites and Trotzkyites we must not aid. What is the sacred character of these sons of murder that they must not be attacked? When a great nation is held helpless by an extreme minority, aided by foreign mercenaries, why must we not, why must not all the friends of order and civilization, "intervene"? It may be too late now, but last April it was not too late.

Was it the I. W. W., was it chaste consideration of conscientious objectors and what not, that kept us back? We saw the blackest murder, the most deliberate permanent intentional loot and rapine, the willed destruction of all the intelligent and all the thrifty, planned and done. But we were restrained from doing anything about it. There are sympathizers with the Bolshevist type of revolution, apparently, that love its doings, and the conglomerated soapboxes of the world demand that Russia, exploited by intelligent madmen, shall be left alone.

That intolerable cruelties and such widespread works of destruction as never before the world has seen should go on, unchecked, uncontrolled, in Russia, is revolting to our sense of humanity, but we shouldn't interfere with "self-determination" or some other sacred symbol of universal disaster. We must "keep our hands off."

The Bolsheviki could have been put down, easily put down, six months ago. We preferred to be kind to them. Not alone for harried Russia, but for civilization itself, attacked on the eastern border, and subtly or savagely assailed in every country by the partisans of anarchy or class supremacy, must this work of disorganization be put down. It means the downfall of endurable economic and social life. Are we to be so tender to this company of scoundrels that is ruining Russia and the rest of the world? They intervene with strikes and other weapons of German propaganda. We mustn't. Let them destroy their own country and stretch fittal hands to other countries. We must fold our hands.

Russia is not the only nation involved in this series of calamities, but let Russia have what her people want—representative government, agrarian reform—whatever all-Russia needs she will be sure of from outside. From the Lenine-Trotzky gang she will get nothing. The hopes of the Russian peasants, the immense majority of the Russian people, the hopes of the free world, irritated and endangered by a pretense of peace that coddles permanent hatred, depend upon the action to be taken or not to be taken in Russia.

These are conditions of the past, of the present. What of the future? The nations at Paris had a plan. They invited all the Government groups of Russia to a conference. The invitation is declined, the plan fails. Our readers will recall that we had not looked for its success, could not feel that it was justified, unless the Conference at Paris had knowledge of the impending collapse of the Bolsheviki or of some other favoring circumstance which might promise good results from an exchange of views. It appears that there was no information of that kind, the invitation was prompted by hope alone. Was there an alternative plan? Will the Supreme Council now come to some other decision respecting Russia? It should have some plan in view, unless it is resolved to leave Russia to "stew in its own juice," a course which no one could pretend would be in keeping with the high professions of justice and humanity proclaimed at Paris. After defeating Germany, it should be a well-nigh intolerable humiliation for the Allies to know that their troops are retreating before so mean a foe. That is only one of the disagreeable fruits of the policy of indecision. Either we should have sent into Russia troops enough to restore order and give the people a chance to establish a Government, or we should have sent none at all. All the other problems before the Paris Conference are in a way to a happy solution, it seems. Will there be an attempt to solve the Russian problem?

BANNING THE SUBMARINE.

The truth of the report that the League of Nations Committee will propose the abolition of submarines as warships may be assumed. It would not be sufficient to restrict the use of them. The suggestion has been made that within the three-mile limit they should be allowed for defense, but what nation that defied the League could be trusted to keep its undersea boats in its own waters? Imagine a Germany once more powerful and aggressive paying heed to any inhibition embodied in the code of nations! The submarine must be banished as an instrument of warfare, never to be tolerated again even for defensive purposes. There must be no risk of its appearance in any sea or water, on any coast.

The building of submarines should be forbidden by the Peace Conference under heavy penalties, all nations represented at Paris to be placed upon their honor. Punishment could be inflicted by trade boycotts, the offender to be isolated and cut off from communication with the rest of the world. Such a thing as a combination of two or more nations to defy the League and resort to methods of warfare condemned by the Paris Conference is unthinkable. If the submarine is put on the proscribed list it will become an odious memory.

There can be no half measures. To argue that surface warships can defend themselves against submarines, and that, therefore, if merchant ships were made immune from attack by amendment of the law of nations, submarines would be legitimate units of a navy, is dangerous logic. To say that the weak nations should have submarines to protect their ports against a great sea power is to ignore the determination of the victorious Allies that no nation, however weak, shall be oppressed again or imposed upon. No powerful nation that broke the new code could be trusted to forego the building and use of submarines in a war that it provoked. There is nothing to do but scrap the submarine and have done with it forever. For commercial uses the undersea boat would not be worth while. It could not pay its way; and there would be the temptation to desperate outlaw nations to convert such a craft into a war vessel. No submarines at all!—that way lies security.

The Peace Conference at Paris has powers never possessed by The Hague tribunals, which could do little more than frame codes to be ratified and indulge the hope that they would be observed. Various methods of barbarous warfare were put on the blacklist by The Hague Conferences of 1899 and 1907, with loopholes, in the form of provisos, through which any nation so disposed could drive its sea or land forces, as was done by combatants in the great war, first by Germany and afterward in self-defense by her opponents whom she had sought to destroy. Yet The Hague Conferences inspired a hope, which in humane minds became a faith, that if nations must go to war they would never resort again to barbarous practices. Secretary ROOT in submitting the work of the Conference of 1907 to the Senate said:

> The achievements of the two Conferences justify the belief that the world has entered upon an orderly process through which, step by step, in successive conferences, each taking the work of its predecessor as its point of departure, there may be continual progress toward making the practice of civilized nations conform to their peaceful professions.

But it was recognized that a Hague Conference was no more than a moral force, and with that thought in mind the Czar NICHOLAS, destined to be a pitiful victim of the greatest and cruelest war in history, said that "one must wait longer when planting an oak than when planting a flower." The Peace Conference at Paris can lay the foundations of a League of Nations to carry into effect the code it builds. It has the opportunity not only to legislate authoritatively, but to supply the instrumentalities for enforcing its mandates. The oak planted by the Peace Conference will not be a seed, but a tree fair to look upon and already strong of fibre.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Committee Properly Constituted.

For the personnel of the Roosevelt Permanent Memorial Committee there will be general approval and satisfaction. As the members of it say in their preliminary declaration or prospectus, they are men who knew Colonel ROOSEVELT intimately in one or another of his many and varied activities. They are well qualified, therefore, to decide what form should be taken by the memorial—to make it, that is, one which would have had his own approval in the case of another man of his qualities and ambitions.

And it is safe to prophesy that any determination reached by them would be accepted as judicious and fitting by the public, and that there would be no difficulty in raising the funds required for carrying out their plan, even though the amount needed to do it should be a large one.

The American public, as a rule, is not particularly interested in undertakings of this sort, its attention being given to the living rather than to the dead, to the future rather than the past. Colonel ROOSEVELT, however, was an exceptional man, his relation to his countrymen was exceptional, and exceptional are the feelings that make him, as it were, a still living presence, exercising much the same influence as before he passed out of sight. His devoted friends were innumerable, and even his enemies—they were less enemies than antagonists, as all can realize now—will be ready to join them, not so much in perpetuating his memory as in giving it substance and visibility.

A Definite Plan Desirable.

With every circumstance favorable to successful achievement, the Roosevelt Permanent Memorial Committee shows what seems to be wholly unnecessary caution—a timidity to which the Colonel himself would have been a stranger—in not facing the responsibilities created by its abilities. Certainly, the question of what the memorial shall be is one deserving of careful consideration, but let the members of the committee do the considering, and the deciding as well, instead of waiting for suggestions from that vague and unapproachable and inarticulate thing, the public. Until they have a definite proposal to make, the chances are that their appeal for contributions will have but few responses—few, that is, in comparison with those sure to be received if the committee formulates a plan the congruity and excellence of which will be apparent to all except the few negligibles who inevitably would prefer some other plan to any that might be chosen.

Possibly the committee has been a little hasty, too, in the one decision it proclaims as having been made already—the decision that "the memorial which the American people ultimately dedicate to THEODORE ROOSEVELT shall not be merely a thing of stone and bronze." That sounds well, and "dynamic" the Colonel certainly was, but "a thing of stone and bronze" may be a noble and inspiring thing, doing its work for many ages, while a memorial of another sort might in the course of time cease to command, or even to deserve, admiration. That, indeed, is a chance to be taken like another, but at least some of Colonel ROOSEVELT'S friends would like best a memorial that was a memorial and nothing else. In the performance of this pious task, they would prefer to ignore the thought of even incidental advantage to themselves or anybody else.

A Romance Breaks Off Short.

Nature's inferiority to art is well illustrated by a story that comes from the little town of Seymour, out in Indiana. The other day there alighted from a train there a young man in the uniform of the United States Marines, and it was noticed that he walked rapidly up and down the platform of the railway station and examined with a special intentness—something between anxiety and hope—the faces of all the young women who happened to be there. A reporter ventured to ask him for whom he was looking and if he needed help in finding the object of his obvious search.

The marine was in confiding mood. He showed a snapshot photograph of a handsome girl, and said that he had taken it himself, eighteen months ago, after a few minutes' talk with its "subject" on that same platform. Then he was on his way to the war, and, as the stay of his train at Seymour had been brief, neither participant in the little conversation—a conversation of a sort very common in those days—had thought to exchange names and addresses, though they had promised to write each other. But the young man carried the picture with him to the front, took it through a lot of hard fighting, and now he was back and couldn't possibly be happy if fate did not give him a chance to—well, to tell her all about it.

Of course, the girl should have been there on the platform, again by chance, and she would have been in any well-regulated novel. But, in reality, she wasn't, for only art has construction and climaxes and the working out of events in logical sequence to completed endings. Not only was she missing, but none of the sympathetic bystanders to whom the photograph was shown recognized the face or could give any information about its vanished owner.

So the marine mournfully departed from Seymour, as nearly broken-hearted as it is permissible for a good soldier to be, and some other girl, who by no possibility could be as nice as the one about whom he had been thinking so long, is going to catch him. But what does Dame Nature care?

Would Be Rulers Themselves.

Whatever else HJALMAR BRANTING, the President of the Berne Conference, may have, evidently he lacks the sense of humor. Otherwise he would not have said in his opening address that only the ruling class was represented in the Paris Congress, while in his congress it was the working class.

The absurdity, the naïveté, of this lies in the very obvious fact that the aspiration of revolutionary Socialists is not to abolish a ruling class, but to depose the present members of it and put others in their places.

Russia is the great exemplar of this purpose carried into practice, and it has gained a "ruling class" infinitely more ruthless and despotic than the one it lost. In Germany, too, the Spartacides are bitterly opposed to the establishment of the one form of government that does away with a ruling class by distributing power among all classes. What they want is to keep all power in one class—their own.

They hate democracy far more than they hate autocracy. As a matter of fact, they do not hate autocracy at all. To be autocrats themselves is their fierce determination, the height of their ambition.

The Highland Land League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Jan. 13 there was an article concerning war charities. In the last paragraph the remark is made that among those who have been requested to cease their activities was Seumas Chief of Clann Fheargluis of Stra-chur and Clann Allpein, &c.

The Highland Land League, for which I have spoken, is not a war charity. It has been in existence 100 years, and numbers about 70,000 in Scotland, with headquarters at 161A Strand, London, with powerful branches in all the colonies. The Honorable Secretary is G. J. Bruce, Esq.; Vice President, the Hon. Ruaral Erskine of Marr, Gloucester House, Regent's Park, London, S. W., editor of The Scottish Review Guth na Bliadhna, &c.; bankers, Lloyds, Ltd.; auditors, Chantrey & Chantrey, Lincoln's Inn, London.

The league represents a purely economic movement for the Scots Highland Clanns. It aims to reclaim them out of the frightfully congested cities, and in the case of returning soldiers, which all Highlanders are, to turn their activities to agriculture and native industries, developing them on a modern economic basis. It hopes to break up the huge deer forests into clachans, or farm villages, thus preventing emigration and consequent ruin to a land where 3,519,678 acres, or 18 per cent. of the whole area of Scotland, are given over to sport and where in some parts one can travel twenty miles without seeing a house or hut of any kind.

With all due regard, no one in the United States can come forward and say he has been solicited by me or any representative of the Highland Land League here to give charity. Hence it would be manifestly impossible for me to cease activities I never began. As a private individual this committee would matter little; but, bearing the title of Hereditary Chief of a tribe of Scots Highlanders dating from 503 A. D., and one that has since that time helped materially to make the history of Scotland, it is necessary for the sake of my clann that wrong impressions should be corrected.

SEUMAS CHIEF OF CLANN FHEARGHUIS OF STRA-CHUR.
New York, Feb. 3, 1919.

THE CALL.

All our dead Heroes
Who are living still—
George of the soft Heart
And the iron Will;
Paul of the dark eyes,
(Little Man of Might!)
Who on a blood-washed deck
Did "Just begun to fight"—
Rise from your long sleep,
Proudly arise!
We too have fought and won
Victories.

Lee of the noble face,
Steadfast and brave,
And he into whose hands
His sword he gave,
Each served the right he saw
With fearless gaze,
Let not old hatreds stint
Their meed of praise!

All our dead Heroes
Who on land or sea
Have paid the high price
Of Liberty!
Behold them once again
With new-lit eyes!
For we have made their dreams
Realities.

"We," say I? Ah, not so!
Who—who are these
Who have so lately faced
Death's mysteries?
Still with the battle blood
Staining each breast,
Youngest of all this throng
Called from its rest;
Waking as children wake
Awestruck from sleep,
Yet with the eyes of men
Who love-tryst keep?

These are the ones who went
O'er the sea's foam,
And e'en with coming Peace
Will come not home;
Who still in boyish bloom
E'en life did give,
Into a nation's Heart
Dying to live;
To them the debt we owe
The glory give.

Now low on bended knee,
This prayer be prayed!
Come now each spirit high,
Come to our aid!
Hard is the task—a world
To be remade.

Steady each trembling hand,
Each vision clear!
Banish the spectres dim
Of doubt and fear!
Grant us the patient mind,
The listening ear!

Give us the strength to climb
Yon slippery steep,
Leading the way for those Millions who creep
Out of old tyrannies!
Must this not be,
Now we have fought and bled
To set them free?

All our dead Heroes,
Humbly we bow
Before your unseen power—
Fail us not now!

ALICE MAUDE EWELL.

TELLS ST. DUNSTAN'S WORK FOR THE BLIND

Sir Arthur Pearson Describes Efforts to Regain Normality to New York Audience.

RELATIVES HARD TO HANDLE

Men Are First Taught to Dance, Then to Read with Fingers, Then to Use the Typewriter.

How blinded English and Canadian soldiers had been "reconstructed" so that they were earning from three to seven times as much as before the war, how even men who had lost an arm as well as their eyes, had been brought to the point where they suffered no disadvantage in the company of normal humans, was told by Sir Arthur Pearson, the blind founder and director of St. Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Soldiers in London, at the Century Theatre last night. Colonel James Bordley, an American, who is to carry on the same work in Baltimore, opened the meeting, and as Sir Arthur spoke, Helen Keller, who is deaf as well as blind, sat on the platform and received the lecture by means of finger impressions upon his palm. Douglas C. McMurtrie presided.

Before Sir Arthur started with the audience through St. Dunstan's he paid tribute to those who had made the work possible. He said he had looked all about London for the most appropriate place; he said "looked," and commented that he could "see" as well as any one, only he saw with his other senses, and that the beautiful plot of sixteen acres with its magnificent building facing upon the 650 acres of Regents' Park, seemed the one place in the world. He cabled to Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, the owners, for leave to use it, and the response was immediate. "Just as I believe the foundation of the splendid victory won in this war was the British Navy," he said, "so I believe the foundation of the victory over blindness was the splendid generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Kahn."

The goal of all the work, Sir Arthur pointed out, is "normality." Everything that has been connected in the past with the suffering, and the handicaps, and the incapacities of the blind, was thrown overboard, for, he said, if a man has any trouble and you keep rubbing it in long enough, he will really succumb to it. "We have nothing to do with affliction. We don't know what it is. We have nothing to do, above all, with that most beautiful of Christian virtues, patient resignation. As soon as a man arrives at St. Dunstan's, I tell him that there are no blind there, but simply a cheery lot of normal men who can't see."

Sir Arthur related his troubles with the relatives of soldiers, who were much more difficult to handle than the men themselves, for they continually wanted to assist and guide and pamper the men who were perfectly able to take care of themselves, "for," said the speaker, "I always tell the men that the best way to learn not to bump your nose on the door is to bump it. Unfortunately, the worst enemy of the blind man is his wife or his mother. I talk to her and explain. Sometimes she is reasonable and that is enough. Sometimes she is not, and then the discussion continues. A number of buildings have been put up for the accommodation of these relatives, so that they can stay for a week at a time. Not only is this pleasant for the men, but I believe it is necessary.

"One of the first things we teach the men is, peculiarly enough, dancing, for it gives them a sense of balance and a feeling of security in getting about. A man feels most his loss of freedom in getting about, and dancing is an excellent lure to bring it back to him. Our Farm Colony balls are astonishing to visitors, for they see many of the girls going about with their eyes shut. The fellows, you know, like to do the steering. Then they learn to play checkers, dominoes, chess. They debate. They play musical instruments of every description. They have entertainments of every kind and latterly they have been supplying most of the talent themselves. When the news came of the signing of the armistice, there was a general strike. They set up the band (and it is not at all a bad band) on the fire engine, and the whole 400 of them followed it through the streets of London. And you can bet the people didn't give them half a reception.

"Every one of the men learns to read the Braille type, and when he is through he can read at the normal speed. One of the men who had had one hand blown off and all but his little finger removed from the other, learned to read Braille with that finger, and more than that, learned to use the typewriter at about half the normal speed. Every one learns the typewriter as a matter of course, and with what facility is shown by the case of Bocking. I came down the hall one day and heard a typewriter going at a fair rate. I asked who it was. 'Bocking, sir,' came the answer. 'I'm writing to my mother.' 'How long have you been at it?' I asked. 'Five weeks, sir, and I have never seen a typewriter.'

"Our stenographers leave with a guaranteed speed of 100 words a minute, and they can probably do 125. There are forty-two of our men working in offices in London, and are getting normal wages, or higher wages than they did before in their old positions. Our telephone operators do the work just as well as seeing persons. In a competitive examination of masseurs in which 342 contestants from all parts of England took part, one of our men took second place. Most remarkable are our carpenters. They do admirable work with the ordinary tools, and at times our visitors are treated to an uncanny sight. The regular work goes on until 4 o'clock, but an extra hour is given to those who wish to continue by themselves. On Winter evenings, it is dark of course, and since the seeing supervisors have gone home, the lights are turned out. Then one hears a chorus of hammers and saws coming from a pitch dark room. The blind are at work.

"Late in the afternoon, out on the grounds, you will see the boys making their way down to the lake for a swim, or engaged in tug-o'-war, or wrestling; or you will see them racing for all they are worth along the cinder path. They are like all the rest of the boys the world over.

"The causes of the success of St. Dunstan's are several. In the first place, there is always the refusal to recognize a handicap. Then there are the blind teachers. All the teachers are blind, and under them a man feels that, since his teacher has succeeded, his pupil must succeed. And, finally, there is the superb courage of the Anglo-Saxon race, the courage of Château-Thierry, of Vimy Ridge, and of Ypres.

"The work of St. Dunstan's will make a difference to the whole world, for the Canadians who have benefited have already taken steps to save from darkness the 7,000 blind in Canada, but Colonel Bordley here has resolved that when he is through with the soldiers, he will devote himself to the blind at his place in Evergreen, Baltimore."

Sir Arthur concluded with a number of humorous incidents based on the almost uncanny skill which some of the men had developed, not only as regards their mechanical powers, but in the intensification of their other senses. And finally he told how 400 of these graduates of the school had married, had married delightful, charming young women, the kind that somehow combined the qualities of both the wife and the mother. "And as I see them with these sweethearts," he said, "passing under the trees and over the lawns, I think of the lines: 'You are nearer to God in a garden than anywhere else on earth.'"

NINE TROOPSHIPS SAIL.

Will Land 7,600 on This Side Within Three Weeks.

Skinner, from New York to Philadelphia; Bremerton, from New York to Baltimore; Maartendijk, from Boston to New York; Agamemnon, from Newport News to New York, and Western Ocean from Baltimore to Newport News.

REPLIES TO DR. E. M. STIRES

Col. Peart Says Salvation Army Did Defend Y. M. C. A.'s Work.

Answering the criticism of the Salvation Army made by the Rev. Dr. E. M. Stires before the Presbyterian Union that the Salvation Army should have defended the Y. M. C. A., Colonel William Peart, Chief Executive Secretary of the Salvation Army, gave out a statement last night, saying that the Salvation Army in public utterances has made reference to the good work being done by the Y. M. C. A. and that his organization would not admit the Y. M. C. A. needs defenders now, because the "great and good work of the 'Y' will in due course prevail ever over any possible criticism." Continuing, he said:

"In July, 1918, the Salvation Army sent the Director of its Publicity Department to Bruce Barton, then Publicity Director for the Y. M. C. A., in America, to lay before him concrete evidence of the earnest co-operation of the 'Y' workers and Salvation Army workers. Specific incidents where the huts of one organization had given a hut to those of the other organization for supplies when caught short were reported and promptly embodied in joint publicity statements which were issued to the press. This was many weeks before the United War Work drive. At the same time the Salvation Army cabled its representative in France to furnish all the information possible as to the excellent work of the 'Y' and the manner in which the organizations were co-operating, and when the Salvation Army cabled to France for war workers to return on furlough to aid the war fund drive in which the 'Y' was mainly interested, instructions were given that they gather and present all the evidence they could of the splendid and efficient work done by the 'Y' at the front. Commander Miss Booth has upon every possible occasion when making public addresses dwelled especially upon the good work of the Y. M. C. A. We have all of the speakers controlled by the Salvation Army. To the extent of its ability, and as opportunity presented itself, the Salvation Army has aggressively spoken up in public on behalf of the good work of the Y. M. C. A.

"I do not believe that Dr. John R. Mott, head of the Y. M. C. A., either shares the views of Dr. Stires or feels that his organization stands in need of further defensive exertion from the Salvation Army. We are quite sure if Dr. Mott felt as Dr. Stires does, we would hear from him."

PICTURES OF SHIPBUILDING.

John C. Johansen's 25 Paintings to be Shown at Arden Galleries.

An interesting collection of pictures, the only ones of the kind which have been done in this country, are twenty-five canvases by the artist John C. Johansen, who in them has made a record of the Government work in shipbuilding, which will be shown for three weeks at the Arden Galleries, 599 Fifth Avenue, beginning today. It is Mr. Johnson's contribution to war work and represents months of effort, the work being begun last July. If the war had been continued the paintings would have been presented to the Government for use as propaganda. As a record of the great industry which sprang up in a night they should be kept together, but as no effort of this kind has as yet been made they will probably be separated. Mrs. E. H. Harriman has already purchased one of them, "The Flying Cranes of Bristol," which she has loaned for this exhibition.

The paintings have a picturesque value aside from their historic interest. This is notably the case with the picture belonging to Mrs. Harriman, with its great flying cranes, a part of the framework supporting them hazy with the smoke of the engines of the trains bringing in the material for the work. The "Fifty Shipways of Hog Island" Mr. Johansen exhibited at the last Academy. The ways are shown looking down from one end, and on the ground below great numbers of workmen suggest the army of from 50,000 to 60,000 who were employed there daily. There are two other pictures of Hog Island, one made at night.

"A Gala Day at a Shipyard—Two Ships for the Water" shows two completed war monsters about to slip out into the water, flags flying, hats and handkerchiefs waving, and gay bunting in the foreground where the people are standing. "Swinging a New Keel Into Place Immediately After Launching a Wooden Ship at Cornwells" has a thrill in it, the newly launched ship floating on the water, while almost at the minute it leaves the way the crew swing in a new keel to begin work in the place it has left vacant.

ONLY TWO WOMEN'S TICKETS

Mrs. Lilly Denies Report of Third at the Federation Election.

Informal statements made at the meeting of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Astor last Friday, that Mrs. Harry Lilly, who heads one of the tickets for election next Friday, also was running on a third with two of the Vice Presidents running with Mrs. Thomas Slack, who heads a second ticket, were emphatically denied yesterday. "The only ticket which I head now or shall head," said Mrs. Lilly, "has for Vice Presidents Mrs. R. Percy Chittenden, Mrs. William D. Sporborg, and Mrs. Louis Ralston."

Mrs. John Francis Yawger, President of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, also denied that there was a third ticket. She said: "There will only be the two regular tickets, one headed by Mrs. Slack and the other by Mrs. Lilly."

WHISTLER ETCHINGS SOLD FOR $500,000

MADE FROM 370 PLATES

A First State of the "Jo" and Glorious "Nocturne" Among Gems—Beautiful Lithographs.

Howard Mansfield's famous collection of Whistler etchings and lithographs has been sold, it was learned yesterday, for a price which is reported to be in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. It was sold through Arthur H. Hahlo & Co. to a private collector, whose name is not given, but who is not a resident of this city. There are 420 impressions of the etchings in the collection made from 370 plates. Of the lithographs there are 162 impressions made from 158 subjects. The total known number of Whistler etchings is 442 and 166 lithographs.

The collection of Whistler etchings and lithographs owned by Mr. Mansfield justly has been considered one of the great collections of this country. It is extremely wide in scope, containing many rare states and subjects, of which only a few impressions were pulled, but what is far more important, it is a collection that excludes the work which the artist himself criticised as falling below his own standard, and is remarkable for the wonderful quality of each impression. Mr. Mansfield's zest for collecting led him not toward the most, but toward the best, and the group of superb prints assembled by him literally has not a flaw.

Among the most magnificent of the impressions in the collection is a first state of the "Jo," the canceled plate belonging to Mr. Mansfield. This rare drypoint belongs to the year 1861 when Whistler was painting with Courbet in France and produced his beautiful "Coast of Brittany." The model was the one who appears in "The White Girl" and other important paintings. The Pennells describe her as "a woman of next to no education, but of keen intelligence, who, before she had ceased to sit to Whistler, knew more about painting than many painters, had become well read and had great charm of manner." Only five impressions of the first state of the etching are known to Mr. Mansfield.

A striking contrast to this plate, in which the linear quality predominates, is the glorious "Nocturne," known to all Whistler lovers, and present here in what is probably the finest impression in existence. Others of the Venetian set are hardly second to it, and many were chosen especially for Mr. Mansfield by Whistler himself and bear upon the reverse side of the paper the identifying mark, as well as the butterfly and the "imp," the latter signifying Whistler's own printing.

"The Beggars," which was among those selected by the artist, he regarded as the finest proof from the plate, and is an impression from the ninth state. "The Wool Carders" is present in what is probably a unique impression of the first state, and there are other rarities, such as "Nora Quinn," a probably unique impression from the first state of "The Wine Shop," the first proof pulled of the "Zaandam," the richest known impression of the lovely "Garrick," among an amazing number of items that will quicken the pulses of all collect

BAVARIA'S EX-QUEEN MARIA THERESA, DIES

She Was Credited with Responsibility for the Deposition of Crazy King Otto.

PUT LUDWIG ON THRONE

He Had Rejected an Offer of the Crown, but Was Willing to be Regent.

BASLE, Switzerland, Feb. 4.—Former Queen Maria Theresa of Bavaria died last night at the Château Wildenhard, according to a dispatch from Munich today.

The death of former Queen Maria Theresa was erroneously reported on Nov. 16 last in a dispatch from Amsterdam, a denial being issued shortly afterward. She was seriously ill at the time, however. This was eight days after the Bavarian Diet passed a decree deposing the Wittlesbach dynasty, forcing King Ludwig, whom she married in 1868, to give up his crown. Maria Theresa was formerly an Archduchess of Austria-Este of the branch of Modena, and was born in 1849.

Maria Theresa has been described as a very masterful woman, and she was credited with having been the real ruler of Bavaria. She is credited with the responsibility for the deposition a few years ago of crazy King Otto, securing a modification of the Constitution in order to remove all possible obstacles to her plan, and before ten months had elapsed succeeded in having her husband proclaimed as King and herself as Queen of Bavaria. Her husband previously rejected the offer of the crown, and had declared his intention of contenting himself with the regency.

Charles D. Dickey, Banker.

Charles D. Dickey, senior partner of the banking house of Brown Brothers, 60 Wall Street, died suddenly Monday noon at his home, 37 East Fifty-first Street. Mr. Dickey was born in Mobile, Ala., fifty-nine years ago and came to New York when a young man. Thirty years ago he became head of Brown Brothers. He was also interested in the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, the Bank of Manhattan, the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Company, the Northern Insurance Company, the Greenwich Savings Bank, and the Northern Assurance Company.

Charles Clarence Corbett.

Charles Clarence Corbett, founder of The Providence Telegram, Providence, R. I., now The Providence Tribune, died of kidney disease at his home, 570 West 172d Street, yesterday. Mr. Corbett founded also The News in Lynn, Mass., and the former Theatrical Journal in Chicago, and was soon to have started The Dispatch, a commercial monthly, in New York. Mr. Corbett was born in Providence on March 2, 1851. He is survived by his wife and a brother, E. A. Corbett, who is known as "The Wall Street Evangelist."

MISS SEARS LOSES IN STRAIGHT SETS

Boston Girl Is Overwhelmed by the Vigorous Attack of Mrs. de Forest Candee.

MOLLA BJURSTEDT WINS

Four Players in Upper Half of Draw Win Their Way Into Semi-Finals in Spirited Matches.

The defeat of Boston's prominent girl athlete, Miss Eleanora Sears by Mrs. de Forest Candee on the indoor courts of the Heights Casino yesterday afternoon furnished the surprise of the women's invitation tournament. Mrs. Candee won in straight sets, 6—4, 7—5. Miss Sears, one of the ranking players of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill, was outgeneraled by her Brooklyn opponent and the chop stroke, which has been such an effective weapon in her tennis victories, was easily solved by Mrs. Candee.

That Miss Sears was surprised at Mrs. Candee's spirited attack was very evident when Mrs. Candee sent back the ball on numerous occasions before it hit the canvas covered court. Miss Sears did not send the ball as far into the back court as she planned to with her chop stroke and Mrs. Candee was in the forecourt ready for the ball when it came over. The match was interesting and there never was a moment when there was not plenty of action.

Mrs. Candee took the offensive at the start and forced the playing in the first set. She anticipated what was coming most of the time and had Miss Sears completely baffled with swift overhead smashes. By setting the pace, Mrs. Candee held her advantage and although Miss Sears played with coolness and without any apparent effort she failed to overcome the bombarding shots of her opponent.

Mrs. Candee, satisfied with her victory at 6—4 in the opening set, took things somewhat easier at the beginning of the second set and while she was playing on the defensive, Miss Sears quickly took advantage of the situation and steadied down to a better game. She mixed her stroke frequently and her advantage was so pronounced for a time that she had Mrs. Candee 5—2 on games. With defeat looming up before her Mrs. Candee rallied and began to solve the clever Boston girl's change of pace. Mrs. Candee again began to outguess her rival and her passing shots became less frequent.

When the game was going against her at this time through Miss Sears's skillful play, Mrs. Candee again came up to the net and fairly overwhelmed the Boston girl with the very power of her attack. In as pretty a rally as has been seen in the tournament, Mrs. Candee swept on, one game after another, taking five straight games and winning the match, 7 to 5.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the national champion, got into the tournament for the first time. Although she is still suffering from a bad cold and with her throat enveloped in a large muffler, she did not have to extend herself to win from Mrs. W. H. Prichard at 6—1, 6—1. The four players in the upper half of the draw who won their way into the round before the semi-finals yesterday were Mrs. Candee, Miss Bjurstedt, Miss Adele Cragin, and Miss Cassel. Miss Bjurstedt will meet Miss Cassel this afternoon in a match which should be one of the best of the tournament.

Miss Cassel is playing fast tennis and won her matches in the second and third round yesterday. In the second round she defeated Mrs. Samuel Waring at 6—2, 6—1, and in the following found won from Miss Bessie Holden by the same score. Miss Marie Wagner, who is one of the players to reach the round before the semi-finals in the lower half of the draw, also won two matches yesterday. She defeated Mrs. Albert Humphries, 6—0, 6—1, and won from Mrs. Rawson Woods, 6—2 6—3.

There were several other interesting matches in the competition yesterday, Miss Helene Pollack winning from Mrs. Percy Wilbourne in a hard-fought match, 7—5, 9—7. This match seethed with action from the start, and Mrs. Wilbourne forced her opponent to two deuce sets for a total of twenty-eight games before there was a decision.

The women's doubles, which should furnish competition as interesting as the singles, got under way yesterday. Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Rawson Wood defeated Mrs. Barger Wallack and Miss Coster. Another strong pair, Miss Wagner and Miss Cassel, defeated Miss Gott and Miss Cragin, 6—0 6—3. The two young Hooker sisters, Miss Barbara and Adelaide, were defeated by Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Prichard, 6—2, 6—3.

The summaries:

Second Round.—Miss Claire Cassel defeated Mrs. Samuel Waring, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Marie Wagner defeated Mrs. Albert Humphries, 6—0, 6—1.

Third Round.—Mrs. de Forest Candee defeated Miss Eleanora Sears, 6—4, 7—5; Miss Adele Cragin won from Mrs. B. Briggs by default; Miss Molla Bjurstedt defeated Mrs. W. H. Prichard, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Claire Cassel defeated Miss Bessie Holden, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Marie Wagner defeated Mrs. Rawson Wood, 6—2, 6—3; Miss E. Gott won from Mrs. Edward Raymond by default; Miss Helene Pollack defeated Mrs. Percy Wilbourne, 7—5, 9—7.

Women's Doubles.—First Round—Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Rawson Wood defeated Mrs. Barger Wallack and Miss Coster, 6—2, 6—3; Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Claire Cassel defeated Miss E. Gott and Miss Adele Cragin, 6—0, 6—3; Mrs. D. C. Mills and Mrs. W. H. Prichard defeated the Misses Barbara and Adelaide Hooker, 6—2, 6—3.

MAY INTERCHANGE PROS.

Braeburn Club Urging Vardon to Play Here.

If the Braeburn Club, which will be the scene of the national open championship next Summer, succeeds in enticing Harry Vardon, the famous English professional, to this country, it will have accomplished something for golf in the United States. Latest advices from Boston lead to the inference that the suggestion emanated from the mind of Harry L. Ayer, former Massachusetts Golf Association President. Ayer has been in conference with Mike Brady, Bay State open titleholder, and for some time has been conducting a correspondence with prominent men in golf in England, in which he has proposed an interchange of professionals for a time; that is, an American to go to England and an Englishman to come to America. As yet, all the details are in the air, especially as to who the American visitor to Britain would be.

Should Vardon decide to come to this country and get here before the national open, contenders for that title would find an opponent worthy of their steel. It may be that Vardon would be able to accomplish what he failed to do in 1913; that is, win the national open title of this country for the second time. In 1900 at the Chicago Golf Club Vardon won, while in his own land he is the only golfer to have held the title six times.

Apropos of Brady, latest rumors are to the effect that he is entering into negotiations with a club in this district for a position this year. There are half a dozen clubs in the metropolitan district looking for professionals, and it may be that Brady will locate with one of these.

Cannefax to Play in Brooklyn.

Robert Cannefax of St. Louis, former three-cushion billiard champion, and Charles Otis of Brooklyn will begin a three nights' match this evening at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. The cueists are to play for 150 points, in blocks of 50 points, tonight, tomorrow, and Friday.

Schoville Wins at Angle Game.

Frank Schoville defeated E. L. Spence by a score of 50 to 44 in the Class A three-cushion metropolitan billiard championship tournament of the A. A. B. A. at Thum's rooms last night in a close eighty-one-inning game. Schoville's highest run was 3, while that of Spence was 4.

BILLIARD CHAMPION LOSES.

Unger Beaten by Gardner in National Class C Tourney.

Gus Gardner was the author of a surprise last night in the national amateur Class C 18.2 balk line billiard championship tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn, when he defeated Ferdinand A. Unger, the present title holder, by a count of 150 to 130. The contest produced the closest competition that has been furnished in the tournament to date. Gardner, showing exceptional form from start to finish, completed his string in 32 innings for an average of 4 22-32. Unger's average was 4 6-31. Each contestant had a high run of 23 points.

This setback is the first Unger has suffered since the final round play commenced, and the prophets were all discredited by the result. For 29 innings the cue experts battled always close together in the score. In the closing innings, however, Unger's efforts fell off noticeably. He seemed nervous and was unable to execute shots that ordinarily would have proved easy for him. Gardner, on the other hand, with victory in sight, concluded his 150 points with innings of noteworthy brilliancy.

Gardner got off in the lead when he clustered twelve markers in the second inning. At the fourth, after a run of fifteen in the third, he was leading by 27 to 23. The play until the fifteenth inning continued close, with Gardner leading by 50 to 49. Up to the twenty-seventh inning Unger fought a brilliant uphill battle, and managed to pass this stage of the contest on even terms with his rival. The score was 114 points for both. There followed a single tally for Unger in his twenty-eighth turn at the table, and a cluster of six buttons for the following inning. Gardner gathered eight in the twenty-ninth inning, taking the lead by 122 to 121. Thereafter the title-holder gradually fell behind.

Sydney Brussel defeated J. F. Blaisdell in the other contest by a score of 150 to 102 in thirty-four innings. Brussel, getting twenty points in his sixth inning, led thereafter.

The scores:

CRESCENT FIVE IS BEATEN.

Naval Auxiliary Team Gets Revenge at Basket Ball.

The officers' basket ball team of the Naval Auxiliary defeated the Crescent A. C. quintet last night in the New Moon gymnasium, in Brooklyn, by a score of 49 to 30. With this victory the sailors avenged a defeat which they suffered several weeks ago at the hands of the Crescent five.

The Naval Auxiliary team, showing unexpected strength, led throughout. At the end of the first half the score favored the sailors by 22 to 15.

The lineup:

Naval Aux. (49.)	Position.	Cres. A. C. (30.)
H. Stewart	R.F.	Heath
Evans	L.F.	Nicklas
Hjelte	C.	Austin
Badke	R.G.	A. Stewart
Church	L.G.	Butler

Field goals—H. Stewart, (4.) Evans, (3.) Hjelte, (6.) Badke, (3.) Church, (4.) Heath, Nicklas, (2.) Herten, (3.) Austin, (6.) Goals from foul—Church, (9.) Heath, (6.) Substitutions—For Crescent A. C.—Herten for Nicklas; McCann for Butler. Referee—John O'Brien, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Boxing Bill Is Introduced.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A bill designed to legalize boxing bouts was introduced in the Legislature today by Senator L. W. H. Gibbs of Erie. Under its provisions ten-round contests with eight-ounce gloves would be permitted, and decisions also would be allowed. The bouts would have to be held in buildings devoted entirely to athletic purposes. All bouts would be under the control of a Boxing Commissioner. The bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Browns Purchase Catcher Mayer.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Walter Mayer, catcher on the Boston American team, has been purchased by the St. Louis American League Club, President Phil Ball of the Browns announced today. Mayer was prominent in the Red Sox lineup in the 1918 world series. The deal was for cash, but the terms were not announced.

CLOSER RELATIONS AMONG BIG THREE

Yale, Harvard, and Princeton Will Restore Football, Rowing, and Other Competitions.

The first definite step toward resuming relations in all branches of sports between Harvard, Yale, and Princeton was taken at a meeting at the Harvard Club yesterday when Faculty representatives from the three universities talked over rowing and football relations. Professor R. B. Merriman represented Harvard, Professor Robert N. Corwin Yale, and Dean McClenahan represented Princeton. The result of their deliberations was not made public. The representatives will report back to the Faculty Committee before any action is ratified.

The conference showed that the relations between the so-called Big Three will be even closer than in the past, and among the possibilities which may result from the meeting is that Princeton may be invited to take part in the time-honored Harvard-Yale regatta at New London.

Before placing athletics back on a normal basis, the faculties have the question of finance to consider. The chief source of revenue at the three institutions, football, has been cut off for two seasons, and other sports, such as rowing, which bring no revenue whatever, must suffer in consequence. If the New London regatta is not restored next June, it will be because of the necessary curtailing of expenses. It may have to be put over until 1920.

The football question is still unsettled. There is sure to be some curtailing of expenses such as expensive trainers, coaches and training tables, but it is believed that by next Fall the athletic conditions will be such that the usual football games between the three colleges will be played. It may be that Tad Jones will be brought back to New Haven to fulfill his unexpired contract and there is a strong possibility that Percy Haughton will again coach the Crimson eleven. There is a strong football committee in charge at Princeton and it is possible that the football coach at the lair of the Tiger will be Bill Roper.

The hockey, baseball, and track situation is pretty well settled. The hockey games will be played this year at the Brooklyn Ice Palace, the first match of the triangular series being scheduled for Saturday night of this week, between Harvard and Yale. On Feb. 15 Yale will tackle Princeton and on Washington's Birthday Harvard will play Princeton.

The baseball series has also been approved, and the three colleges will play series with each other two out of three games. The dates for all these games have not yet been decided, but will be arranged so as to come when each of the institutions hold their class days. The track and field games between the three have also been approved, but the dates have not yet been settled.

The committee in conference here yesterday announced that the decisions arrived at would be announced in the college dailies at each university.

FORDHAM TO PLAY RUTGERS

Maroon Eleven Will Also Meet Princeton Team.

Fordham and Rutgers will again meet on the gridiron next Fall, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Raymond J. Kelly, the Fordham football manager. The contest will be staged at Fordham Field on Saturday, Oct. 25.

The Maroon schedule, which will be ready for publication within the next fortnight, will include games with Princeton, Georgetown, Lafayette, and Holy Cross.

Boyd Scores Cue Victory.

Frank Boyd scored a victory last night over Robert Steinbugler in the Victory handicap 18.2 balk line billiard tournament at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. The score was 150 to 115 in forty-one innings. Boyd rallied near the end, and gradually left his rival behind him in the score. Steinbugler made the highest run of the match, a cluster of 26. He averaged 2 35-4. Boyd's highest run was 23 and he had an average of 3 27-41.

TWO KNOCKOUTS RECORDED

Referee Decides Issue in N. Y. A. C. Bouts for Invalid Tars.

Two decisive victories were recorded last night in the series of amateur boxing bouts conducted at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Brooklyn under the auspices of the New York A. C. and the personal direction of Captain George Lung, U. S. N., and Dr. S. B. Burke. The contests were witnessed by a crowd of 1,500 convalescent tars.

The boxers who scored knockouts were R. Hill, in the 128-pound class, and H. Epstein, Rutgers Place Gymnasium, in the 145-pound division. In both instances Referee George Schwegler was called on to display his discretionary powers in the second round.

The summaries:

110-Pound Class.—J. Williams, East Side House, defeated C. Schoby, East Side House; three rounds, judges' decision.

128-Pound Class.—R. Hill, unattached, defeated M. Peti, unattached; two rounds, referee's decision.

DEMPSEY TO GET $27,500 FOR BOUT

Rickard and Kearns Come to Agreement and Boxer Will Sign Contract Saturday.

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxer of Salt Lake City, was yesterday definitely selected as the opponent for Jess Willard, heavyweight champion, in a title bout to be promoted July 4, by Tex Rickard. Rickard and Jack Kearns, manager for Dempsey, after a conference at the Biltmore Hotel, came to an oral agreement. The men will sign contracts Saturday, when Dempsey will be in the city. For his end of the purse Dempsey will receive $27,500 and one-third of the motion-picture rights.

The Salt Lake City boxer is now on his way to this city from his home after a visit to his mother. He is expected to arrive Friday or Saturday.

The guarantee promised Dempsey makes the forthcoming contest the greatest, financially, that has ever been undertaken. The plans already mapped out provide for an outlay of $202,500. This does not include labor on the day of the match, minor incidentals which Promoter Rickard has not calculated, or the amount of the tax which will be levied by the State in which the contest is promoted.

The purse will be the largest in ring history. Willard is guaranteed $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500. The previous record for purses was made in 1910, when Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries battled at Reno, Nev., for a purse of $121,000.

Rickard plans to build an open-air arena which will cost at least $50,000. This arena, according to present plans, will contain seating accommodations for 75,000 people. The western promoter expects the contest to bring at least $250,000 into the box office. He plans to assume the war tax burden himself. The prices of tickets will be from $10 to $50. At this figure, the promoter stated yesterday, he thought prospective spectators were paying all that could be expected of them. This means that Rickard is assuming a possible outlay of $25,000 in Government war taxes.

The selection of Dempsey came after a long and at times heated conference. Previous to the arrival of Kearns, Promoter Rickard had declared positively that he would not pay more than $25,000 to the Salt Lake City heavyweight. Kearns's first figure was one-third of the amount that was being guaranteed Willard. Promoter Rickard immediately denied this. After some more talk Kearns proposed $30,000, pointing out that he would be compelled to refuse many offers for bouts for Dempsey between now and the date of the Willard meeting. Rickard pointed out that if Kearns and Dempsey were so confident of beating Willard and taking the title, they should be more reasonable in their demands.

Subsequently Rickard made a proposition that he would give Dempsey $27,500 guarantee, with an added $2,500 if the contest drew more than $250,000. There followed some haggling, and finally Rickard proposed that the question be put to a vote of the newspaper men present, whether Dempsey was to receive $30,000 or $27,500. The vote of nine writers showed seven for the smaller figure and two for $30,000.

The promoter and boxer's manager then agreed to post $5,000 each when the articles are signed. Sixty days before the bout Rickard will post 25 per cent. of Dempsey's guarantee. Dempsey, it is provided, must be on the scene of the contest six weeks before the day of the bout.

Kearns noted in reading the articles for the bout signed by Willard and Rickard that there was no stipulation that Willard's title must be at stake. Dempsey's manager insisted that the bout must be a title match and wanted the articles to stipulate this. Rickard explained, however, that the absence of this condition was caused by the uncertainty of where the bout will be held. Rickard, added, though, that Willard understood clearly that his title was at stake.

No mention was made of where the match will occur. Rickard declared the western part of the country was much interested, but added that he did not think yet of entirely eliminating the East. Rickard has agreed that in case of an emergency which might necessitate shifting the contest abroad, he would pay the expenses of the participants in addition to giving the boxers their guarantees.

When the referee question was discussed Rickard stated positively that under no circumstances would he officiate. The selection of the third man in the ring is left to the boxers, with the proviso that if they fail to agree Rickard will nominate the arbiter.

Dartmouth Nine to Play Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 4.—According to a statement given out today by H. G. Pender, graduate manager of Dartmouth athletics, Dartmouth will meet Harvard on the diamond this Spring, if present plans go into effect. A game between the rival nines is pending, to be played in Cambridge May 10. Although no complete schedule for the Green has yet been announced, the Varsity will clash with Holy Cross at Worcester on Memorial Day.

We're an old hand at outfitting, so know the importance of keeping the same freshness and variety in our stock as when the season first began.

An unusual policy, but as manufacturers we are in a position to keep our stores supplied with new ideas just as fast as they come along. Added new lines in both suits and overcoats only the other day. Among others, foreign novelties.

JORDAN

Robert P. McCurdy

"I Want You to Meet Him"

For fourteen years Robert P. McCurdy sold Pierce-Arrow Motor Cars to the people of Pittsburg.

He was a believer in the Roosevelt theory — "When you work, work hard, and when you play, play hard."

He had worked hard — and most successfully.

And he wanted to play—and was entitled to.

So he gave up business—and yielded to the lure of the rod, the gun, and the golf ball.

But that was before the Jordan Car was announced.

Mr. McCurdy read the announcement.

He went to Cleveland. He saw the Jordan Car.

That was all he needed. The old tingle came back in his blood.

And he was back—for keeps, this time.

The McCurdy-Brainard Company was organized. And what they did with the Jordan Cars in Pittsburg and Philadelphia forms one of the brightest pages in automobile history.

Now the McCurdy-Brainard Company has acquired control of the sale of Jordan Cars in New York, with headquarters at "Jordan Corner"—Broadway at Sixty-third Street.

Mr. McCurdy is here—at his headquarters—and at the show.

Shake hands with him. He is a good man to know.

Edward S. Jordan

BRISK BUYING OF FOX SKINS AT FUR SALE

Net Receipts of Second Day's Auction in Masonic Temple Close to $1,250,000.

SOME PRICE RECORDS MADE

Announcement That the Threatened Strike Is Averted Stimulates Market.

Brisk bidding on virtually all classes of fox skins at yesterday's fur sale, conducted under the auspices of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, in the Masonic Temple, Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, netted for the day close to $1,250,000, which with the $750,000 taken in on Monday brought the two days' receipts to approximately $2,000,000.

The announcement that the threatened strike of fur workers here had been averted acted as a stimulant to yesterday's buying, as many manufacturers who had been uncertain of their position stocked up on fox skins to capacity for next season's requirements. According to the officials of the sales corporation, prices obtained yesterday for the various classes of fox skins average about 25 per cent. higher than for similar goods at last week's auction held in St. Louis, while in many instances prices ran materially ahead of those prevailing at the auction held here in October. There were, however, some declines from October levels. Martens were said to have averaged about 30 per cent. higher than at St. Louis.

Yesterday's sale began with a remnant of the silver fox offerings not disposed of on Monday, and was followed by heavy quantities of Australian, red, and sundry fox pelts, including 21,475 fox tails, and 2,861 martens. Advances or declines recorded yesterday in comparison with prices obtained in October were officially reported as follows:

Gray fox, 30 per cent. up; blue fox, no change; white fox, 15 per cent. up; cross fox, no change; Australian fox, 10 per cent. lower; red fox, 15 per cent. lower; Japanese fox, 10 per cent. lower, and marten 10 per cent. up.

The range of prices for the day were: 5,777 gray fox pelts, $1 to $5 per pelt; 120 blue fox, $75 to $142; 633 white fox, $12 to $62; 620 cross fox, $35 to $147; 12,894 Australian fox, $1.25 to $5.60; 21,475 red fox, $12 to $47, and 2,861 marten, $16 to $82.00.

The day's most popular offerings appeared to be red cross foxes, and martens. The collection of martens was said to be exceptional, many dark skins being included in the lot. Charvet et Cie, a French concern paid $82.50 for some of the Marten pelts; this is said to be a record price. Red fox, although selling 15 per cent. lower than at the October sale, did better than expected, especially in view of the fact that 21,475 pelts went under the hammer.

The general comment yesterday was that good skins were wanted by the trade, manufacturers and dealers being ready to pay excellent prices for such pelts, while the poorer grades of skins sold at lower prices.

At today's auction, which starts at 10 o'clock, the offerings will be miscellaneous in character, the biggest single lot being 143,725 skunk skins. Other offerings of today include 37,740 Kolinsky, 56,850 raccoon, 4,769 badger, 528 Persian lamb, and 380 leopard. In addition, there will be several lots of pelts put under the hammer for the account of the Alien Property Custodian.

TRANSFER 7 MORE SHIPS.

Shipping Board Will Turn Them from War to Trade Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Seven more ships were transferred by the Shipping Board today from war service to commercial trade routes.

The steamer Guaro was ordered into the nitrate trade with Chile, Plainfield to load with coal at Norfolk for Brazil, West Cape to load at New York March 15 for Australia; Defiance to load general cargo at New York for India March 1, Castle Point to load coal at Hampton Roads for the West Coast of South America Feb. 8; Annam to load cotton at Savannah for the United Kingdom Feb. 4, and Ryvarden with general cargo from New York to the West Indies, already sailed. The Annam is Danish and the Ryvarden Norwegian, while the others are American.

The East Shore, formerly reported released from military service, will remain with the army supply.

NEW CONSERVATION LIST.

Exports for Which Special Licenses Are Required.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The War Trade Board announced tonight a revised export conservation list effective tomorrow. For exportation of articles on the list special licenses are required. The list follows:

Cartridges and shells, loaded and unloaded; shot, in bulk; butter, cheese, cinchona bark and products, coal, coffee, (green, roasted, and soluble,) except Haitian and Porto Rican; coke, eggs, egg products, explosives, films, moving pictures, unexposed, exposed but undeveloped, exposed and developed; firearms, all types; wheat flour, gold manufactured, except dental and articles containing more than 45 per cent. of fine gold in value; grains, (wheat,) except seed wheat; jewelry, containing more than 45 per cent. of fine gold in value; lard, neutral, compound and substitutes; milk, condensed, dehydrated, evaporated, powdered, and preserved; bacon, barreled, and mess pork, coarse hog bellies, canned pork, fat backs, fresh pork, hams, pickled pork, except ears, snouts, lips, tails, jowls, heads and back straps; shoulders, spareribs, stag bellies, quinine and its compounds, quinine salts, seeds, red clover.

Individual licenses are not required to Canada and Newfoundland. Where shipments of grain are made for seed purposes, shippers are cautioned to state that fact on the shipping papers.

WANT COPPER HELD BACK.

Workers Also Ask That Foreign Trade in Metal Be Encouraged.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Congress was urged in resolutions adopted today by representatives of the copper mine workers of Utah, Arizona, and Montana to provide legislation for the extension of long-term credits to foreign countries to stimulate the copper market and relieve conditions in the industry characterized as critical. The resolutions also called upon the War and Navy Departments to withhold the stocks of copper now on hand from the market.

Accumulations of copper at mills, smelters, and refineries, resulting from the sudden termination of the war demand, were estimated by the Department of Labor today at a billion pounds, valued at $175,000,000. Sales for the last seventy-five days, it was said, have been less than 5 per cent. of the output. This surplus of a billion pounds, it was said, was produced on a wage scale basis of 26 cents a pound. Sale of this surplus at the present market quotation of 18 cents, it was estimated, would mean a loss of $80,000,000 to producers.

CRIMMINS ESTATE $4,624,447

Realty Holdings $1,134,483, Stocks and Bonds $3,057,755.

The estate of John D. Crimmins, capitalist and realty investor, who died Nov. 9, 1917, was appraised yesterday at $4,825,128 gross and $4,624,447 net. The debts amounted to $89,729.

The realty holdings of Mr. Crimmins were appraised at $1,134,483, which included the east side of Madison Avenue between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Streets, worth $950,000; the property at 244 East Fifty-ninth Street, appraised at $15,000, and vacant lots in Queens valued at $30,680. Many of the parcels of real estate acquired by Mr. Crimmins were held in the name of the Crimmins Operating Company, of which he held 901 of the 905 shares of stock, appraised at $1,511,571. The assets of the Crimmins Operating Company included $1,872,880 in realty and leaseholds and mortgages aggregating the total of $1,949,895, the surplus of the corporation being $1,427,782.

Mr. Crimmins had $110,548 in cash, notes and mortgages amounting to $118,422, and insurance in thirteen companies aggregating $270,832. His personal effects in his residence, at 40 East Sixty-eighth Street, were appraised at $57,755, of which $51,300 was the value of his paintings.

Mr. Crimmins had $3,057,755 in stocks and bonds, of which the latter aggregated $262,000. The largest stock holdings, other than the Crimmins Operating shares, were: 1,000 Anaconda Copper, $52,625; 4,050 Consolidated Traction Company of New Jersey, $271,350; 300 Essex and Hudson Land and Improvement Company, $86,610; 105 Fifth Avenue Bank, $422,000; 2,326 Inter-Met. preferred, $104,670.

BUSINESS MEN PLEDGED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Commerce Chamber Cables to Wilson Renewing Its Support of Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The support of American business to President Wilson in his advocacy of a League of Nations is promised in a cablegram sent to the President today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The message calls attention to a referendum vote of the Chamber's membership dealing with the subject, and declares that it is reasonable to assume that were a vote taken today the principles already indorsed would be advocated by even larger majorities. An executive committee, consisting of Edward A. Filene of Boston, Chairman; Philip H. Gadsden of Charleston, S. C., and George E. Roberts of New York, has been named to ask every member organization of the Chamber to create a committee on the League of Nations, take up the subject in public meetings, and supply member organizations with material necessary for carrying on campaigns of education.

"The opposition which has been expressed to a League of Nations in certain official quarters of this country may lead to the assumption abroad that there is lacking a strong support of your most able advocacy of such a league," the cablegram to President Wilson reads, "and as indicating the position of American business, your attention is invited to Referendum 11 of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which deals with this subject.

"This referendum was taken in December, 1915, a time when there was much less interest in the idea of a League of Nations than exists today. Six questions were presented, all of them urging initiative on the part of our Government in bringing about concerted action, and while the League of Nations was in no way included in the document by name, such a definite organization was undoubtedly in mind when the vote was cast, and the result is therefore not without interest at this time when the whole world is awaiting with real anxiety the decision of the Peace Conference upon this great question. The votes cast were by organizations, not by individuals, and therefore represent the action of several hundred thousand business concerns.

"Upon the use of economic and military pressure is shown the greatest negative vote, and since it requires the two-thirds vote to carry a proposition in the Chamber it will be noted that the use of concerted military force failed to carry, all of the other proposals carrying by a large vote.

"American business records itself unqualifiedly in favor of such international association as you have been advocating, and it is reasonable to assume that a vote taken today would, in the light of larger experience and deeper thought upon this subject, be productive of even larger majorities."

BUSINESS NOTES.

Butler Brothers have just announced the payment of a 10 per cent. bonus on their yearly salaries to all employes, except members of the Board of Directors. This applies to the stores and warehouses of the firm in twenty-six cities. The bonus is given because of the high cost of living, the continuance of war conditions, and the uncertainties of the present transition period.

The local office of F. A. Patrick & Co. of Duluth, Minn., formerly at 43 Leonard Street, is now at 200 Fifth Avenue.

Charles Heacker, a resident buyer at 43 Leonard Street, will represent in the future these firms: Frank & Co., Savannah, Ga.; David Rothschild & Co., Columbus, Ga.; Clawson & Wilson Company, Buffalo and Cleveland, and B. Hart & Co. of San Francisco.

Hillman & Israel, 200 Fifth Avenue, have taken over the Classic Mills in Brooklyn, where they intend to manufacture high-grade novelty worsted sweaters. This makes the tenth factory now controlled by this firm.

Frank J. Fogarty, formerly with the Adele Knitting Company, will represent the Stephenson Underwear Mills of South Bend, Ind., with offices at 450 Fourth Avenue.

Munzer Company, resident buyers at 1,133 Broadway, have added to their accounts the following: Goldstein's, Lincoln, Ill.; Newman's, Jackson, Mich.; Crawford's, Waterloo, Iowa; Johnson Brothers, Grand Forks and Bismarck, N. D.; S. A. Williams Company, Birmingham, Ala., and the Sydney Company, Joliet, Ill.

SATEENS
as we produce them are so satin-like in texture and finish but so unsatin-like in price, that provident manufacturers depend upon us to supply their needs.

and their correspondents throughout the world

The personal introduction, which obtains for the traveller the services and facilities of the Correspondents named in the list attached to the Letter of Credit should, in addition to its financial safeguards, recommend the Letter of Credit, especially in these times, as desirable in the highest degree as a financial arrangement for those contemplating foreign travel.

Seasoned Long Term Bonds

There are many investors who are taking advantage of present prices of securities to buy a substantial income for years to come

USE JUDGMENT IN SELECTING YOUR INVESTMENTS

Experts are of the opinion that bonds of real intrinsic merit purchased around present prices are practically certain to sell considerably higher within the next few years. The question, therefore, is not so much as to whether to buy now as it is to use the proper amount of judgment in making selections. Should you wish us to submit to you a diversified list of securities, we would be glad to do so, following out your ideas as to types and geographical location as closely as possible.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Railroad Stock Advance Lends Firm Tone to Whole Market

—The Supply of Copper.

A rather curious mixture of speculative sentiment was reflected in yesterday's stock market, which would have received little attention had it not been for the close study of the railroad situation in financial circles these days. At a time when commission houses were discussing in rather bearish fashion the business of the copper companies and of corporations engaged in certain manufacturing lines, a buying movement began among the railroad stocks which carried them forward with considerable strength. Presumably the retirement of commitments on the short side was the major influence behind the purchases, yet the upturn was sufficiently insistent while it lasted to awaken a fair amount of buying among industrial issues and the market left off with a firm front. The unusual event of a rising tendency of prices was witnessed while the gossip and comment of the market place were inclined to minimize favorable occurrences in business.

It appeared as though the opinions of Director General Hines on the railroads in his second day before the Senate committee assisted the market for railroad stocks. The features of the testimony, as it reached the Street by telegraph, which were scanned closely were those dealing with the plea that the carriers be permitted to remain under Government control for five years in order that a full test of good years and bad be made, and with the Director General's suggestions on regional corporations for the transportation system. When Mr. Hines went into some detail in respect to these corporations and how he would have them managed, traders seemed to surmise that considerable progress toward forming a workable plan for returning the roads to stockholders had been made. The statement by the copper producers in Washington in regard to the position of the industry was received too late for consideration by the financial district during business hours, but promised to supply material for cogitation today. The condition of metal stocks and the market as discussed by the copper men supplemented what they had previously been stating in private, namely, that since the armistice ended the war demand copper buying had been small almost to the vanishing point. With 1,000,000,000 pounds on hand, produced under costs far above normal, and consuming power throughout the world remaining to be rebuilt, it would seem that a difficult problem in respect to current operations and the wage scale is presented. The effect of the situation on dividends has been seen in a number of reductions in recent weeks, and the cuts already made can hardly be referred to altogether in forming an opinion of what is to occur in the early future, as many of the companies have large cash surpluses which represent the fruit of profitable years.

The market for foreign bonds was active and strong, the French municipal issues standing in the foreground. Liberty bonds moved irregularly, the later 4¼s declining slightly, as they have practically every day for some time past. Today $25,000,000 of public utility notes and bonds are to be placed before the public, returning 5½ per cent. in case of a long-term issue and 7.30 and 7.55 per cent. for three-year paper. Several pieces of railroad financing are under consideration, among them an issue of New York Central equipment notes, which promise to go to the highest bidder in open competition between bankers.

Active Trading on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Active trading marked the day on the Bourse. Three per cent. rentes were quoted at 64 francs 75 centimes; exchange on London at 24 francs 98 centimes, and the 5 per cent. loan at 91 francs 85 centimes.

OFFER $28,000,000 UTILITY SECURITIES

New Jersey Public Service, Philadelphia Co., and Brooklyn Edison Seek Money.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TO SELL

Will Enter Market Shortly for $8,000,000 Through Equipment Notes for New Rolling Stock.

New public utility securities to an aggregate of $28,000,000 par value are to be offered to the public today, and indications were found in banking quarters yesterday of railroad financing to be undertaken soon. The New York Central, it was learned, will shortly enter the market for about $8,000,000 through the sale of equipment notes, the proceeds to be used to pay for new cars and locomotives ordered some time ago. The New York Central's transaction is expected to be handled through the Railroad Administration, and John Skelton Williams, Director of Finance, is likely to "go shopping" for the highest bid, as was the case with $25,000,000 Southern Railway notes, which a Chicago syndicate engaged to distribute last week, in whole or in part.

A syndicate headed by Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia, and Bonbright & Co. will offer today $12,500,000 three-year convertible 7 per cent. gold notes of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey at 98½. At this price the notes will yield more than 7.55 per cent. and will be convertible at any time prior to Dec. 31, 1921, into 8 per cent. preferred stock of the corporation. The preferred stock is a new issue, of which $10,000,000 par value is to be offered shortly to the corporation's stockholders for cash at par. The proceeds of the notes and preferred stock will be used to discharge floating debt and provide additional working capital for the company.

Another offering is of $10,000,000 three-year 6 per cent. notes of the Philadelphia Company at 96½, to yield more than 7.30 per cent. It was learned yesterday that nearly half of the issue had already been placed. The selling syndicate is headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. and the First National Bank, and includes the Chase Securities Corporation, Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., Montgomery & Co., Hayden, Stone & Co., and Kean, Taylor & Co.

The $5,500,000 5 per cent. general mortgage bonds of the Brooklyn Edison Company, which were bought a few days ago by the Guaranty Trust Company, are to be offered at 91, a price which returns the buyer about 5⅝ per cent. on the money invested. The issue matures in thirty years. The offering will mark the first time in nearly fifteen years that the company has issued bonds, new funds being raised during the period by sales of stock.

RAILROAD DEFICIT GROWS.

Commerce Board Figures Indicate It Will Be $250,000,000 for 1918.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Figures issued today by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the operating incomes of large railroads for December, 1918, indicate that the deficit to the Government for 1918 is already about $220,000,000.

For December the operating income for 175 railroads was $23,085,847. Past figures given out by the commission show that for some 194 large railroads the operating income for the eleven months ending Nov. 30 was $662,407,620. The figures for the eleven months added to the December figures make a total of $685,493,472. Subtracted from the Government guarantee of $905,000,000, this makes a deficit of about $219,600,000. The figures for the nineteen roads yet to report for December will increase the deficit still more, it is thought, probably to about $250,000,000.

Operating income for 194 roads for the first eleven months of 1917 amounted to $910,357,085, and for December of that year the income for 175 roads was $57,690,257, a total of $968,147,342.

Hines Explains Further His Plan for Regional Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Director General Hines today explained to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee how he believed a reorganization of the railroads into a few regional corporations, operating privately under close Government supervision, might be worked out. There should be not less than six nor more than twelve of these regional operating corporations, he said, with Government representatives on the Board of Directors of each. This method, Mr. Hines suggested, would result in more competition and better service than would be rendered by a single national corporation, and would give a "local touch" to the managements.

Regional consolidations would have to be directed by the Government, and some Federal agency also would have to determine on plans for exchanging securities in the consolidations. All roads, including short lines, he said, should be included in the regional systems.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Harris, Forbes & Co., the National City Company, and Hayden, Stone & Co. are offering $1,150,000 Cuyahoga County, Ohio, building 5 per cent. bonds, due serially, 1921 to 1945, at a price to net 4.60 per cent.

COTTON SHOWS REACTION.

Liquidation, Labor Situation, and Weak Cables Cause Decline.

After opening prices yesterday had showed gains ranging from 6 to 12 points higher than Monday's closing, the market turned weak on a general reselling by professional traders. The maximum losses for the day all around the list ran from 86 to 111 points. The firmness displayed in the early trading was probably due to short covering, carried over from Monday, by local and Wall Street operators, and by the sharp rise in the Liverpool market. Futures in Liverpool opened firm 27 to 33 points advance, which was more than that market was due to have shown to have equaled our closing on Monday. Later cables, however, reported a break in all options and brought with it heavy selling orders from abroad. Not all of the difficulty which has arisen between the operatives and mill owners in the Lancashire district has been settled, and this uncertainty led to the irregular and unsettled market there.

The liquidation which sent prices off in this market was initiated by professionals who are using the very much mixed trade and labor situation as a means to that end. March contracts started at 23.90c and registered as high as 24.25c shortly after the opening, but broke then to 23.20c; May's first price of 22.80c, worked up to 23.16c, and the liquidation here forced the price down to 22.03c, July, opening at 22.03c and going to 22.30c, and October starting at 20.40c advancing to 20.60c, likewise reacted under the selling and before the movement had run its course were substantially under the highs for the day. Around midday the market was quiet with prices easy, and it continued in this state for the remainder of the session. At the closing prices were from 39 to 50c under Monday's final quotations, or approximately ½c per pound.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Central Union Trust Company of New York, Trustee

From the letter of Mr. Nicholas F. Brady, President of the Company, which is on file with us, we summarize as follows:

Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., successor company by change of name to the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company and by merger to the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn, is an operating company and does all the electric light and power business in the Borough of Brooklyn (except the Twenty-ninth Ward), City of New York, serving a population estimated at 1,600,000. The Company or its predecessors have been successfully engaged in supplying electric light and power since 1885.

The Bonds will be the direct obligations of Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., and will be secured by a mortgage on all its real and personal property now owned or hereafter in any way acquired, subject only to $11,996,000 underlying bonds. The General Mortgage will close the mortgages securing these underlying bonds, no more of which may be issued.

Junior to the General Mortgage Bonds, there are outstanding $1,762,300 Debenture Bonds and $17,237,700 Capital Stock. Dividends have been paid at the rate of 8% per annum since 1904. The present quoted prices for these securities indicate an equity over and above these General Mortgage Bonds of about $18,000,000.

The following table shows the growth of the Company's earning power and the favorable relation between income and interest charges on its funded debt.

Calendar Year	Gross Earnings	Operating Expenses, Taxes and Plant Reserve	Gross Income	Interest on Funded Debt	Balance
1914	$6,316,888	$4,167,852	$2,149,036	$801,783	$1,347,253
1915	7,000,814	4,569,530	2,431,284	791,175	1,640,109
1916	8,204,808	5,014,050	3,190,758	683,540	2,507,218
1917	8,381,055	5,511,982	2,869,073	711,241	2,157,832
1918	8,854,301	6,162,445	2,691,856	715,374	1,976,482

Gross Income for the last five years has averaged more than 3.6 times the interest on the Company's entire funded debt. For 1918 the Gross Income was more than 3 times the annual interest charge on the Bonds about to be issued and all underlying bonds.

The Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York has authorized the issue of these Series A Bonds.

Price 91 and interest, to yield about 5⅝%

When, as and if issued and received by us. It is expected that Temporary Bonds of $1,000 denomination will be ready for delivery about February 10

CABLE FREE TRADE PETITION TO LANSING

Noted Tariff Reformers Ask That Memorial Be Laid Before Peace Conference.

FOR INTERNATIONAL POLICY

Economic Greed, They Assert, Has Been Most Prolific Cause of All Wars.

The American Free Trade League, with headquarters at 120 Boylston Street, Boston, whose President is Major George Haven Putnam, the New York publisher, has cabled to Secretary of State Lansing a memorial in favor of international free trade, with a request that Secretary Lansing lay the memorial before the Peace Conference. The document was signed by several hundred free-trade college professors and many prominent free-trade Democrats in this country.

After reciting that the signatories represent varied groups of commercial, industrial, and professional activities throughout the United States, the memorial asserts that "economic greed has been the chief and most prolific source of modern wars, and the paramount, if not the sole, cause of the world war, proven by the unstinted lust on the part of the chief aggressor, for world domination in trade to the disadvantage of other nations."

In the opinion of the signers of the memorial, "economic peace is the vital atmosphere of a league of free nations and involves freedom of trade in the mutual interest of all nations and to the disadvantage of none. The urgent need of all Europe and much of Asia for food, and of the devastated regions for machinery and raw materials for their reconstruction and rehabilitation, and of manufactured goods for their immediate consumption, make it an imperative duty for the civilized nations of Europe to sanction no policy that would have the result of obstructing trade or hindering the prompt delivery of these materials, with the necessary result of lessening the supplies so delivered, or that could make any addition whatever to the cost of products required by the starving and the destitute."

The signers give no consideration to the differences in the cost of labor in the different countries, but they do assert that "even for a nation looking to its own self-interest, the growth of trade which comes with the freedom of interchange of exports and imports makes for social freedom, a better understanding of other people, general prosperity, and, therefore, individual prosperity.

This is shown, it is said, by the benefits derived from freedom of trade among the United States, marred only by the participation with other nations in the war of tariffs, and the resulting diversion of much of the wealth accumulated through its domestic free trade into the hands of a few at the expense of the many. The memorial continues:

"The great task before the world, through the peace conference, is the healing of the nations which means the welfare of all peoples. This can only come through world freedom made possible by economic freedom. Now that the greatest of all wars is happily over, and the international spirit of freedom has vanquished national greed for world power, there must come the great peace which will first of all remove the economic, social, and political motives for future wars. If the new peace is not such a peace, the war will have been waged for naught and the sacrifices of millions of men have been in vain. For the first time in history there is an opportunity for the nations of the world to lay down their economic weapons along with their military arms and join in an actual brotherhood of humanity."

Among the signers of the memorial are Everett V. Abbot, former President of the Reform Club; Henry de Forest Baldwin, William Worth Bailey, former Pennsylvania Congressman; George Gordon Battle, Poultney Bigelow, S. P. Breckenridge of the Faculty of Chicago University; Clarence Darrow, Socialist lawyer, of Chicago; William C. De Mille, playwright; Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University; E. P. Dutton & Co., New York publishers; Charles S. Fairchild, former Secretary of the Treasury; Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, President of Yale University; Charles H. Ingersoll, Henry Noble Macracken, President of Vassar College; William Church Osborn, and George Foster Peabody.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — Leon O. Fisher of New York, Second Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, became today head of the Insurance Department of the War Risk Bureau.

SAYS PACKERS ARE FAVORED

Lasater Insists Live Stock Men and Public Are Exploited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Edward C. Lasater of the National Livestock Association told the House Interstate Commerce Committee today that the Food Administration allied itself with the five leading meat packers to exploit the live-stock producers and discriminate against the smaller packer.

"This discrimination was so evident and so harmful to all concerned except the packers themselves," Mr. Lasater said, "that I decided to sever my connections with the Food Administration. Until then I had been chief of the live-stock and markets division."

He read a large number of letters purporting to show an understanding between the Food Administration and the packers, and that no action was determined upon by the department unless the packers approved.

"The packers were allowed to make a good profit on everything they handled," he said, "and this profit was assured them. They didn't stand to lose a cent. But when the producers asked for the same privilege Mr. Hoover said it could not be done and that the producers should be willing to make some sacrifices to aid the country to win the war."

Mr. Lasater said that Mr. Hoover lacked the moral courage to explain the real causes for the high prices, and that this resulted in ill-feeling between the public and the dairymen which it would take a generation to remove.

HARE DREW TWO SALARIES.

$4,000 from War Department and $15,000 from Gas Company.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Testifying today before the Senate Buildings Committee, which is inquiring into the rejected Chicago Speedway Hospital project, C. W. Hare, an assistant at the War Department, said that since entering the Government service he had continued to draw two salaries, $4,000 a year from the Government and $15,000 a year from the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia. He said, however, that he performed no service for the company.

Mr. Hare said he was "loaned" to the Government by the Philadelphia company when the war started, and first received from the Government $1 a year. Later he was appointed Assistant Secretary of Munitions, at $4,000 a year. He said he did not see anything wrong in accepting both salaries.

Jacob Newman, attorney for Edward Hines of Chicago, was recalled to explain that he had not intended to connect S. H. Hodge, a Chicago real estate dealer now with the War Department, with charges made before the committee last week that Milton J. Trainor of the War Department real estate bureau had sought a commission of $100,000 in connection with the contract for the Chicago Speedway Hospital.

BRYAN AT CAPITOL WORKS FOR SUFFRAGE

Labors with Southern Democrats, but with No Success—Senate Conference Called.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—William Jennings Bryan appeared at the Capitol today and urged Southern Democrats to vote for the woman's suffrage amendment next Monday, warning them that if they failed to support it they might cripple the hopes of the Democratic Party in the North for twenty-five years. The Nebraskan talked with more than a dozen Southern Democrats, and then gave out this statement, which, he said, embodied what he had told the Democrats:

"Woman suffrage is coming to the country and to the world. It will be submitted to the States by the next Congress, if it is not submitted by the present Congress. I hope the Democrats of the South will not handicap the Democrats of the North by compelling them to spend the next twenty-five years explaining to the women of the country why their party prevented the submission of the suffrage amendment to the States. This is our last chance to play an important part in bringing about this important reform.

Inquiry failed to reveal that Mr. Bryan had made any impression upon opponents of the resolution. Senator Trammel of Florida, who had been urged by the President in a cablegram and was pressed by Mr. Bryan to vote for the measure, said to THE NEW YORK TIMES: "I told Mr. Bryan that I would carefully consider what he had said to me."

With Mr. Trammel's vote the suffrage advocates would have enough to adopt the resolution, but it was stated that the Florida Senator was as unalterably opposed to supporting it as before Mr. Bryan talked with him.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (Associated Press.)—Upon petition of twenty-two Democratic Senators favoring the woman suffrage resolution pending in the Senate, Senator Martin of Virginia, the Democratic leader, today called a conference of Democratic members for tomorrow night to consider the question.

Revenue Bill Again Held Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Plans for final action on the War Revenue bill were revised today because of delay in preparing the conference draft. The conference agreement will not be submitted to the House until Thursday, with plans to begin House debate Saturday instead of Friday. This change will delay Senate action until next week.

CHARGE BEATING JAMAICANS.

Laborers Declared to be Ill-Treated in Panama and Costa Rica.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Feb. 4.—Public indignation has been aroused over the treatment of Jamaican strikers who have been working as laborers on the United Fruit Company's plantations at Bocas del Toro, Panama, and in Costa Rica, especially over the flogging of Jamaican laborers by order of German employers in Costa Rica, and the imprisonment of members of a deputation from the strikers which called on the Governor at Port Limon, Costa Rica.

The press urges the Governor of Jamaica to take action in the matter. The Governor will communicate with the British Minister at Panama.

BETHLEHEM TAKES AWARD.

Agrees to Put Into Effect War Labor Board's Suggestions.

An amicable agreement has been reached by the War Labor Board and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation as to wage awards and a plan for collective bargaining in the Bethlehem mills. Paul D. Cravath, counsel for the corporation, announced acceptance of the board's jurisdiction, hitherto denied, after a meeting of the board at the McAlpin yesterday. The steel corporation requested the board to obtain from the Government additional allowances on contracts so that it could pay back wages under the awards. Assurances were given that such recommendations would be made.

"It has not been the disposition of Bethlehem to disregard the findings of your board nor to take advantage of the signing of the armistice to withdraw from the assurances which it gave you during the war period," said Mr. Cravath's statement. "On the contrary, the company authorizes me to say that it recognizes that you are entitled to its loyal co-operation in carrying through the two important measures with which your findings dealt:

"First, the inauguration of an effective plan for collective bargaining between the management and the employes, and, second, the doing of all that can be done to secure from the War and Navy Departments, and the other procurement departments of the Government, an allowance to cover such additional compensation as may be necessary to give Bethlehem employes the retroactive pay recommended by your findings."

It was announced by the board that no further action would be taken for the present, so that opportunity would be given to the corporation "to test the practical character of its proposals, and its full compliance with the spirit of those proposals as interpreted by the board."

TO EXPORT CEREALS.

Britain, France, and Italy Reach Agreement with Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 4.—The representatives of Great Britain, France, and Italy today signed with Julio Moreno, Acting Minister of Finance, the cereal convention which for some time has been under negotiation. The foreign representatives declined to affix their signatures to the convention if it provided for a fixed quantity of cereals or a minimum price.

Immediately after the document was signed President Irigoyen issued a decree fixing the prices for exportation of cereals under the convention as follows: Wheat, 12½ pesos a hundred kilos; oats, 7 pesos; linseed, 18 pesos, and maize, 6½ pesos.

Under the American Treasury exchange rate the equivalents of the export charge in American gold will be respectively $5.31, $2.97, $7.64, and $2.76.

The shippers here tonight declared an absolute port lockout because the maritime workers persisted in boycotting some vessels. Every hand aboard coastwise shipping was dismissed tonight. An officer of the Coatwise Shippers' Association informed The Associated Press that he expected the lockout to continue for a month.

CITY BORROWS $5,000,000.

Chase National Loans Upon Six Months' Revenue Bills.

Recent reports in the financial district that the City of New York had been sounding bankers with the view of obtaining new funds to meet current expenses were borne out yesterday when it was learned that the Chase National Bank, which carries substantial deposits of city funds, had loaned about $5,000,000 to the municipal authorities on revenue bills which will run for six months. The rate at which the money was loaned is understood to have been an attractive one, not much in advance of 4 per cent.

The report that the loan had been made yesterday at such a favorable rate was accepted by the financial community as an indication that money rates will be easy for some time to come. In authoritative quarters it was said that loans of similar amounts have been made from time to time by the Chase National Bank, and it is understood that the basis upon which the advances were negotiated was controlled in each instance by the condition of the money market.

What Sponsorship Means

The sponsorship of a conservative banking house of large experience is the first essential in selecting bonds for investment. Such sponsorship means a comprehensive and definite system of safeguards for investors from the day their money is invested until the final payment of interest and maturing principal. Our interest in an investment does not end with the purchase of the bonds by our customers, but we continue to keep in touch with the affairs of the company until the bonds are finally paid at maturity.

Organized in 1882, this house has the accumulated experience of nearly forty years in the selection of investment bonds. In addition to a large volume of business with financial institutions here and abroad, we have for many years been selling bonds to individual investors.

These bonds are purchased with our own funds, only after a most careful investigation. We then offer them with our recommendation to our clients at prices to yield as high a return as is consistent with safety of principal.

We invite correspondence from investors interested in the purchase of investment bonds. Upon request, we shall be pleased to send a copy of our Investment Circular, containing a carefully selected list of government, municipal, railroad and public utility bonds which we are offering with our recommendation. These bonds may be purchased at present to yield from 4½% to more than 7% over a period of from three to fifty years.

We suggest you ask for Circular A-11

A NATIONAL CRISIS

Whether rapidly increasing unemployment, continued wage controversies, decreased profits in industry, friction at the Peace Conference and the usual after-war difficulties will produce a panic or a gradual business depression is problematical. One or the other is certain.

In either event, the interests of Babson clients will be carefully protected during the trying days to come just as they were before and during the war.

BIG CROWDS ATTEND AUTOMOBILE SHOWS

Hundreds of Dealers Examine New Models on Second Day of the Exhibition.

FAMOUS RACING STARS MEET

Display of Accessories Attracts Many —Automobile Engineers Hold Convention.

There were large crowds yesterday at the automobile show in Madison Square Garden and the 69th Regiment Armory. It was dealers' day and several hundred members of the National Dealers' Association were present as well as delegations from the dealers' organizations of Brooklyn, the Bronx, Newark, and Jersey City. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker was present and some of his old racing comrades, including Barney Oldfield, Ralph Mulford, and Dario Resta. They made a tour of the arena floor, and received an enthusiastic ovation at every booth. Barney Oldfield arrived from the West with the announcement that he had retired from racing to assume the Presidency of the Oldfield Tire Company of Cleveland.

One of the features in the armory are the afternoon and evening talks on motor engines, illustrated by diagrams, by Lieutenant J. G. Jamison, who has just been mustered out of the American Air Service. He has been engaged by the Elgin Motor Company of Chicago, and he explains the similarity of the overhead valve operation in the new Elgin Six car as compared with such airplane engines as the Liberty, Curtiss, and Hispano-Suiza. A complete Elgin chassis is shown, giving a clear idea of the motor feature.

The air cooled Franklin cars, the only air cooled motor on exhibition, are attracting attention in the armory because of the compactness of their design and finished body work. One of the striking exhibits is the four passenger touring car finished in deep olive. There is also a five-passenger sedan and a five-passenger open car.

In the Garden, the Willys-Knight and the Willys-Overland four-cylinder models in both closed and open cars are attracting attention. A feature of the exhibit is the Japanese purple four-passenger Knight touring car, equipped with a Victoria top. It is fitted with wire wheels, which add to its appearance and in the rear is a specially designed basket carrier for two extra wire wheels. The open chassis of the new Overland, the little four-passenger car, is one of the novelties in the show, as it discloses the mechanism of the latest model which the Willys Company was preparing to build before the United States entered the war.

One of the new speed car types in the Garden is the National twelve speedster. It is finished in gray with red wire wheels and it has a tapering sweep of the body, resembling a torpedo. The back is hinged, providing a generous carrying compartment.

The accessory exhibits in the galleries of the Garden are, if anything, more diversified than in any previous show. They include everything from a small valve lifting tool to a unique convertible body shown in the armory, which, upon first appearance is a seven-passenger phaeton but may readily be changed into a sport roadster top for two or four passenger. Gasoline saving devices, primers, carbon removers, and tire fillers, including all the latest devices, are displayed.

Associated with the show is the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers, which began yesterday in the Engineering Societies Building. The meetings were of a preliminary character, the chief one being that of the Standards Committee, which was engaged in a great deal of war work. The first of a series of professional sessions will be held today. Lieut. Col Herbert W. Alden, a former President of the society, and Lieut. Col. William G. Wall, both of whom have been in charge of important engineering work in the Ordnance Department of the Army, will speak on tanks and automotive ordnance apparatus respectively. J. G. Utz will discuss the work of military truck standardization.

GEN. VANDERBILT CHOSEN.

Elected Chairman of Gov. Smith's Military Advisory Committee.

Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, recently returned from overseas, was elected Chairman of Governor Smith's Military Advisory Committee at a private session of that body held in the 71st Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, last night. Colonel Charles E. Walsh of Albany, commander of the 10th Infantry, N. Y. G., was chosen Secretary.

The object of the meeting was to organize the New York State military forces. The findings of the committee were not made public at the close of the session, which lasted nearly six hours. It was announced that the result of the proceedings would first be laid before the Governor, who in turn will submit them to the Legislature in the form of an official message.

One of the questions discussed was the Federalization of the New York Guard, and the manner in which this shall be done. Another topic had to do with the methods to be followed in returning to their old organizations any members of the 27th Division who may wish to return to State service.

FIX PHONE RATE TO TENANTS

Apartment Houses May Collect the Actual Amount Paid Company.

Apartment house owners are permitted to collect from tenants the actual amount they pay to the telephone company for extension telephones, according to the interpretation of the order of Postmaster General Burleson by officials of the New York Telephone Company. They cannot, however, charge more than the regular pay station rate for telephone calls. Formerly an extra charge was made for calls in nearly all the apartment houses, varying from 7 to 10 cents for each local call.

An official of the telephone company said yesterday that the telephone company makes a charge for extension telephone as follows: The first eight, $6 a year; next ten, $5.80 a year, and above twenty, $3.60 a year. This amount, the telephone official said, the tenant may be required to pay, if the owner or agent of the apartment house saw fit to make the charge. This would mean an extra charge of 30 to 50 cents a month. Should an attempt be made to collect from the tenant more than the amount actually paid to the telephone company by the apartment house agent or owner, such apartment house is in danger of having its telephone service discontinued, said the telephone official.

LAWRENCE STRIKE GROWS.

Only 5,000 of the 30,000 Mill Hands Report for Work.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 4.—The strike of textile operatives here to obtain fifty-four hours' pay for forty-eight hours' work grew today. It was estimated tonight by persons familiar with the situation in the mills that not more than 5,000 of the 30,000 workers were at their places. The remaining 25,000 were divided between strikers, persons forced out of work by closing of mills or departments, and those who stayed away to avoid trouble.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Textile mills in various parts of New England continued today to fall in line with the plan of granting the employes' demands for a reduction in working time from fifty-four to forty-eight hours a week. Latest additions to the list include the Great Falls Manufacturing Company at Somersworth, N. H., where 2,000 persons are employed.

The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company and Starke mills of Manchester, N. H., employing 20,000 operatives, will put the forty-eight-hour week into effect as soon as business warrants.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices closed firm in a dull market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Fractional net gains were recorded in a majority of the active issues. Trading after midday was greatly restricted in volume, and price fluctuations represented professional operations. The top prices were made in the morning session, when an aggressive demand made for substantial advances in the list. After midday the movement was irregular, with the list as a whole showing recessions from the best prices.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The financial district furnished another important transaction yesterday in the sale of the two five-story buildings at 77 and 79 Pine Street and 166 Pearl Street, for years occupied by the old drug firm of Weaver & Sterry.

They were sold by John De Witt Sterry and Arthur Reading Gulich, as executors of the estate of William De Witt Sterry, to a Mr. Mansion for investment.

The property, which forms an "L" around the southeast corner of Pine and Pearl Street, has a frontage of 30 feet on Pine Street and 65 feet deep, and also a frontage of 24 feet on Pearl Street and is 77 feet deep. It is located in the heart of the financial district and almost adjoins the corner of Wall and Pearl Streets, and is opposite the Seaman's Bank and also the Wall Street Station of the Post Office. This property will be extensively altered for office purposes.

A member of the firm of Pease & Elliman, which negotiated the sale, said yesterday: "With the hundreds of skyscrapers and thousands of offices in this district, I am safe in saying there is less than twenty-five vacant offices for rent in the Wall Street section today, and in many cases where firms have wanted 25,000 square feet of office space or more they have been compelled to go in out-of-the-way locations, buy or lease on a long-term lease buildings which were almost ready to be demolished and alter the same for office purposes.

"Space that has heretofore been used for storage is now being fixed up for offices in order to supply the demand. After these buildings are altered they will put a large number of offices on the market for rent. The sale of this property was an all-cash transaction and including the alterations will involve over $100,000.

Another Financial District Deal Pending

Another sale in the financial section which is reported pending involves the four five-story buildings at 21 to 31 South William Street, running through to 37 to

SAYS O'LEARY GOT $5,000 FROM ALBERT

Wiener, Recently Arrested as an Enemy Alien, Declares He Gave Him the Money.

FORUMS TO FAVOR GERMANY

Witness Testifies O'Leary Suggested They Be Held Under Auspices of American Truth Society.

The trial of Jeremiah A. O'Leary and others before Federal Judge A. N. Hand for alleged violation of the Espionage act was enlivened yesterday by the introduction of a new Government witness, Arthur Wiener, a native of Germany, who was arrested a few days ago by officers of the Department of Justice and sent to Ellis Island as a dangerous enemy alien. Wiener declared he first met O'Leary in 1914 after a lecture the latter had delivered in Carnegie Hall on the "American Press." He called on O'Leary and there was talk in which both agreed the newspapers of this country had failed to present a proper picture of the war. O'Leary, he added, appeared to be much provoked with the American public and also spoke harshly of German-Americans.

Money was subscribed to carry out this idea and it was agreed that the forums should be conducted under the auspices of the American Truth Society.

The witness said that at meetings between him, O'Leary, and others, it was suggested that at the forums neutrality, the exportation of munitions, and the sinking of the Lusitania should be discussed.

Arthur O'Leary wanted to know whether the witness had ever discussed with O'Leary any matter involving $5,000, and he replied "Yes." It then appeared that in the Spring of 1915 the witness had given O'Leary $5,000 for the purpose of the American Truth Society and had told O'Leary that the money came from Dr. Albert.

Wiener denied that he had taken any part in German propaganda. He had been told by O'Leary, he testified, that he could draw against the $5,000, but that he had not done so. The money, or some of it, was turned over to Gustav Dapsloss, the Treasurer of the society.

Rudolph Cronau, a naturalized German, who described himself as an artist and author, testified that he met O'Leary in 1914 and had a talk with him about establishing a magazine. He said O'Leary estimated that $25,000 would be enough for the purpose.

"O'Leary asked me," continued the witness, "if I had connection with friendly German-Americans who would provide the money. He suggested that as I had the entree to Count von Bernstorff I might invite him to join in the enterprise. I had seen the Count once or twice, but I did not think he would favor such a proposition."

"Did you take the matter up with Count von Bernstorff?"

Yes, sir."

"Did you report to O'Leary?"

"I told him that Count von Bernstorff had turned the matter over to Dr. Dernburg, and in about two weeks I reported that the subject did not interest Dr. Dernburg."

The trial will be continued this morning, when Mrs. Leo C. Kelly, who was O'Leary's secretary during the palmy days when Bull was increasing in circulation and in anti-American virulence, will be questioned concerning the source of many of the most bitter editorials and of talks in the office concerning the policy of the magazine.

FOUR MEN IN AUTOS ROB BRONX SALOONS

TAKE $80 FROM SHOEMAKER

Escaped in Green Automobile Similar to One Used in Queens Robberies.

Four bandits with a green automobile similar to that used in the hold-up of trolley cars in Queens early yesterday, went through the Bronx last night between 9 and 10 o'clock, and their progress was recorded on the blotters of three station houses, for they held up two saloons and a shoemaker's shop.

There were about twenty persons in the café of Frank Sternberger in Melrose Avenue at 162d Street when a green touring car drew up at the curb and three men got out. They were of medium height. They went in the front door, and as two advanced toward the bar one took a position near the door, and with drawn revolver ordered "Hands up!" The order was repeated by one of the men at the bar, and while they kept the crowd covered the third man robbed the cash register of $80 and took from Henry Mangel his gold watch and chain. They, assisted by the man near the door, went through the patrons of the place. They got small amounts from each. One man saved $80 by dropping it on the floor beside him.

The second holdup came about twenty minutes later. Rocco Savarese, who keeps a shoe shop at 1,750 Monroe Avenue, two miles north of the Sternberger place, reported to the police that three men who got out of a green automobile came into his place, backed him into a rear room with revolvers, took $80 from him and departed.

The third robbery was reported about fifteen minutes later. Three men, who came in a green automobile, entered the saloon of Thomas P. White, at 1,138 Tremont Avenue. The operations carried out in the first saloon were repeated here. The thieves took $91 and the proprietor's watch.

It was a big automobile painted green which carried bandits who early yesterday morning held up the crews of two B. R. T. trolley cars in Queens and attempted to hold up a third, the motorman of which put on speed and got away.

The bandits stalled their car on the North Beach Boulevard, between North Beach and Corona, at 3:45 o'clock in the morning, compelling a trolley car to stop. Masked and armed with revolvers, they took $7 from Conductor Olaf Hendrickson, and a silver watch from the motorman, Carl Kline. There were no passengers in the car. They then drove away.

Half an hour later four of them boarded a car at Main Street and Bradford Avenue, Flushing. One of them held a revolver to the motorman, and ordered him to start his car.

The other then took $35 from the conductor, Frank P. Smith, and the only passenger in the car, a Fort Totten soldier, was robbed of $6.

Owners Are Better Guides Than Specifications

Nothing our salesmen can say about the Willys-Knight motor car can be as convincing as the statements of Willys-Knight owners. The man who has driven a Willys-Knight car thousands of miles becomes so enthusiastic over the sleeve-valve motor that he is rarely ever content until he prevails upon his friends to profit by his experience. The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor is so ungrudging and unflagging in its performance that it has come to be known as the motor that always runs. The staunch allegiance of Willys-Knight owners has given rise to the expression—"Once a Willys-Knight owner always a Willys-Knight owner."
